Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 24th October 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 21ST OF OCTOBER 1893.

THE easterly wind circulation which was a prominent feature of the weather during the previous week continued without a break during the present one, and was accompanied by continuous showery weather in all districts. The low pressure in the west of the Bay, to which this was due, intensified, and a shallow depression developed in the early part of the week off the coast of the Circars. The depression was never of great depth, the difference from the normal being only ·16 inch when the area of lowest pressure drifted across the coast in a westerly direction, but its influence was well marked in two respects—(1) in causing squally weather in the Bay, (2) in leading to the unusually heavy rainfall in the western districts, and especially in North Bihar. The depression became noticeable on the first day of the week, though pressure was then rising except at Coconada and Masulipatam, and it was well defined on the following day. Though there was no large change of pressure on that day, the moderate fall in the west of the Bay and the brisk rise in Burmah and Assam led to considerably steeper gradients from west to east and a well-defined cyclonic circulation over a wide area. General rain then fell in all districts, but especially in the western half of the province, and temperature was above the normal only in North Bengal and Bihar. The depression moved to the west into Central India, but as a well-defined trough of low pressure lay north and south, the area of lowest pressure afterwards took a northerly direction, passing over the North-Western Provinces and breaking up on reaching the adjacent part of the Himalayan range. In consequence of this northerly direction of motion, showery weather continued in Bengal on the 17th and 18th, and on the 19th, the day after the depression had disappeared, general unsettled weather with numerous local thunderstorms and very heavy rainfall prevailed along the hills and in the adjacent plains. Most of the stations in North Bihar reported between 5 and 10 inches on that date. In the Darjeeling Hills the rainfall was not so heavy, the average fall being between 3 and 4 inches.

On the 17th and 18th conditions in the south-east of the Bay again became unsettled, but there was no definite disturbance till the 19th, when stormy weather developed rather rapidly to the west of Diamond Island. A depression of no great extent but of much greater depth and intensity nearer the centre than the one in the early part of the week moved rather rapidly into the centre of the northern half of the Bay on the 21st, the last day of the week. Though a diffused low pressure area was then shown by the observations taken at the coast stations, there was no sign of stormy weather except at Diamond Island up till the end of the week, and the depth of the depression or the character of the resulting storm could not be estimated.

Pressure has been slightly below the normal in the western districts owing to the shallow depression which affected the weather in the province and the west of the Bay during the first half of the week. Changes were seldom more than ·05 inch except on the 17th and 18th, when there was a fairly rapid rise in Orissa and the Circars. After the original depression broke up on reaching the hills on the 19th, a slight residual low pressure area moved eastward across North Bihar and North Bengal, where it was fairly well defined on the 20th, but on the 21st it had entirely disappeared.

Temperature.—In the early part of the week mean temperature was above the normal over the whole province by amounts varying from 1° in the southern districts to 4° in the west of Bihar. As the unsettled rainy weather developed and spread northwards, temperature fell, and by the middle of the week there was defect at most stations, but chiefly in the day readings. When the heavy rain fell in Bihar there was a large fall of temperature, defect in maximum readings being more than 10° in places. In Assam and the eastern half of the province the mean for the week is about half a degree above the normal, but in the other districts there is defect, greatest in Chota Nagpur and Orissa where it is 1°.

Rainfall.—As stated above, almost general rain fell in all districts except on the last day of the week, when the indraught towards the low pressure area which had then formed in the east of the Bay gave northerly instead of the easterly winds hitherto prevailing. The heavy fall in Orissa is due to the continued moderate rain during the first five days, and the similar amounts in Chota Nagpur and Bihar to the northerly direction taken by the disturbance which commenced on the 17th. The average fall in Orissa is 5·5 inches, in North Bihar 5·2 inches, the latter being about twelve times the normal; Chota Nagpur and South Bihar received between three and four inches, or more than six times the normal; while in the other districts excess was smaller, varying from ·6 inch in Lower Bengal to 1·6 inches in North Bengal.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 21st of October 1893:—

The average fall of the corresponding period for 24 years, Surveyor-General's Office		62·57

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

OBSERVATIONS.—The maintenance of Army reserves in India greatly increases the offensive and defensive power of the Indian Army, and binds to the British Government a proportion of the trained soldiers who pass through the Native Army annually, and who would otherwise pass from the Army into the general population. By the system of maintaining reserves a number of men are kept by periodical training in a state of military efficiency, thereby ensuring an economical increase to the power of the army in India, by means of which regiments ordered on field service can obtain at once a supply of disciplined soldiers to fill vacancies caused by casualties and to take the places of invalids or others sent to the depôt.

2. It is important that every reasonable facility for attending their annual training should be given to reservists to admit of their being kept in a state of efficiency, and it was with a view to secure this object that the opinions of Local Governments and Administrations were called for as to the feasibility of the proposal that reservists in the employ of Government should, when called up for their annual month's training, be allowed to furnish a substitute, if necessary.

3. In the reports received, it is generally agreed that the proposal is feasible. The Public Works Department, however, points out that reservists employed as pointsmen, signalmen, &c., on railways could not not provide efficient substitutes, as these posts require technical knowledge, and reservists could not therefore be given such appointments, as they could not be spared from their posts in time of war. The Home Department also states that reservists cannot be employed as jail warders, as it would be impossible to find efficient substitutes, more especially because, in accordance with the recommendations of the Jail Committee, jail warders will, in future, be specially trained men.

RESOLUTION.—After a careful consideration of these reports, it has been decided that all reservists in Government employ, except as specified below, shall be given one month's leave annually to attend for training on condition that they shall pay for a substitute, and themselves procure one if required to do so.

2. This decision does not apply to reservists employed in posts of the kind marginally noted. Men employed in these capacities will only be given leave when convenient.

Men employed on railways in posts requiring technical knowledge or training, such as pointsmen, signalmen, and gangmen.
Forest guards.

3. Reservists, except men of the garrison reserve, which is no longer called out for training, should not be permanently employed in any of the above capacities unless they agree to obtain their final discharge on being appointed to a permanent post of the kind specified above. They will not be eligible for employment as jail warders at all, nor in any capacity on the staff of the North-Western or Oudh and Rohilkhand Railways, unless they obtain their final discharge on appointment.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be communicated to all Local Governments, Administrations, and Departments concerned, with a request that it may be published in all local gazettes, and that all private employers of labour in districts under the control of the several Local Governments and Administrations be asked to conform, if possible, to the wishes of the Government of India as set forth above.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, the 16th October 1893.

No. 3718.—In exercise of the power conferred by Act I of 1870, the following Rules for Quarantine against Cholera have been made by the Government of Bombay with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council: they have effect from the 10th instant in the Ports of Aden, Perim, and the Somali Coast as a temporary measure:—

I.—The commander of every vessel, including buggalows or other native craft, arriving from all ports on the Arabian Coast of the Red Sea shall, before entering the harbour, indicate by signal the port from which such vessel has come.

II.—Such commander shall not, except as hereinafter provided, allow any communication either with the pilot boat, except orally, or with the shore, or with any other vessel or boat in the harbour.

III.—Immediately on arrival the commander shall cause the letter R of the Commercial Signal Code to be hoisted, and shall keep the said flag flying during his stay in port or until authorized by the Health Officer to haul it down. If communication with the shore is not desired, the vessel shall anchor at such place as may be pointed out by the Port authorities, having regard to the season of the year. If communication with the shore is desired, the Health Officer shall go alongside the vessel, and, after all necessary enquiries, shall direct the commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage duly appointed and notified in that behalf by the Resident, there to remain for a period of seven days from the date of arrival, or for the shorter period prescribed in Rule IV, and undergo disinfection which should apply as well to crew, passengers, effects, and susceptible goods.

IV.—If the Health Officer of the Port has sufficient evidence that no cases of a suspicious nature have taken place on board during the voyage, and if the vessel is, besides, in good hygienic condition, the duration of the quarantine will be diminished according to the following scale:—

After eight days of voyage	...	...	Six days of quarantine.
Do. nine	ditto	...	...	Five ditto.
Do. ten	ditto	...	...	Four ditto.
Do. eleven	ditto	...	...	Three ditto.
Do. twelve	ditto	...	...	Two ditto.
Do. thirteen	ditto and upwards		...	Twenty-four hours of quarantine.

V.—If during the period a vessel is at the quarantine anchorage aforesaid any case or cases of cholera should occur on board, the said vessel shall remain in quarantine for a period of seven days from the date of the last case occurring, and be subject to all the prohibitions provided for in Rule III.

VI.—When any vessel has been placed in quarantine as aforesaid, the Health Officer may direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from illness, and whose services may not be required on board the vessel, to such particular spots as may from time to time be selected by the Resident as places of quarantine, there to remain for a period of seven days. If a case of cholera occurs among such passengers and crew during any such period, they shall remain in a place of quarantine for a period of fifteen days from the date of the occurrence of the last case of such illness.

VII.—Any mails or cargo which may be brought by any vessel so arriving shall be landed under such precautions as the Health Officer may deem necessary to prevent the spread of the disease.

VIII.—It will be the duty of the Port Officer to facilitate the conveyance to all vessels in quarantine of such supplies of provisions, stores, and other articles as may be required by those on board. Such supplies will be placed on the boats of the vessels in quarantine, to be subsequently removed by members of their crews.

IX.—All vessels arriving at Aden, Perim, and the Somali Coast, which may have communicated with vessels coming from all ports on the Arabian Coast of the Red Sea shall be subjected to the same quarantine as vessels arriving at Aden, Perim, and the Somali Coast from such ports.

X.—All vessels which have undergone quarantine in the manner above prescribed should have the fact clearly stated on their bills-of-health.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

REVISED ADVERTISEMENT.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India
BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,
Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, and III of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, or which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets; &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI, (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No 453 of 1893) of the existence of the undermentioned shoals lying in the approach to Coughlan harbour from the north-west:—

(a) A coral shoal, about 200 yards long in a north-east and south-west direction, and 80 yards broad, with 5 fathoms water on it, lies with the west extreme of Guadalcanar island, bearing S. 11° W., distant 5 miles, and Levalea islet, N. 73° W.

Approximate position, lat. 9° 14′ 30″ S., long. 159°35′ E.

(b) Three patches, with estimated depths of 6 fathoms on them, were seen about 4 cables north-west of Sow and Pig reefs, and lying parallel with them. The note on the plan of Coughlan harbour has therefore been altered from "estimated depth about 10 fathoms" to "about 6 fathoms."

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE PATNA DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1892-93.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.—MISCELLANEOUS.

RESOLUTION.—No. 688T.—G.

READ—

The General Administration Report of the Commissioner of Patna for 1892-93.

Read also—

The Administration Report for 1891-92 and Resolution thereon.

Mr. D. R. Lyall was in charge of the Division from 1st April to 24th May, and was succeeded by the late Mr. Worsley, whose much lamented death occurred a fortnight later. Mr. Hopkins was in charge from the 6th to the 23rd June, and Mr. Forbes, by whom this report is submitted, for the rest of the year.

Tours and inspections.

2. Under existing orders, Commissioners are required to be on tour at least four months in the year, to spend at least a fortnight in each district, and to inspect every Collector's office and every sub-divisional office. The Commissioner of Patna was on tour for the prescribed period, but was unable to inspect the Saran district offices and the sub-divisional offices of Jahanabad, Barh, Dinapore, Siwan, and Gopalganj. Mr. Forbes says that the requirements of Government in this respect cannot be fulfilled in his Division, in which distances are great and camp equipment and stores have often to be taken in bullock carts, thus causing serious waste of time. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor admits that the inspection of all offices in the Patna Division is in average years difficult to accomplish consistently with the due despatch of the Commissioner's own onerous office duties at Bankipore. He has no doubt whatever that Mr. Forbes did as much as could, in the interests of general efficiency, be done in the way of inspection.

The Collectors of Patna, Gaya, and Shahabad, which are classified as large districts, should under the standing orders spend four months, and the Collectors of the other districts of the Division at least three months, every year on tour. Mr. Macpherson, the Collector of Gaya, complied with these orders and appears to have made useful tours and thorough inspections. The tours of the Collectors of Patna fell 10 days short of the prescribed minimum.

The Collectors of Shahabad were 124 days in camp; but out of this period a month was spent by Mr. Skrine at Dumraon in making preparations for an Agricultural Show. The Agricultural Show at Dumraon was not of such importance that it need have taken a month of the Collector's time to make preparations for it, and the Commissioner would have been justified in shortening the Collector's stay at Dumraon. The sub-divisional offices in this district were inspected only once in the year, which is unsatisfactory.

The Collectors of other districts spent more than the minimum prescribed periods in camp, and made biennial inspections of their sub-divisional offices; but it is not stated, except in the case of Mr. Hopkins, whether, as required by the Board's rules, they in the course of their tours inspected Government and Wards' estates and the settlements in progress in their districts. Such inspections are, in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, of great importance, and special reference should be made to them in future reports.

All Sub-divisional Officers appear to have complied with the orders of Government in regard to the duration of their tours.

Weather and crops.

3. The average rainfall for the whole Division (45·53 inches) was slightly above the normal, the fall in Champaran being considerably, that in Patna and Darbhanga slightly above, and that in the other districts a little below, the normal. The rainfall was not, however, well distributed, being less than a fourth of the normal in May, followed by a heavy fall in the second week of June, and by dry weather for the rest of that month. The monsoon did not really break before the end of June. July was normal, the rainfall in August was almost double the normal, there was an untimely cessation of the rains in September, and a general failure of the hateya rains in October.

The bhadoi crops, which were backward owing to the late setting in of the monsoon, were in many places drowned by the excessive rains of August. The failure of the hateya rains affected the winter rice, which promised to be a bumper one, but turned out, according to the Commissioner's estimate, to be only a 12 to 13 anna crop. A larger area than usual was sown under rabi crops, and on the whole these crops promised well to the end of February, when several days of abnormally wet stormy weather, followed in March by east winds and damp cloudy weather, caused much damage and reduced the outturn to about 12 annas, or three-fourths of an average crop. The outturn of indigo was only half that of the previous year, and opium yielded only a 14-anna crop. The Commissioner remarks that the total produce of all crops of the year was somewhat above the average, a remark which is a little unintelligible, seeing that the yield of each harvest and of each crop in turn is said to have been less than the average.

Prices of food and wages.

4. Though the price of food-grains has, owing to the opening out of railways and roads and other causes, risen greatly in this Division in the past twenty years, there yet appears to be no corresponding rise in the wages of unskilled agricultural labour. The wage of a common cooly is said to be now, as it was eighty years ago, $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ annas a day. This fact is all the more remarkable when it is remembered that in the districts of Dacca, Backergunge, Tippera, and Noakhali, which are almost as thickly populated as Bihar, nobody will work for less than 5 to 6 annas per day. The explanation probably lies in the facts that wages in Bihar are still largely regulated by custom, that an element of compulsion still exists in some parts, and that many of the labourers hold patches of land which bind them down to the locality in which they live, "enabling them to exist upon smaller wages and to carry on their multiplication so much the further before reaching the point below which they cannot or will not descend."

Public health.

5. The year was a particularly unhealthy one. A widespread and malignant epidemic of cholera occurred during the hot weather months. The exceptionally early dry season is supposed to have given rise to malarial emanations from the drying up of lands which in other years remained covered with water, and the undoubtedly straitened circumstances of a large number of the population assisted, according to Mr. Hare, the Collector of Muzaffarpur, the spread of cholera, fever, and other diseases. The wells also ran low, and the water available for drinking was impure.

The rate of registered deaths was 36·5 per thousand as against 29·3 in the preceding year. Part of this increase is, however, attributed to improvements made in the system of registration of vital statistics.

Material condition of the people.

6. Much has been written as to the depressed condition of the masses of the people of this Division. The northern part of the Division is the blackest of the black spots in the famine map; wages are low; rents high, the population dense, poor and badly fed; distress and rumours of distress and starting of relief works are ever recurring characteristics of the local officers' annual reports. In the year under review, owing to widespread failure of the preceding year's rice and rabi crops, relief works had to be opened in the second week of March in Darbhanga and Muzaffarpur. By the middle of May no less than 22,000 people were on these relief works in Darbhanga, and 6,300 in Muzaffarpur, while by the end of the 1st week of June the numbers rose to 43,470 in the former and 14,147 in the latter district. Had the rains of 1891-92 not been favourable, as they happily were on the whole, "there is no doubt," Mr. Forbes remarks, "that famine would have at once crushed down upon these districts." The material condition of the people in Darbhanga and Muzaffarpur, especially during the first few months of the year, was, the Commissioner says, reduced to a low ebb, and their physical condition fell off in a marked degree, and this, Mr. Forbes adds, was particularly noticeable among the children. Though there were no deaths reported from actual starvation, the mortality among the old and infirm necessarily increased for want of proper nutrition. The Collector of Darbhanga, Mr. Williams, says "there can be no doubt that had the authorities not come to the rescue, the deaths from actual want of food would have been numerous." The state of things affords a sad commentary on the assertions which have been made that Government, in its endeavours to improve the agrarian system and impose some check on enhancements of rent in North Bihar, is unnecessarily interfering with private rights.

As bearing on the material condition of the people, Mr. Forbes notices that the registrations, sales, and mortgages of properties valued at Rs. 100 and upwards increased from 100,010 during the five years preceding the passing of the Tenancy Act to 157,130 during the five following years, while similar transactions in the case of petty properties valued at less than Rs. 100 increased from 57,466 to 197,489. As the Tenancy Act made no change in the previous law regarding the transfer of tenures and holdings, the increased number of transfers only indicates increasing indebtedness and poverty of the raiyats, and the greater necessity that there is for assiduous watchfulness on the part of Government and the local officers in protecting them in the exercise of their legal rights.

Emigration and Immigration.

7. The number of emigrants from the Division registered during the year was 2,695 to the Colonies and 1,211 to the tea districts —total 3,906—a number so insignificant that it may be safely asserted that emigration as a means of alleviating the condition of Bihar may, for the immediate future, be wholly left out of consideration. There is, apart from registered emigration, a considerable amount of unregistered emigration to the Duars and Assam, and a large annual exodus of labourers to the districts of Eastern Bengal for temporary employment. This annual migration, which resembles closely the annual migration to England of harvesters from the congested counties of Ireland, is a source of much benefit to the people of Bihar. It has been fostered and facilitated by the improvements in road and railway communications which have made such great progress in recent years.

Manufacture, Trade and Commerce.

8. Omitting opium, the principal manufactures are indigo and saltpetre. The outturn of indigo was only 42,404 maunds as against 83,000 in the previous year, but the value was about Rs. 30,000 per 100 maunds against Rs. 18,000 in 1891-92.

Speaking generally, trade was dull. Owing to fairly good harvests the importations of food-grains were less than in the preceding year, while owing to previous depletion of local food-stocks, there was less available for exportation.

The exports of salt to Nepal increased from 36,373 maunds in 1890-91 to maunds 1,00,724 in 1891-92 and to 1,72,528 in 1892-93. The increase is said to be due to the fact that the Nepalese now obtain their salt from British territory instead of Thibet.

Civil Justice.

9. The total number of original suits disposed of by District Judges and Subordinate Judges was 2,898 against 2,870 in 1891-92.

The following table shows the working of the Munsif's courts:—

District.	Sub-division or chauki.	Description of Court.	Number of officers.	Number of original cases disposed of.		Details of cases in columns 5A and 5B			Number of witnesses examined. * The fraction means that an officer was employed for the fractional part of the year.
† Disposed of by the Subdivisional Officer of Bhabua.

The number of money suits shows an increase of 1,485, and that of rent suits a decrease of 607 as compared with the previous year. With a population of 15,811,014 persons, mainly agricultural, the total number of rent suits was 17,140, or little more than 1 per thousand of the population, or say one suit for every 200 holdings, while the Chittagong Division shows 31,237 rent suits, with a population of only 4,189,886, or 7 per thousand of the population, or one case for every 28 holdings. The great disparity in these figures indicates clearly either that rents are easily paid in Bihar, or that other methods than recourse to the civil courts are resorted to in order to realize them. The probability is that the latter explanation is the true one.

The average number of cases disposed of by each Stipendiary Magistrate was 326, the smallest number being at Arrah. Five other courts also fell below 200 cases per officer, all but one of which were at head-quarters.

The ratio per cent. of witnesses detained by Stipendiary Magistrates over two days to the total number examined was 5·4 as against 5; and by Honorary Magistrates 3·35 as against 1·8 in the previous year. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor regrets to have to notice a falling off in this respect, especially in Jahanabad, Hajipur and Barh, where 22·4, 16·8 and 10·7 per cent. respectively of the witnesses were detained for more than two days.

The number of cognizable offences reported increased from 32,946 in 1891-92 to 40,035 in the year under review, or by more than 21 per cent. The number of non-cognizable offences also increased from 17,922 to 18,920. The increase in cognizable crime was partly due to the prevailing distress in Gaya, Darbhanga, Muzaffarpur and Patna, and partly to the greater activity on the part of the police, District Boards, and Municipal Commissioners in prosecuting for public nuisances, and offences against bye-laws.

There were 18 cases of drugging during the year, of which 8 occurred in Saran, and 2 of these were committed with datura, the medium being tobacco, by a lad of 18 years, who was proved to have been at the trade for years. An alarming outbreak of dacoity occurred in Gaya, which, however, has been suppressed by an organised system of police patrols, and by requiring a number of the most dangerous bad characters to give security for good behaviour.

Of the Mugheya Domes, who are the most inveterate criminals of the Division, 91 absconded from their settlements, and 31 were convicted of housebreaking and theft. The total number of reported offences is 58,955 with a population of nearly 16 millions, or about 3½ per thousand.

11. The statement below gives the attendance of Honorary Magistrates by districts:—

The attendance of the Honorary Magistrates has been fairly satisfactory, though there is room for improvement.

The number of documents registered increased from 114,806 in 1891-92 to 126,686 in the year 1892-93. This increase is shared by all districts except Saran, where there was an unusually large number of registrations in 1889-90, and is no doubt largely due to the advancing popularity of the system. There was a marked increase in Darbhanga, "owing mainly," the Collector says, "to the prevalence of scarcity and to the registration of cultivators' leases in favour of the Maharaja of Darbhanga, the Mohant of Panchbari, Rai Gunga Pershad, and the Babus of Madhubani, probably in anticipation of the cadastral survey operations about to begin in the district." The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor has lately had one of these so-called leases, or sharanamahs, submitted to him in connection with a question of stamp duty, and regrets to have to notice that some of the conditions contained in it were wholly inconsistent with the law.

The current collections of revenue in permanently-settled estates, class I, for the Division as a whole amounted to only 95·3 per cent on the current demand. The prescribed standard, 99 per cent, was only reached in Darbhanga and Champaran, while in Patna the realizations on account of the current year's demand amounted to only 88·7, and in Shahabad to 90·17 per cent. of the current demand. These results cannot be said to be satisfactory. The short collections are attributed to the bad rabi harvest; but seeing that the Commissioner reports that the harvests on the whole were little if at all below the average, the Lieutenant-Governor considers that no sufficient reason has been given for failure to realize the Government revenue. The attention of the Board of Revenue will be specially drawn to the matter.

The arrear collections were also below the prescribed standard in Gaya, Saran and Champaran. In the last-named district there is a large outstanding balance owing to embezzlements now under enquiry. In the case of estates temporarily settled (class II), the collections were in every district below the standard of 95 per cent., and were particularly bad in both Government and private estates leased to farmers. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor does not understand why there should be any difficulty in realizing Government dues from these farmers, and does not see what merits there can be in this system of management if it does not secure the punctual payment of the revenue.

The realizations in estates managed by Government direct (class III) were also far below the standard prescribed for this class, which is 90 per cent., the collections for the Division as a whole being only 67·46 per cent. in estates managed for proprietors, and 76·40 in estates owned by Government as proprietor. In Darbhanga alone was the standard reached, while in Saran the collections amounted only to 58·31, and in Gaya 66·44 of the demand.

Taking the Division as a whole, the demand of land revenue, current and arrear, was Rs. 87,16,834, and the collections Rs. 81,57,728, leaving an outstanding balance, after deducting remissions, of Rs. 5,43,966, or Rs. 24,690 in excess of that of the previous year. This is not satisfactory, and calls for the special attention of the Board of Revenue.

Road and Public Works Cesses.

16. Out of a gross demand of Rs. 31,95,446, a sum of Rs. 25,76,807 was realized and Rs. 6,031 remitted, leaving a balance at the close of the year of Rs. 6,12,608. Compared with the previous year there was an improvement, except in Darbhanga and Champaran; but it is curious to note that Shahabad, which fell so far short of the prescribed standards in the realization of the Government revenue, alone reached that standard in the collection of cesses. The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad to know whether in the Shahabad district there was any priority given to cesses in the crediting of moneys paid in.

Sales.

17. Eight thousand and eight estates and shares of estates became liable to sale, but of these 337 or 4·2 per cent. were actually sold. It is clear that the Sale Law was worked with leniency.

* This total does not agree with the grand total for 1891-92 given by the Commissioner

The total number of certificates issued increased from 36,505 to 44,146. It was only in Muzaffarpur and Gaya that the disposals kept pace with the institutions. The bulk of these certificates were issued for the recovery of cesses under Act IX of 1880, and the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that the issue of certificates for recovery of rent in Wards' and Government estates was sparingly resorted to.

19. The disposals exceeded the institutions in all districts except Gaya.

Partitions.

Sir Antony MacDonnell trusts that the orders recently issued by the Board, under Sir Charles Elliott's instructions, will cause partitions to be carried on in a systematic manner, and that care will be taken that these proceedings are not allowed to be abused, as they hitherto have been, for the purpose of bringing about illegal and improper enhancements of rent.

Working of the Tenancy Act.

20. Under this head the Commissioner notices that 889 notices were given by landlords under section 87 of the Act of their intention to treat holdings as abandoned; 116 of these were in Darbhanga and 667 in Champaran, against 6 in the former and none in the latter during the previous year. This is by no means a satisfactory feature of the year's report, for the voluntary desertion of their holdings by tenants indicates either that they had no substantial interest in their lands, or that they were so heavily embarrassed that they found it necessary to go away by stealth. This "absconding" of tenants, which is one of the well-known results of scarcity in North Bihar, should be closely watched by the local officers.

Excise, Stamps, and Income-tax.

21. The excise revenue increased by Rs. 1,43,266, that from stamps by Rs. 17,899, and the demand for income-tax by Rs. 11,827. The following table gives the excise statistics of the year:—

The comparatively high rate of incidence per head of the population in Gaya, is noticeable, as Gaya, owing to the prevalence of the baouli or metayer rent system, is in a depressed condition. But undoubtedly Darbhanga is very wretched, and this is indicated by the inability of the people to afford any luxuries. The insignificance of the revenue from opium in the great opium-producing area is remarkable. Either the people are not opium-consumers, or they manage to secrete from the produce of their fields sufficient for their wants. The Lieutenant-Governor thinks the people of Bihar are not opium-consumers to any considerable extent. There may be some secretion of opium, but the opinion is that it cannot be considerable.

Note.—Percentages in column 14 include boys in private institutions.

The total number of public schools in the Division fell from 6,389 to 6,025 and of pupils from 158,431 to 151,293. The decrease was principally in the lower primary schools in Gaya, Shahabad, and Saran, and is attributed to the agricultural distress, the withdrawal of fixed stipends from several schools under the system of payment by results, and to the subordinate inspecting staff having rigidly enforced the new rules regarding the grant of rewards.

The percentage of boys at schools, public and private, to the total number of a school-going age, in the Division as a whole, is 15·2, while in Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga, and Shahabad not one boy in every nine is at school who ought to be there. Primary education is miserably backward in these districts, and does not appear to be making any substantial progress.

The cost of education per head ranged from Rs. 27-0-7 in Patna to Rs. 16-3-9 in Darbhanga in high schools, from Rs. 12-10-8 to Rs. 9-13-7 in middle schools, and in primary schools from Rs. 2-13-10 to Re. 1-11-9. In primary schools, the average cost per pupil for the whole Division was Rs. 2-5-3, or nearly double as much as the average cost (Re. 1-6) in the Chittagong Division.

Comparing the totals for the entire Division with those for Chittagong, it appears that in the whole of the Patna Division, with a population nearly four times as large as that of Chittagong, the number of boys at school was actually smaller in the former than in the latter Division, while the expenditure from Provincial Revenues, District Boards and Municipal Funds, and the receipts from fees, were nearly double as much again as in the Chittagong Division. The remarkable disparity in the relative numbers of pupils and the cost of educating them in these two Divisions is a matter that should engage the attention of the Educational authorities. No effort should be spared to push on education in Bihar, both of the secondary and primary kind. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor has noticed with great regret how few natives of Bihar are holding judicial or executive appointments of dignity or emolument in their own Province. The number he believes is actually less now than it was some years ago. This is not as it should be, and if the backwardness of the Province in this respect is due to educational disadvantages, an effort should be made to redress the grievance.

Though the Division is most backward in the matter of education, it takes a high place in respect of dispensaries and medical aid. Great zamindars, such as the Maharajas of Darbhanga and Hutwa, and the Maharani of Bettiah, keep up dispensaries at their own expense, and District Boards and Municipalities are also very liberal in supporting such institutions. The total number of patients treated was 494,087, or more than three times the number of pupils at school; the total expenditure being Rs. 1,21,939, equal to nearly four times the expenditure on dispensaries in the Chittagong Division.

The Lady Dufferin Female Hospital at Darbhanga was efficiently managed, and the Dufferin Hospital at Bettiah was opened by the Lieutenant-Governor shortly after the much lamented death of the late Maharaja of Bettiah, who also made grants for four dispensaries in the interior of his estates. Dr. Miss Grace Mackinnon and her assistant, Miss Gregory, have established a private charitable dispensary in the heart of the city of Patna, and are building a hospital. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor is informed that Raja Rameswar Singh has also taken steps to establish a women's hospital in his estate in the north of the Darbhanga district.

Local Self-Government Institutions—
Municipalities, District Boards, Honorary Magistrates' Benches.

24. The Gaya, Muzaffarpur, Champaran and Saran Municipalities are reported to have worked satisfactorily. A scheme for the supply of filtered water to the Arrah Municipality at an estimated cost of Rs. 4,17,786 was sanctioned by Government during the year. The general working of the Darbhanga Municipality has for some time been anything but satisfactory. The Magistrate writes: "None of the Commissioners take any interest in its affairs. The work of revision of assessment was done in a perfunctory manner. The taxes have not been collected. The establishment is too large and does nothing, and it is impossible to imagine the chaos into which things have drifted." The matter has been taken up by Mr. Williams, the present Magistrate, and the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor hopes that he will insist on these abuses being remedied without delay.

Sir Antony MacDonnell is glad to observe that District Boards have on the whole worked satisfactorily and smoothly, and that the Commissioner is in a position to report that many of the members who sit in the various Committees are assiduous in the discharge of their duties, and transact public business conscientiously and well.

The Commissioner gave much attention during his tours to the work of most of the Benches in the Division, but on the whole was not favourably impressed with them. The chief fault he found was irregularity of attendance, resulting in frequent remands, causing much harassment to litigants. He recommends that appointments to the rank of Honorary Magistrates should, following the rule of other Local Self-Government institutions, be made for a term of years, and that the continuance of the honour should depend on the honest fulfilment of the duties of the office. The matter will be considered separately.

Public feeling. Social and political institutions.

25. In connection with the state of public feeling, the Commissioner writes that the relations between indigo planters and raiyats have been satisfactory; and from his previous knowledge of Bihar, Sir Antony MacDonnell attributes this improved condition of things to the influence of the Indigo Planters' Association, which has been used as much in the interests of the Government as of the industry itself.

On the general condition of public feeling in the Division, Mr. Forbes writes as follows:—

"I remarked in last year's report that the Gorakshini Sabha is in theory a humane and harmless institution, having for its object the protection of the lives of cattle. At Gaya, Shahabad, Muzafferpur, Patna, Darbhanga, and possibly other places,—though the reports are silent on this point,—panjrapoles have been established, in which a considerable number of neglected and starving cattle are housed and cared for. If the operations of the Society ended here, it would be entitled to our full sympathy and support. But unfortunately that is not the case. There is a tendency in some places among its promoters to promulgate its doctrines in an ostentatious and aggressive manner, with the result of exciting much ill-feeling between the Muhammadan and Hindu communities. Action of this kind is most unwise, in the interest of the society itself, and also seriously endangers the public peace. If the object of the propagandists solely be to put a stop to cow-slaughter and in no way to foster religious animosity, they have singularly failed in their intention. As might have been expected, the result, wherever feeling has run high, has been to incite the Muhammadan community to retaliate by sacrificing, at the Bakrid festival, more cows than ever. If the members of the Sabha are wise, they will in future be careful to confine their attention to purely practical measures, such as the establishment and support of panjrapoles, and they will firmly discountenance any attempt at propagandism. It is useless to disseminate doctrines among the Hindus which they already religiously hold, and the only possible result of any agitation of the kind referred to will be to excite ill-feeling on the part of their Muhammadan fellow-countrymen.

"Unfortunately the above advice has not, until quite lately, been attended to. On the contrary, the promoters of the Sabha, especially in the Gaya and Patna districts, throughout the year under review, permitted the agitation * * * to continue unchecked. The result has been a series of riots, chiefly in Gaya, on the estates of certain landlords, whose names need not be mentioned here. The first of these riots occurred on the 16th April of the present year close to thana Masourhi in the Patna district, where a convoy of nearly 300 cattle in charge of an agent of the Commissariat Department, Dinapur, and several butchers, escorted by three constables from the Gaya reserve, were attacked on their way to the cantonment by a large and excited mob of Hindus, as they were about to cross the Poon Poon river. They managed to escape with the drove back to the thana, with the loss of one head of cattle only, which the rioters carried of, and which has not been heard of since. The District Magistrate was informed by telegram of the occurrence, and immediately despatched a Sub-Inspector of Police to enquire into the case. The Sub-Inspector, accompanied by a head-constable and a force of constables, accordingly proceeded to the spot, and made 18 arrests on the identification of the Commissariat Agent and his companions; but as he was returning with the prisoners to the Masourhi thana, the whole of the villages which had joined in the previous day's riot again turned out, and two large mobs armed with lathis, each several hundred strong, came down from different directions upon the convoy, with shouts of "Gow gohar!" severely assaulted the Sub-Inspector and one of his constables, and forcibly rescued all the 18 prisoners. It being evident that strong measures were necessary, the District Magistrate on the following day despatched the District Superintendent of Police with a body of armed police, accompanied by Mr. Assistant Magistrate Carey, with instructions to hold a judicial enquiry on the spot. On their arrival the whole of the guilty villages were found apparently deserted, the inhabitants having absconded, taking their women, children, cattle, and movables with them. All the zamindari amla, who had been present on the preceding day, had also disappeared. On a house-to-house search, however, being made, some 20 men in all were found in various hiding-places, of whom 10 were satisfactorily identified as having taken part in the second attack. These 10 were eventually convicted and sentenced to one year's rigorous imprisonment each, which was upheld in appeal. Of the original prisoners none have yet been re-arrested.

"I have given a full narrative of this case, as it shows the turn which the agitation had taken, and the lengths to which, if unchecked, it would eventually have gone. There can be no doubt but that the ignorant Hindu masses, in endeavouring to prevent kine-slaughter, are swayed by a strong religious feeling. But there can equally be no doubt that they would, as in other matters, have had the sense to understand that they are not responsible for sins committed by others, and would under this consideration have accepted the position quietly, as they have hitherto done, had not the propagandist preachers and their supporters persistently fanned the flame, until the movement had assumed the form not merely of a threatened widespread rising of one class of Her Majesty's subjects against another, but also of open revolt against the constituted authorities.

"Following upon the outbreak at Masourhi, similar riots occurred in quick succession in several places in the Gaya district. In each case a full report of the facts were submitted to Government, with the result that bodies of additional police have been immediately quartered under section 15, Act V of 1861, for one year at the expense of the inhabitants, at Masourhi, in two places in the Gaya Sadar subdivision, in three places in the Aurangabad sub-division, and in one place in the Jahanabad subdivision

"It is to be observed that all these outbreaks bore the same characteristics. Large crowds of Hindus, in a dangerously excited state, suddenly rising against their Muhammadan fellow-subjects in order to forcibly prevent their sacrificing or slaughtering kine for food. In none of the cases referred to were there any signs of an attempt to wound Hindu religious feeling. On the contrary, care was invariably taken that all sacrifices should be performed out of public sight, in strict privacy, this being a matter that has always been strictly insisted on by the authorities.

"All the occurrences referred to above took place shortly before the late Bakrid, the last Government notification under the Police Act, section 15, being dated the 13th June 1893, barely a fortnight before the date for the festival. Fortunately the firm action taken by Government, followed up by the warnings of the local authorities, had the effect of opening the eyes of the responsible parties to the danger of the course they were pursuing. A notorious agitator, Gopalanand Swami, who had come secretly to Gaya a few days before (on the 4th June), after being released from a 2½ years' sentence for heading an anti kine-killing riot in Shahabad, was denounced and ordered off. The President and the Vice-President of the Gaya Gorakshini Sabha resigned office. The Sabha published a circular disclaiming propagandist principles. Finally, the Magistrate of Gaya, who throughout acted with much tact and firmness, was able to obtain the unanimous support, in the interests of order, of the leaders of both sides, Hindu and Muhammadan, and the Bakrid festival passed off without any disturbance throughout the Gaya district. It is only to be hoped that the supporters of the Sabha will continue in their present mind, and beware in future of permitting any further agitation—an agitation which, to say the least, is certainly calculated to do the cause of the Society an immense deal of harm."

The agitation connected with kine-killing has, since the date of the Commissioner's report, led to further rioting and outrage of a serious nature. The efforts of the Government have been directed towards the preservation of the peace, the punishment of offenders, the collection of accurate information in regard to the agitation, its causes, objects, methods, promoters and fomenters, and, where possible, towards the mitigation of acerbities between Hindus and Muhammadans. But Sir Antony MacDonnell has been concerned to find that a spirit has manifested itself in certain portions of Bihar, which seeks to suppress the slaughter of kine for food or sacrificial purposes altogether, and to effect this suppression by coercive measures, temporal and spiritual, of much severity. In other words there are symptoms in certain tracts of the establishment of a system of terrorism. Among the Muhammadans in these tracts, there are indications of the formation of societies for defence or attack.

Reverence for the cow, it is well known, is a deeply-rooted and immemorial sentiment with all orthodox Hindus; but the acute phase of this sentiment which now presents itself, and the intolerance of non-Hindu customs which attends it have not arisen spontaneously among the people of Bihar, who are by nature docile and industrious. They have been excited by men from without, who by a species of propagandism (which, so far as His Honour knows, is, in such circumstances, foreign to Hindu polity) appeal to the religious fervour of the masses, while creating an organization for propagating their objects, and collecting funds which are not all expended on the maintenance of kine asylums. There is reason to believe that the exhortations of these propagandists have occasionally merged into incitements to misconduct. And it is not by Hindus alone that inflammatory appeals have been made and funds collected: in certain localities Muhammadans have also been blameworthy in this respect, and have irrited Hindus into reprisals. Thus a spirit of mutual provocation and embitterment has been excited which has had the worst effect. This agitation, if begun by strangers, has been fomented and encouraged by local residents of standing and education, some of whose names are known to the authorities, and from whom far different conduct was to be expected. The Hindus of Bihar have Sir Antony MacDonnell's sympathy in their endeavours to secure kind treatment for kine, and they may be assured of the support of Government in all legitimate efforts to restrict within the customary limits the slaughter of kine by non-Hindus, if these limits have been transgressed, and to assure that kine-slaughter shall not be effected, no matter what past practice may have been, in a way to outrage Hindu feeling. Already some progress has been made in this direction, with the cordial assistance of the leaders of the Muhammadan community. But nothing except evil can come from an attempt to coerce non-Hindus into submission to ultra-Hindu views in this matter, or from methods of agitation which are incompatible with the maintenance of law and order in the localities concerned.

The participators in riots can be punished by the Criminal Courts. The fomenters of disturbance and their dupes can be held to security for their good behaviour, though the law in this respect is somewhat defective. The public tranquillity in a tract which is in a disturbed and dangerous state may be preserved by quartering additional police in it, and the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor has been compelled to adopt this latter course in regard to the tract of country about Koath in the Shahabad district, in which, although several rioters on both sides were convicted and punished, the state of feeling is still so disturbed and dangerous that a fresh outbreak may at any moment occur. But His Honour is conscious of the imperfections of this procedure, which, as the law now stands, does not sufficiently discriminate between the innocent and the guilty so far as the apportionment of costs goes. In most of the great zamindaris which are controlled by proprietors of high position, loyalty and intelligence, the authorities experience small difficulty in connexion with this agitation. These zamindars throw their influence into the scale in favour of law and order, and justify the relaxation of those onerous police duties which were imposed on the proprietors of land by immemorial custom and the decennial settlement, but of which they were partially exonerated by the earlier Regulations. Some large proprietors, however, have not deserved so well, while outside the great zamindaris the subdivision of landed property in Bihar has gone very far. Proprietary rights have fallen largely into the hands of persons who, though grown rich under British rule, seem to have forgotten the duties which attached to the proprietary status under the customary law of the land. It is in these estates and in the towns that agitation is most prevalent and threatens to be least manageable. The question of local responsibility in towns must be separately considered: here His Honour will say that without the active co-operation of the smaller landlords, who form the bulk of the proprietary body in Bihar, it is difficult for the authorities to check the growth of disturbing influences; and as the law at present stands, this co-operation cannot in all cases be enforced.

There is another aspect of the question which deserves consideration. The Cow-Protection movement in some degree bases its claims upon economic grounds. It lays stress partly upon the diminution and deterioration which are alleged to be taking place in the agricultural cattle of India, as a result of the encroachment of cultivation upon the old village pastures, and partly, it is stated—though this allegation seems to be unfounded—of the heavy duty levied on salt. This seems to point to improvements in the breed, pasturage, and treatment of cattle, as promising some relief from the evils complained of, and opening up a prospect of some mitigation of the agitation. This of course must be a work of time, and it would be premature for the Government to attempt to forecast at the present moment the precise measures which may be found necessary. Dr. Voelcker's Report on Indian Agriculture, which deals with the subject at length, is still under the consideration of the Government of India, and no final decision has been arrived at regarding the action to be taken upon it. Nevertheless the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor hopes that some form of Government action will be devised with the object of promoting the welfare of cattle in India, and if the Cow Protection societies would associate themselves with the Government in an endeavour to secure throughout the province the better treatment of cattle, the joint effort might be productive not only of material good to the country, but might lead to some means of allaying the embittered conflicts which now embroil the two main sections of the population in certain portions of Bihar.

27. Apart from the excitement connected with the kine-killing agitation, the principal subjects discussed by the educated classes were the abolition of the jury system, the election of members to the Provincial Legislative Council, and the Cadastral Survey. On the latter subject the Collector of Muzaffarpur has the following remarks, in which the Commissioner of the Division generally agrees:—

"Although the measure is yet unpopular, especially with the zamindars, the advantages of a record of rights are now better appreciated by all classes. The spirit of opposition and consequent agitation, which existed before the introduction of the measure, has disappeared, and, as far as I have been able to ascertain, the action of the Government is now regarded as beneficial to all parties interested in the land, as likely to place the present unsettled relation of landlord and tenant on a better footing * * *

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 31*st October* 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 28TH OF OCTOBER 1893.

It will be remembered that at the end of the previous week a small but intense storm had formed in the neighbourhood of Diamond Island, and at 8 A.M. on the morning of the 21st was near the centre of the northern half of the Bay. It was then giving few indications of its existence at the meteorological stations, and none of its intensity or direction of motion. After moving in a north-westerly direction it appears to have changed gradually towards the north-east, and on the morning of Sunday, the 22nd, rushed with great rapidity towards the mouth of the Megna, the centre of the disturbance probably passing close to Noakhali. At 8 A.M. on the 22nd pressure fell more than a quarter of an inch at Chittagong, Noakhali and Barisal, the wind blowing with moderate strength from east at the first station and from north-east at the other two. The centre was then probably to the south of the line joining Chittagong and Barisal and equally distant from them, but as its rate of motion appears to have been unusually high, it must have passed over Noakali some time during the next two hours. At 11 o'clock pressure was rising at Chittagong, and the storm-wave which accompanied the depression was then reported to be passing up the river there. From Noakhali no information has been received regarding the passage of the disturbance. That hurricane winds blew over the north-east of the Bay and in East Bengal to some distance from the coast is shown by the fact that the Mutlah light-ship broke loose from her anchorage, and much damage was done to the shipping between Naraingani and Chittagong. Wind velocity rose to 25 miles at Chittagong on Sunday, but as the storm was of small extent and soon reached the hilly ground to the east of Tippera, it was very shortlived after passing inland. Pressure rose rapidly and the rough weather as quickly moderated. So far very little appears to be known regarding the storm-wave which washed over part of the islands at the mouth of the Megna. There is, however, sufficient to show that it must have devastated the parts near the coast, causing great destruction to property and probably loss of human life.

General heavy rain fell in East Bengal on the first two days of the week, and light scattered showers in other parts of Lower Bengal and Orissa, but except near the centre of the depression weather continued fine, and the only change was in the light cloud disappearing after the rapid rise of pressure mentioned above. From the 22nd onwards till the end of the week fine clear weather with northerly winds prevailed over the province. In the south of the Bay, however, an apparently immediate result of the recovery of pressure in the north-east of the Bay was the beginning of another which caused cyclonic winds at the Burma stations. Judging from reports received from the shipping, it must have commenced near the centre of the Bay, because squally weather was experienced about longitude 88° and latitude 16° on the 24th. Its course from the start very probably was to the north-east, and it struck the coast of Burma, moving in this direction about the end of the week, at no great distance to the north of Diamond Island. Pressure changes were small everywhere, but a regular cyclonic circulation of winds prevailed over the whole Bay area. Wind velocity steadily increased at Diamond Island, till on the 27th an average of 50 miles was reported for the 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. on that date. It soon after crossed the coast and, as in the case of the one at the beginning of the week, diminished much in intensity on encountering the hilly ground near the coast. The stormy weather which accompanied its advance soon passed away.

As this disturbance did not approach the north coast of the Bay, its influence in Bengal was very slight, being shown only in the increase of cloud in the southern districts, and in a few light showers. The northerly winds increased somewhat in strength, but soon fell off as the pressure distribution became normal.

Pressure changes have been small except during the passage of the depression at the beginning of the week, when there was a large fall at stations in East Bengal and a rapid rise afterwards. In the middle of the week the small oscillations characteristic of settled weather obtained, but during the last two days, while the second depression was developing in the east of the Bay, a steady slow fall prevailed over the province. The mean pressure for the week is above the normal in all districts by about ·03 inch in East Bengal, and ·05 inch elsewhere.

Temperature.—Day temperature has generally been below and night temperature above the normal, at times by several degrees. Means are below the normal everywhere: by less than half a degree in North Bihar and North Bengal; by between half and one degree in South Bihar, South-West Bengal and East Bengal; by 1·3° in Orissa, and by more than 2° in Assam and Chota Nagpur.

Rainfall.—The only rain of importance reported during the week fell on the 21st and 22nd in East Bengal while the disturbance was crossing the south-eastern districts. The falls were heavy on both days at some stations, but especially at Noakhali, Daulatkhan, Cox's Bazar and Chittagong. The average for the whole district is 2·14 inches more than double the normal. Light showers fell in parts of Orissa, South-West Bengal, North Bengal and South Bihar, but no rain fell in North Bihar and Chota Nagpur.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 28th of October 1893:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

SYLLABUS.

Showing the extent of the Examination in certain subjects at the Open Competition for admission into the Indian Civil Service in 1894.

English Composition.—An Essay to be written on one of several subjects specified by the Civil Service Commissioners on their Examination Paper.

English Language and Literature.—The Examination will be in two parts. In the one the Candidates will be expected to show a general acquaintance with the course of English Literature as represented (mainly) by the following writers in verse and prose, between the reign of Edward III and the accession of Queen Victoria:

Verse—Chaucer, Langland, Spenser, Shakespeare, Milton, Dryden, Pope, Gray, Collins, Johnson, Goldsmith, Crabbe, Cowper, Campbell, Wordsworth, Scott, Byron, Coleridge, Shelley, Keats.

Prose—Bacon, Sir Thomas Browne, Milton, Cowley, Bunyan, Dryden, Swift, Defoe, Addison, Johnson, Burke, Scott, Macaulay (Essays and Biographies).

A minute knowledge of the works of these authors will not be looked for in this part of the Examination, which will, however, test how far the candidates have studied the chief productions of the greatest English writers in themselves, and are acquainted with the leading characteristics of their thought and style, and with the place which each of them occupies in the history of English literature. Candidates will also be expected to show that they have studied in these authors the history of the English language in respect of its vocabulary, syntax, and prosody.

The other part of the Examination will relate to one of the periods named below, which will follow each other, year by year, in the order indicated :—

1.	A D. 1700 to A.D. 1800
(1894)	[Pope to Cowper]
2.	A.D. 1800 to A.D. 1832
(1895)	[Nineteenth Century writers to the death of Scott]
3.	A.D 1360 to A D. 1600
(1896)	[Chaucer to Spenser]
4.	A.D. 1600 to A.D. 1700
(1897)	[Shakespeare to Dryden]

The Examination in this part will require from Candidates a more minute acquaintance with the history of the English language and literature as illustrated in the chief works produced in each period, and will be based to a considerable extent, but by no means exclusively, on certain books specified each year by the Commissioners.* The names placed under the dates are intended to suggest the general character of the literary development of the period, and, consequently, the natural limits of the Examination. All the works of Shakespeare, for example, will be regarded as falling within the period 1600 to 1700; all the works of Swift within the period 1700 to 1800; all the works of Scott and Wordsworth within the period 1800 to 1832.

French Language and Literature.—Translation from French into English and from English into French; Critical questions on the French Language and Literature.

German Language and Literature.—As in French.

Latin Language and Literature.—Translation from Latin into English; Composition in Prose and Verse (in the place of the latter may be taken, by those who prefer it, a paper of questions on Latin Philology). Critical questions on the Latin Language and Literature.

Greek Language and Literature.—Translation from Greek into English; Composition in Prose and Verse (in the place of the latter may be taken, by those who prefer it, a paper of questions on Greek Philology). Critical questions on the Greek Language and Literature.

NOTIFICATION—No. 3528L.S.-G.

The 11th November 1893.—The following rules relating to money-orders other than Revenue money-orders in favour of officers of Government and local bodies entitled to bank at treasuries or sub-treasuries have been approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in supersession of those published under notification dated the 11th May 1888 in Part I, pages 402 to 411 of the Calcutta Gazette dated 16th idem, and are published for general information. The rules shall come into operation on the 15th January 1894.

J. A. BOURDILLON,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

PART I.

Procedure in the Office of Issue.

1. Whenever a money-order presented for issue is drawn in favour of any officer of Government or of a local body in his official capacity, it will be the duty of the Money-order Clerk or Sub or Branch Postmaster to see that the proper form of money-order is used.

2. If the remittance is for land revenue, road cess, public works cess or zamindari dâk cess, the revenue money-order form must be used, and the rules relating to revenue money-orders must be observed.

3. If the remittance is for any other purpose, the ordinary inland money-order form must be used.

4. The rule prohibiting the inclusion of pies (fractions of an anna) is not applicable to money-orders in favour of any officer of Government or local body in his official capacity. Such money-orders may contain any fraction of an anna not less than one pie. Remittances of amounts including fractions of pies are not allowed. The limit of the amount of a single money-order is the same as of any other ordinary money-order.

5. If a remitter of land revenue, road cess, public works cess, or zamindari dâk cess desires to remit at the same time any sum due to Government on any other account, he must use a revenue money-order for the remittance of land revenue, road cess, public works cess, or zamindari dâk cess, or for so many of these dues as he wishes to remit, and a separate ordinary inland money-order form for each other remittance.

6. A separate money-order form must be used for each Government due remitted by the ordinary inland money-order, and remittances on two accounts may not be included in one ordinary money-order.

7. (a) If the remittance is on account of income-tax, the remitter must be furnished with one of the special income-tax coupons (Form 1—G.M.O.), and must fill up all the particulars indicated thereon.* The remitter is responsible for the correctness of the entries, but it is the duty of the Money-order Clerk or Sub-Postmaster or Branch Postmaster to refuse any money-order in which all the particulars are not entered.

(b) If the remitter is illiterate, the Money-order Clerk or Sub or Branch Postmaster should give him any aid he may require to fill up the entries. The Money-order Clerk or Sub or Branch Postmaster must give this aid freely, and may not demand or accept any gratification in return on pain of dismissal.

(c) The income-tax coupon should then be carefully and strongly pasted by the Money-order Clerk or Sub or Branch Postmaster to the blank space provided on the coupon of the money-order form. Care must be taken that the coupon is not pasted over any part of the acknowledgment.

8. If the remittance is on any account other than income-tax, the Money-order Clerk or Sub or Branch Postmaster must see that particulars of the object of the remittance are entered clearly on the ordinary coupon of the ordinary inland money-order form. If the object of the remittance is not clearly stated on the coupon, the Money-order Clerk or Sub or Branch Postmaster should not accept the order until the omission is rectified and the object clearly stated. The Money-order Clerk or Sub or Branch Postmaster should give any aid that the remitter may require to fill up the coupon, and may not demand or accept any gratification in return on pain of dismissal.

9. After the money-order has been properly filled up, it should be received and dealt with in the same way as any other ordinary inland money-order.

10. Every remitter of a money-order other than a revenue money-order in favour of an officer of Government or of a local body should be informed that, instead of the usual money-order acknowledgment signed by the payee, he will ordinarily receive the usual departmental receipt, which will be forwarded to him direct by post, and that he should address the payee regarding it if he do not receive it in due course. He should also be advised to keep the carbonic receipt carefully until he receives either the formal departmental receipt from the payee or the usual money-order acknowledgment.

PART II.

Procedure in the Post Office of Payment.

11. These rules only apply to Post Offices (head or sub) at the head-quarters of districts and sub-divisions. Other Post Offices which receive for payment ordinary money-orders in favour of officers of Government or of local bodies in their official capacities will pay them in cash under the procedure applicable to money-orders in favour of private individuals.

* It may happen that a remitter does not know, and cannot conveniently ascertain, the number of list K, or has not received or has lost the notice L. In such a case the remitter should be asked to enter "not known," or words to that effect, against item 5, on the coupon, and on his doing so, the money-order should be accepted, provided all the other particulars are given. Whenever it is practicable for him to do so, the remitter should, however, be required to fill in item 5 as well as the other items.

12. All money-orders in favour of the Magistrate or Collector (or Deputy Commissioner) or in favour of the Deputy Collector or other officer in charge of any department under the Magistrate or Collector (or Deputy Commissioner), or in favour of the Sub-divisional Officer or any officer in charge of any department under the Sub-divisional Officer, will be paid by book transfer. All money-orders in favour of any other officer of Government in his official capacity will also be paid by book transfer when a written requisition to that effect has been received by the post office from the treasury or sub-treasury officer.

With the exception of money-orders in favour of a Cantonment Committee all money-orders in favour of any local body entitled to bank at the treasury or sub-treasury will also be paid by book transfer.

13. When the ordinary money-orders in favour of the officers of Government and local bodies named in rule 12, and any other officers whose money-orders are, according to the requisition of the treasury or sub-treasury officer, to be paid by book transfer are in all respects ready* to be handed over to the postman, a list in triplicate† (Form 2—G. M. O.) should be made out by the Money-order Clerk, and the entries in the money column of the list should be carefully totalled. The original copy of the list will take the place of the journal of money-orders paid, the duplicate of the list will be sent to the treasury under the procedure described below, and the triplicate of the list will be the list for the Comptroller.

No money-order should be included in the list unless the object of the remittance is entered on the coupon.

14. The Postmaster should then check the entries in the list with those on the money-orders, and also check the total of the money column. He will then give the postman the duplicate of the list, the money-orders, and a treasury or sub-treasury voucher representing the total value of the money-orders as entered at the foot of the list. The amount represented by the treasury or sub-treasury voucher will not be charged against the letter of credit, and will be paid quite independently of the balance of any letters of credit held by the treasury in favour of the Post Office.

15. The postman will take the duplicate list, the money-orders, and the treasury or sub-treasury voucher to the treasury or sub-treasury officer, and will receive back from him the money-orders without the coupons and acknowledgments, and will be careful to see that he receives back all the money-orders, and that they are all duly receipted by the Treasury or Sub-treasury Officer.

16. The paid money-orders received back from the treasury or sub-treasury will be examined by the Money-order Clerk in the same way as other ordinary money-orders, and the total amount of money-orders will be entered in the journal of money-orders paid, by a single entry thus: As per G. M. O. list Rs. A. P. the classification columns of the triplicate list will then be filled up and the money-orders will be disposed of in the usual way. As the official payees of the money-orders will furnish the remitters with departmental receipts, the acknowledgments will not be returned by the Treasury or Sub-treasury Officer for transmission to the remitters. The original and triplicate lists will be kept with the journal of money-orders paid until the next list of ordinary money-orders paid is sent to the Comptroller, when the corresponding (triplicate) lists of official money-orders paid will also be sent, the paid money-orders being arranged in order and attached to the lists. The original lists will then be filed, a separate file of original lists being kept with each journal of money-orders paid, so that the dates of the journal and file of official money-order lists correspond.

17. The amount of the treasury or sub-treasury voucher will be entered in the Post Office accounts on the receipt side as drawn from the District or Sub-treasury, as the case may be, and will be included in the sum entered on the payment side under the head "Amount of money-orders paid." In the case of a Head Office the amount will also appear in the treasury account as money drawn from the district treasury. All these entries must be made on the same date.

18. If it should happen that a money-order for any officer or local body named or indicated in rule 12 is received at the office of payment without the object of the remittance being entered on the coupon, the money-order will, as stated in rule 13, not be included in the day's list. The Postmaster will retain the money-order in deposit and make a reference to the office of issue to ascertain the object of the remittance. On the receipt of a reply he will attach it to the coupon, and the reply will be considered as part of the coupon. The money-order will then be included in the next list sent to the treasury or sub-treasury. If, notwithstanding a reference to the Office of Issue, the object of the money-order cannot be ascertained, the Postmaster of the Office of Payment will treat the money-order as refused, and return it, under the usual procedure, to the Office of Issue, noting across the coupon the words "refused, as object of remittance not stated." Every case in which a money-order is received

* Only the total number and amount of official money-orders received for payment need be entered in the register of money-orders received. In order, however, that the record may be complete, it will be necessary to make a note in the last column of the register whenever all the official money-orders received in one day are not included in the list of that date. For example, if in the register of money-orders received on the 5th July there are shown 500 official money-orders for Rs. 10,000, but 300 of these orders for Rs. 7,000 were received too late for inclusion in the list sent to the treasury on the 5th, there should be an entry in the last column of the register in this form—

200 for Rs. 3,000 included in the list of 5th,
300 for ,, 7,000 included in the list of 6th.

† The duplicate and triplicate will be prepared by carbonic paper, and a hard pencil must be used in writing the list.

without the object being entered on the coupon should be reported by the Office of Payment to the Superintendent of the division in which the Office of Issue is situated.

19. On the 1st of every month the Money-order Clerk or Sub-Postmaster of the head-quarters or sub-divisional Post Office will prepare a return (Form 3—G. M. O.) of official money-orders (other than revenue money-orders) received during the previous month. The returns of Postmasters at sub-divisional stations will be submitted to the Postmaster of the district head-quarters on the 1st of the month, and the return of the head-quarters Post Office will be submitted to the head of the circle on the 5th of the month, together with the returns of any offices at sub-divisional stations in the district.

PART III.

Procedure to be followed in the Treasury or Sub-treasury.

20. When any officer of Government not specified in rule 12 requests that money-orders in his favour may be paid by book transfer, a written requisition to that effect will be addressed by the Treasury or Sub-treasury Officer to the Postmaster at the treasury or sub-treasury station.

21. On receipt of the list, money-orders, and treasury or sub-treasury voucher (see rule 15), the Treasury or Sub-treasury Officer will check and compare the documents. If there is any error, he will return all the documents to the Post Office with a note of the error or errors. When the documents are correct, the Treasury or Sub-treasury Officer will at once cut off the strip of each money-order containing the coupon and acknowledgment, sign and date the money-orders as payee, and return them to the postman. The Treasury or Sub-treasury Officer will retain the strips, including the coupon and acknowledgment, the list of money-orders (Form 2—G. M. O.) and the treasury or sub-treasury voucher.

22. The Treasury or Sub-treasury Officer will on the same day adjust the amount of the treasury or sub-treasury voucher by transfer, debiting the amount to the Post Office and crediting the amounts of the several money-orders as shown in the list and on the acknowledgments to the appropriate departments or local bodies. If the amount of any money-order cannot for any reason be credited at once to the proper head of account, it should be entered in the body of the cash-book with such particulars as are available, and a reference should be at once made through the department concerned for further particulars, on receipt of which credit to the proper head should be effected in communication with the Accountant-General.

In the case of sub-treasuries a note should be made in the "remarks" column of the duplicate list showing on what account each money-order was sent as indicated on the coupon. This column will be blank when received from the Post Office. The duplicate list will be forwarded to the district treasury with the sub-treasury "daily sheet."

23. To each department or local body in favour of which any money-order or money-orders have been received and credited, the Treasury or Sub-treasury Officer will on the same day send an advice list in the accompanying form (Form 4—G. M. O.), together with the corresponding strips, consisting of the coupons and acknowledgments. In the case of officers and local bodies to whom daily advice lists are sent of other receipts on their account, the total amount of each money-order advice list will be entered (with a reference to the money-order advice list) in the daily advice list.

The Treasury or Sub-treasury Officer will be responsible that the total of the amounts of the money-order advice lists is equal to the amount of the treasury or sub-treasury voucher received from the Post Office and debited to the Postal Department.

24. No money-order received from the Post Office may be refused.

PART IV.

Procedure in the Offices of the payees of the money-orders.

25. When any officer of Government, not separately specified in rule 12, desires that money-orders in his favour be paid by book transfer, he will make a written request to that effect to the Treasury or Sub-treasury Officer for communication to the Postmaster.

26. On receipt of an advice list (see Rule 23) with the corresponding strips consisting of the coupons and acknowledgments, the usual entries will be made in the prescribed registers, and the prescribed receipts will be sent to the remitters by post, the postage being prepaid by service or ordinary stamps, according as the department or local body is or is not entitled to use service stamps.

27. The prescribed form of receipt should be sent to each remitter at latest on the first open day after the receipt of the advice list from the treasury or sub-treasury.

28. If the amount of a money-order is more than is due from the remitter, the excess should be entered as an advance on account of future dues or be dealt with in such other way as the rules of the department or local body may prescribe; if the amount is less than is due, it should be credited as a payment in part; if the period on account of which the remittance is made is specified, the amount should be credited on account of that period; if the period is not specified, the remittance should be set off against those dues which have been longest outstanding.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT,—BENGAL.

DISTRICT ROAD FUND.

NOTIFICATION No. 298.

Dated Calcutta, the 10th November 1893.

THE accompanying Financial Statement of the District Road Account, Chittagong Hill Tracts, for the year 1892-93, together with an abstract of the report of the Assistant Commissioner of the district for that year, is published for general information.

F. J. JOHNSTONE,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Abstract of the report of the Assistant Commissioner, Chittagong Hill Tracts, for the year 1892-93.

1. The sum of Rs. 72-4 shown under the sub-head "Miscellaneous receipts" represents the amount returned by Mr. Taylor, then in charge of the Ruma guards, as the unexpended balance of the amount paid to him by the Sungoo Sub-divisional Officer out of the Road Fund money at his disposal. As the amount was returned some time after the adjustment of the Sub-divisional Officer's accounts, it was ordered to be credited to the District Road Account as miscellaneous receipt. Other items of receipts do not require any remark.

2. There is a large saving under the sub-head of establishment, as explained below:—

(a) The former Overseer was granted leave without pay for six months, after the expiration of which he submitted his resignation, and the present man was not appointed until the end of October.

(b) Travelling allowance. The site for the construction of the timber bridges being close to Baikal and Rangamati, and there having been no original work on the Bandarban road, as in the previous year, requiring constant inspection by the District Engineer, the travelling allowances fell much short of the amount estimated. Moreover, the travelling allowance bill of the establishment for March last escaped, owing to press of work, being charged and paid for on the last day of the month.

(c) There was no Overseer for nearly seven months. The present Overseer has been appointed under condition that he would get only travelling allowance, but no conveyance allowance.

(d) Final sanction to the full amount of the estimate for the maintenance of, and the construction of, bridges on the Rangamati-Demagiri road not having been received in time, the expenditure was kept as low as could be conveniently managed; and therefore the services of the temporary establishment provided for in the estimate were not required.

3. A sum of Rs. 550 was provided for under the sub-head of Tools and Plant against which no expenditure has been incurred, as intimation of the sanction was received too late to indent and pay for the articles.

4. The account shows a heavy balance at the close of the year. This was due to the causes explained in item (d) of paragraph 2 and in paragraph 3.

5. During the previous year the grant for the maintenance of the Rangamati and Demagiri road was accounted for separately under instructions from the Examiner of Public Works Accounts, Bengal. This has now been changed, and the outlay is shewn in these accounts, except a payment of Rs. 933-15-7 which was made out of the Public Works money at the disposal of the Assistant Commissioner.

Sunken rock reported north-east of Little Basses.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 499 of 1893) that the British S.S. Capella (drawing about 22¼ feet water) touched slightly on a sunken rock or other obstruction, lying with Little Basses light-house, bearing about S. 52° W., distant 3 miles.

Position, to be considered doubtful, lat. 6° 26½′ N., long. 81° 46¼′ E.

The above information requires verification; but as the neighbourhood of the Basses is rocky, and has only been partially examined, and currents are often strong and variable in direction, it is advisable to steer a course to pass well outside them. THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR'S TOUR CHARGES.

WITH reference to the question No. 1(c), asked on the 22nd July, 1893, by the HON'BLE W. C. BONNERJEE, regarding the cost per annum of making Darjeeling the summer head-quarters of the Bengal Government, the HON'BLE MR. BOURDILLON replied as follows:—

"I have now, in fulfilment of my promise of the 22nd July last, to reply that the annual cost since 1888-89 of making Darjeeling the summer head-quarters of the Bengal Government has been as follows:—

	Rs.
1888-89	30,158
1889-90	29,768
1890-91	29,780
1891-92	37,152
1892-93	37,792"

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government state what further effect has been given to the recommendations of the Public Service Commission beyond what was stated by the HON'BLE MR. COTTON in his reply, given at the meeting of the Council held on the 22nd July last, (1) in connection with the appointment of natives of India to offices hitherto reserved for the Covenanted Civil Service; (2) in connection with the wider employment of natives of India in the higher grades of the Police Service?

The HON'BLE MR. COTTON replied:—

"Both questions referred to are under the consideration of Government."

NUMBER OF CERTAIN CLASSES OF PUBLIC SERVANTS.

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government lay on the table a statement containing the following heads of information in regard to the following classes of public servants employed in the various offices in connection with the branches of administration under its control:—(1) the number of Natives of India in each office, (2) the number of Eurasians in each office, (3) the number of Europeans in each office; drawing monthly salaries as given below:—(a) from rupees two hundred to rupees four hundred, (b) from rupees four hundred to rupees eight hundred, (c) from rupees eight hundred to rupees one thousand, (d) from rupees one thousand to rupees fifteen hundred, (e) from rupees fifteen hundred to rupees two thousand, (g) from rupees two thousand to rupees three thousand, (h) from rupees three thousand to rupees four thousand?

The HON'BLE MR. COTTON replied:—

"The names of gazetted officers, European, Eurasian and pure Natives of India employed under the Government of Bengal, with the salary each officer receives, are given in the Bengal Quarterly Civil List, which is available to the public. To furnish similar information in regard to non-gazetted officers as well as the information contained in the Civil List in the form stated in the question would involve protracted enquiry and the entertainment of an extra establishment, the labour and cost of which the Government is not prepared to incur. But if the Hon'ble Member will restrict his enquiry to the Civil Service of India, the Provincial Civil Service and the Subordinate Civil Service in Bengal, so far as the number of Europeans, Eurasians and Natives of India is concerned, the information can be procured without much difficulty, and will be supplied."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee said:—"I will be glad to have the information which is available."

His Honour the President said:—"The information will be furnished."

HINDU RELIGIOUS ESTABLISHMENTS.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

To ask Government whether it is not the case that Act XX of 1863 has proved a failure, and that the Trustees of Hindus Religious Establishments have brought about the extinction of some, and are grossly mismanaging the proceeds of others, and whether there is not great waste of temple funds which are controlled by Mohants all over the Province?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"There is no recent official information before the Lieutenant-Governor which would justify his expressing an opinion on either portion of this question."

INCREMENTS TO OFFICERS OF THE EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

Whether a circular was issued a few months ago by the Director of Public Instruction to the officers of the Education Department, stopping the increments to which they were entitled; (b) whether on the protest of some officers of the superior graded service the above circular was withdrawn as regards all such officers of that service, allowing them the increments to which they were entitled; (c) whether the same circular was kept in force as regards officers of the Subordinate Service, thus depriving them of the increments to which they were entitled, on the ground that a new scheme had been submitted to the Government of India, remodelling the Subordinate Graded Service of the Education Department; (d) whether the scheme regulating the salaries of both branches of the Bengal Educational Service, Superior and Subordinate, received the sanction of the Secretary of State, and whether such sanction has been withdrawn in respect of either of these branches of the service?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"Some misapprehension appears to exist on the part of the Hon'ble Member in regard to this question, which makes it impossible for me to give categorical replies. The facts are, however, as follows:—The Government in sanctioning promotions from time to time in the Subordinate Educational Service has passed orders to the effect that 'the arrangements sanctioned were subject to the introduction of changes in the Subordinate Educational Service and conveyed no claims to progressive salaries.' These orders were by an oversight made applicable in certain cases to officers of the Superior Educational Service, but the mistake was at once corrected as soon as it was brought to notice unofficially by the Director of Public Instruction. On the 18th February last the following instructions were issued in reply to a letter from the Director, asking for an authoritative interpretation of the Government orders on the subject:—

'The orders were intended to convey that, when an officer is promoted to a higher grade in the Subordinate Educational Service, he enters it on the understanding that the system of increments is probably coming to an end, and that no increment will be given till this is decided: this ruling was necessary in order to prevent complications arising when the Educational Service is reorganised. It does not apply to the Superior Educational Service, as to which no such proposals for abolishing progressive salaries have been made by this Government.

'It should therefore be understood that promotions from a lower to a higher grade of the Subordinate Educational Service, either acting or permanent, will carry with them no title to progressive pay in the higher grade, but those who now hold acting appointments, and who have already drawn increments in the grades in which they are so acting, will continue to draw any increments which they may be entitled in those grades.'

This answer is given in reply to sub-heads (a), (b) and (c) of the Hon'ble Member's question.

The reply to sub-head (d) is that the scheme for re-organising the Educational Service in Bengal, which affects both branches of the Department as at present constituted, has not yet been sanctioned by the Secretary of State."

SEPARATION OF JUDICIAL AND EXECUTIVE FUNCTIONS.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

Whether the attention of the Government has been called to the note published by Mr. R. C. Dutt of the Bengal Civil Service on the separation of judicial and executive functions in the administration of criminal justice, and whether the Government proposes to take any, if so, what, action in connection with the matter?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"The attention of Government has been drawn to Mr. R. C. Dutt's note by a communication on the subject from the Secretary to the Indian Association, but the Lieutenant-Governor is not in a position at present to make any statement regarding it."

RELIEF MEASURES IN EASTERN BENGAL.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

Will the Government state what advances under the Agricultural Loans Act have been made in the following districts:—Barisal, Faridpur, Noakhali and Tippera, and what measures of relief have been adopted in the aforesaid districts (1) by the Government, (2) by the District Boards, and, lastly, by the local zamindars?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"There is no distress in the Dacca or Chittagong Divisions which calls for special measures on the part of Government, nor is there such distress anywhere except in a concentrated area, and among a limited number of people in the Bhil tracts of the Faridpur and Backergunge districts. The following sums for advances under the Agriculturists' Loans Act have been allotted to the districts enumerated in the Hon'ble Member's question—

	Rs.
Backergunge	12,500
Faridpur	23,000
Noakhali	11,100
Tippera

Public works have been started under the District Boards in accordance with the procedure prescribed for such circumstances, but as yet few labourers have appeared on them. Relief centres have also been opened in the areas referred to. The sum of Rs. 10,000 has been placed at the disposal of the Commissioner of Dacca for expenditure on charitable relief to be granted in aid of district funds and public subscriptions should these prove insufficient. It has been reported to Government that some, not all, of the principal zamindars have been assisting their tenantry with liberality. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor is satisfied that the measures taken amply meet the necessities of the case."

ANTI-KINE-KILLING AGITATION.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

Whether the Government will organise conciliation committees on the model of those recently established in the North-Western Provinces in such districts where there have been cow-killing riots or where such disturbances are apprehended, and whether Government will state what measures it proposes to take for the securing of order and the establishment of harmony between the communities in conflict with each other in the aforesaid districts?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"So long ago as the 8th September last a circular was issued to local officers, requesting them to consider whether in villages where the Gaurakhshini movement had attained any considerable devolopment, and animosity between Hindus and Muhammadans was likely to arise or had arisen, it would not be possible to constitute punchayats or conciliation committees of the leading members of the Hindu and Muhammadan communities for the purpose of promoting mutual forbearance and peaceful relations. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor regrets, however, to say that, owing to the embittered state of local feeling, his efforts in this direction have been attended with scant success. His Honour's views on the maintenance of order and the establishment of harmony between the communities in conflict with one another have already been published, and he has nothing to add to them at present. The district officers have been instructed to enforce the law with energy against the instigators and promoters of any disturbance."

BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT, 1884, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton moved that the Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon be appointed in the place of the Hon'ble Mr. Risley to the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Bengal Municipal Act, III of 1884.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned sine die.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF WARDS AND ATTACHED ESTATES FOR THE YEAR 1892-93.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 13th November, 1893.

RESOLUTION No. 4614.

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on Wards and Attached Estates in the Lower Provinces for the year 1892-93.

Preliminary.

The Report, which was due on the 31st August, reached Government on the 13th September, or one week later than in the preceding year. The report of the Commissioner of Chota Nagpur to the Board was again late by 21 days; that of the Commissioner of Dacca was not received by the Board till six weeks after the date on which it was due, while the statement showing the working of the Certificate Department for Dacca was not furnished by the Commissioner till the 28th August.

Certain suggestions made by Government in connection with the Report for 1891-92 for the improvement of the tables embodied in the Report and its appendices have been duly carried out in the present Report.

The number of Wards' estates under charge of the Court of Wards was 74 and of Attached estates 66, against 75 and 69 respectively in 1891-92; there was thus a decrease of one in the former and of three in the latter.

Revenue and rents due to Government and superior landlords.

2. The total demand for revenue and cesses due to Government was Rs. 49,43,634, of which Rs. 22,447 represent arrears, and Rs. 49,21,187 the current demand. The payments amounted to Rs. 21,812 of the arrear, and Rs. 48,74,022 of the current demand, being a total of Rs. 48,95,834. The percentage of current payments on current demand was 99·0 against 99·6 in the year 1891-92. There was a large increase in the balance, which amounted to Rs. 47,800 against Rs. 12,828 in the preceding year. The Basudebpur estate in Midnapore, and the Satkhira estate in Khulna, are responsible for Rs. 27,791 and Rs. 19,000 respectively, or altogether Rs. 46,791 of the total balance. Both these estates are heavily involved, but the balance due by the Satkhira estate was fully paid in after the close of the year.

3. The demands of rent and cesses due to superior landlords were—arrear Rs. 91,348, current Rs. 4,40,762, total Rs. 5,32,110. The payments amounted to Rs. 4,50,090, and Rs. 1,994 were remitted, leaving a balance at the end of the year of Rs. 80,026, which compares unfavourably with the balance for the previous year, amounting to only Rs. 44,711. So far as these balances are due to the superior landlords' refusal or neglect to accept payment owing to disputes among co-sharers they cast no reflection on the management of the estates.

Rent and cesses due to the estates.

4. The following statement shows the demands and collections of rent and cesses due to the estates for the five years ending with the year of report:—

Year.	Demand.			Collections.			Percentage of—		Remission.	Balances.
	Arrear.	Current.	Total.	Arrear.	Current.	Total.	Current collection on current demand.	Total collections on current demand.

The percentage of current collections on current demand was 66·6 against 66·3 in the year before. Government, in its Resolution on the Report for 1891-92, observed that the latter figure was very low and compared unfavourably with the standard attained in Government estates managed direct in which, in 1891-92, over 90 per cent. of the current demand was collected. This percentage has been attained only in 1892-93, in four estates under the Court of Wards three of which have been under the management of the Court for a long series of years, while in the remaining estate the rents are mostly payable by farmers. The Board observe:—

> The case of private estates is somewhat different from that of Government estates: when an estate comes under the charge of the Court of Wards, it is almost invariably found that the rent-roll is encumbered with large arrear balances. One of the first duties of the manager appointed by the Court is to scrutinize the balances. Those which are barred by limitation are easily swept off. But many of the old balances have been kept alive by instalment bonds executed in favour of the former proprietors. Other instalments are due on decrees of Court. A large sum consists of items depending on disputed accounts. Each of these involves minute enquiry and explanation. In fact the task of adjusting the accounts involves much time and labour. Generally speaking, the affairs of a property of considerable importance cannot be looked into, cleared up, and the new arrangements brought into thorough order for two or three years after management is undertaken by the Court, even when the late proprietor has left the estate in comparatively good order, and in most cases far more time than this is required to bring order out of the confusion which is almost invariably found to prevail. The state of transition from the management of the proprietor to that of the Court of Wards in itself gives a check to collections and causes a portion of the current demand, due after the assumption of the charge of an estate, to fall into arrear.

The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor, while agreeing generally with the above remarks, still thinks that much may be done in the direction of reducing arrear balances by careful scrutiny of them, by striking off such balances as are not recoverable by law, and balances which, though recoverable by law, the raiyats are never likely to be able to pay.

In order to prevent managers trying to secure a fanciful percentage approximating to the standard fixed by Government, the Board has issued instructions to the effect that, when a tenant makes a payment without specification of the demand for which the payment is made, it should, in the ordinary course, be credited to the arrear and not to the current demand. These instructions are approved by the Lieutenant-Governor. The total collections, current and arrear, during the year did not equal the current demand.

Rupees 54,77,772 of the total balance (Rs. 60,96,710) shown in column 11 of the above statement for the year 1892-93 accrued after the estates were taken over by the Court. Rupees 46,28,643 of the balances are reported to be good and in process of recovery.

Debts due by estates.

5. The outstanding balance of debts due at the end of the year 1891-92 was Rs. 37,05,508. At the commencement of the year of report it was reduced to Rs. 31,67,981 by the release of certain estates. At the close of the year the balance stood at Rs. 32,77,619, the increase being chiefly in the Presidency and Patna Divisions, in consequence of the Court having assumed charge of the Satkhira estate in the former and of the Paigambarpur estate in the latter Division. The debts due by the Basudebpur estate in Midnapore, and the Chandrakûmár estate in Shahabad, have increased owing to interest on debts and costs. The Lieutenant-Governor approves the Board's conclusion that, in order to extricate the former estate from its desperate financial condition, the greater part of it should be sold. There was a marked decrease of nearly 1¼ lakhs in Burdwan, due chiefly to the repayment by the Burdwan Raj of a loan taken from the Bank of Bengal.

Management charges.

6. The percentage of the total cost of management proper, calculated on the current rent and cess demand, was the same as in the preceding year, viz. 7·8.

Act X of 1892, which came into force on the 25th October 1892, authorized the levy of (1) a general management rate not exceeding 5 per cent. on the gross income calculated to cover the cost of Government establishments, in so far as they may be employed in the supervision or management of such estates, and (2) a charge for special audit of accounts and legal advice. The charges levied under executive orders, prior to the passing of Act X of 1892, consisted of (a) a general management rate levied for the purpose of meeting the costs for establishments, contingencies, &c., in the Collectors', Commissioners' and Board's offices; (b) a treasury rate for defraying a proportionate share of treasury establishments; and (c) an audit rate and fees for legal advice. Government has tentatively sanctioned the proposals of the Board in regard to the new rates to be levied under Act X of 1892. There will henceforth be a consolidated general management rate which has been provisionally fixed on the basis of the proceeds of the old management and treasury rates, with the addition of a new charge for superior supervision, which latter consists of a small fraction of the salary of one member of the Board of Revenue, of the Senior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, of Commissioners and District Officers. The rate will for the present be 2½ per cent. on gross income for estates with a gross income of 5 lakhs of rupees or less, ½ per cent. for the Burdwan estate, and 1½ per cent. for the Tikari and Dighapattia estates. The professional audit rate levied under executive orders was 1⅛ annas per cent. for the Burdwan estate, 4½ annas per cent. for the Tikari and Dighapattia estates, and 6 annas per cent. for all other estates with a rent and cess roll of Rs. 50,000 and upwards. The audit charge fixed under Act X of 1892 is one anna per cent. on gross income for the Burdwan estate, 4 annas per cent. for Tikari and Dighapattia, and 6 annas per cent. for other estates with an annual rent and cess demand of not less than Rs. 50,000 per annum. No change has been made in the fees charged for legal advice. As Act X of 1892 came into force during the second-half of the year 1892-93, in order to avoid complication in accounts, the old rates will be levied for the whole year, and the surplus which has accumulated for several years past to the credit of the general management rate will be set-off against the Government claim to the new rate for the second-half of the year. The new rates will come into force from the commencement of 1893-94.

Improvements.

7. The following statement shows the total amount spent on schools, dispensaries, maintenance of buildings, works of improvement, surveys and settlements during the last five years.

Year.	Subscriptions and donations to schools.	Subscriptions and donations to dispensaries.	Maintenance in efficient condition of estates, buildings, and other immoveable property.	Improvement of land and property for benefit of ward.	Surveys and settlements.	Total.

1888-89	55,707	38,110	1,34,606	58,167	1,39,101	4,17,783

There was an increase of Rs. 64,918 as compared with the preceding year in the expenditure on reproductive improvements. Of this amount, Rs. 42,131 represents the increase in the Patna Division alone, due to the transfer to this head, in accordance with the instructions of Government, of charges for gilandazi or village irrigation channels, which are of a recurring nature. The percentage of outlay on reproductive works to investments during the year was 56·1, or, eliminating the increase due to transfer of gilandazi charges, 41 as against 17 only in the preceding year—a result which may be regarded as satisfactory. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with pleasure that the Board have drawn the attention of the local officers to the Government orders insisting on the policy of a liberal expenditure on improvements of a reproductive character in solvent estates, and is glad to observe that, except in the Presidency, Chittagong, Dacca and Orissa Divisions, there has been some improvement in this respect during the year under report. Sir Antony MacDonnell entirely agrees with the remarks made in the Resolution on last year's report under this head.

The decrease in the expenditure on surveys and settlements is chiefly due to the completion of operations in some of the Burdwan Raj khas mahals and in various other large estates. In pursuance of the policy laid down by Government that the Court of Wards should prepare a correct rent-roll and record of rights under the Bengal Tenancy Act, where none has been already prepared, a survey and record of rights in the Tikari Wards' Estates in Gaya has recently been ordered. Surveys and settlements on a large scale, under the supervision of the Director of Land Records, were in progress in the following estates:—Burdwan Raj, Talipabad, Dakhin Shahbazpur, Sarail Pargana (Kasimbazar estate), Kanika; while operations on a smaller scale were either conducted, or about to be undertaken, in 12 other estates.

Certificates.

8. The following statement shows the working of the certificate procedure in Wards' and Attached estates during the five years ending with 1892-93:—

Year.	Number pending from last year.	Number filed during year.	Total.	Disposed of during year.	Pending more than 6 months.	Pending less than 6 months.	Total.	Amount of demand covered by the certificates.	Total annual rent and cess of estates.	Percentage of 3 on column 10.

A revised form prescribed by Government for showing the working of the certificate procedure has been made use of for the first time. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor approves the Board's proposal to add an additional column after column 17, Appendix III, with the heading "Total amount covered by certificates struck off during the year." In this form every estate in respect of which 100 certificates or more were issued is shown separately, other estates being grouped together under the districts to which they appertain.

As might have been expected, the orders of Government restricting the certificate procedure to estates having an authoritative rent-roll, reduced the total number of certificates from 13,299 in 1891-92 to 8,648 in 1892-93. It is to be regretted, however, that the disposals show a larger proportion of decrease, being 11,765 against 17,148 during the preceding year. The discrepancy between the figures in column 8 of the statement in paragraph 26 of the report for the year 1891-92, showing the number of cases pending at the close of that year, and the grand total in column 3 of Appendix III of the report for 1892-93, should have been explained. Government has approved the Board's proposal to create a separate permanent Certificate Department in each district, to replace the existing heterogeneous establishments, and has authorized the Board to submit definite proposals.

Larger estates—Burdwan.

9. Part II of the Board's Report is devoted to estates with a rent-roll of Rs. 50,000 and upwards. The revenue and cess demand due by the Burdwan Raj Estate, amounting to Rs. 34,51,037, was fully satisfied; the collections amounted to Rs. 45,11,892 or 99·7 per cent. of the current demand for rent and cesses, thus increasing instead of reducing the amount of arrears. This result is attributed to the collections in the Kujang estate being 65·8 per cent. only of the current demand, in consequence of the distress caused among the tenants by the cyclone of November 1891 and the subsequent high floods of July 1892. In the Sujamutha portion of the Raj estates, which has recently been settled under the Tenancy Act, it is observed with satisfaction that the collections were better than in any of the other parts, being 129·6 per cent. on the current demand as against 99·7 in the Raj estates as a whole, and as against 91·1 in Sujamutha itself during the previous year. As the greater portion of the rental is realised from patni tenures, the management charges amounted to 3·4 per cent. only of the current rent and cess demand. The construction of a Raj office building at an estimated cost of Rs. 1,14,170 was undertaken during the year. A satisfactory reduction was made in the charges paid to mukhtears employed by the estate, as expenses of identifying defendants, debtors, &c., in pending cases. The Commissioner has directed that such identification should in future be made by local zamindars and village agents.

10. The whole of the demands due to Government and superior landlords by the Tikari Estate, amounting to Rs. 2,55,949 and Rs. 46,525 respectively, was paid. The collections amounted to Rs. 7,41,769, out of a current demand for rent and cesses of Rs. 7,44,714, and an arrear demand of Rs. 6,49,120. The Board agree with the Commissioner in thinking that the collections cannot be called satisfactory, as the arrears have rather increased than diminished in spite of the fact that the outturn of crops was a very fair average one. The Lieutenant-Governor concurs in this view. If the arrears increase instead of being reduced in a fair average year, there can be little prospect of their being ever realized in full, and the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice that measures are being taken to strike off such of them as are bad and irrecoverable. Owing to the reorganization of the managing staff, the management charges rose from 12 per cent. to 13·4 per cent. on the current demand. Rupees 13,826 were spent on improvement other than gilandazi works, and Rs. 50,099 were invested in the purchase of landed property.

Tikari Estate.

11. In the Dighapattia estate the entire demand due to Government and superior landlords by the eldest as well as the younger ward's estates was paid, with the exception of Rs. 62, payable in small sums to some of the landlords on account of the eldest ward's estate. The collections in the latter were satisfactory, being 102·4 per cent. of the current demand, amounting to Rs. 4,93,356, against 98·8 per cent. in the previous year; but in the younger ward's estates the collections fell from 109 per cent. in 1891-92 to 98 per cent. only on the current demand in 1892-93. This is mainly due to the general failure of crops throughout the Hooghly division of the estate. In the elder ward's estate the cost of management has slightly increased being now over 15 per cent. of the current demand, a rate which the Lieutenant-Governor condemned as excessive in last year's Resolution. The Board's report shows laxity on the part of the management in realizing debts due to the younger ward's estate, and the Manager should be called upon for an explanation. The outlay on works of improvement by the eldest ward's estate amounted to Rs. 22,865 against Rs. 10,052 in the preceding year. These works consisted of the excavation of tanks, the construction of pucca ghats, re-excavation of khals, digging of wells, construction and repairs of roads, raising of low lands, construction of sluice gates, and some agricultural improvements. The estate also paid Rs. 8,284 out of a total sum of Rs. 12,552 to be paid by it for the construction of a new building for the Dighapattia school.

Dighapattia Estate.

12. The settlement of pargana Sarail, appertaining to the Kasimbazar estate in Murshidabad, was completed in October 1892. The collections were 93 per cent. on the current demand against 123 per cent. in the previous year, the falling off being attributed mainly to scarcity in pargana Sarail. It is unsatisfactory to find that the cost of management which was already high increased from 16·9 per cent. to 17·1 per cent. An Assistant Engineer on Rs. 150 a month has been appointed tentatively for two years for supervising works of improvement in the several districts in which the estate is situated, and Rs. 30,781 as against Rs. 11,341 in the previous year were spent on works of this class which mostly consisted in the excavation and re-excavation of tanks. The District Engineer has been appointed also tentatively on a monthly remuneration of Rs. 100 to supervise the construction and repairs of buildings of the estate in the Murshidabad district. The financial position of the estate is satisfactory and reflects credit on the manager.

Kasimbazar.

13. The balance of debt due by the Deo Estate stood at Rs. 7,28,667, including Rs. 2,83,591 due to Government, and Rs. 2,72,000 due to Babu Kameswar Prasad under an usufructuary mortgage deed, the terms of which are highly objectionable. Government has, since the close of the year, sanctioned a loan of Rs. 2,72,000 to enable the estate to rid itself of this debt.

Deo.

14. The Sankarpur and Maldwar estates were lately settled under the Bengal Tenancy Act. In the preceding year the collections in the former amounted to 85 per cent. on the current demand, but during the year 1892-93 they rose to over 100 per cent. In the Maldwar estate the collections in 1891-92 were only 63 per cent. of the current demand, but in the year under report they improved to over 110 per cent., inclusive of a sum collected within the year, but not remitted to the treasury within the year. These estates, as remarked by the Board, show a great improvement in collections as compared with the previous year.

Estates taken in charge and released.

15. Altogether eight new estates were taken charge of during the year. This number included the Chanchra estate in Jessore, the management of which was undertaken by the Court of Wards under direction of the District Judge of Jessore under section 95 (a) of the Bengal Tenancy Act VIII of 1885. The estate is jointly owned by two shareholders who were of age, and the four minor sons of a third, the latter having died before the Court of Wards intervened. Each of the shareholders had separate liabilities to a considerable amount, but one of them was hopelessly involved. The only way of saving the share of the latter was by raising a loan on the entire estate, but to this the other shareholders objected. The Court of Wards, under the circumstances, withdrew from the management, upon which the District Judge appointed a common manager under section 95 of the Act. Five estates were released, of which the most considerable was the Narhan estate in Darbhanga, with a rent-roll at the time of assumption of charge by the Court of Wards of Rs. 1,44,880, and debts which, including zar-i-peshgi leases to the extent of Rs. 1,12,296, amounted to Rs. 5,31,056. The gross total amount of debts due by the estate during the 15 years it was under the Court of Wards' management was Rs. 10,15,66[illegible], the whole of which was satisfied, leaving a surplus at the date of discharge of Rs. 1,52,186. The rent-roll, when the estate was released, was Rs. 1,83,352 or Rs. 38,472 more than the initial rental. The remaining four estates were petty ones. In one case only was the original rental reduced at the date of discharge, the reduction being attributed to sales of portions of it for liquidation of debts. In all other cases there was a substantial increase in the rental and an accumulated surplus at the date of discharge.

Encumbered estates in Chota Nagpur.

16. The number of estates managed during the year under the Chota Nagpur Encumbered estates Act (VI of 1876) was 55, being 4 less than in the preceding year. The demand, collections and balances for 1892-93 are shown in the following statement :—

Want of funds due to various causes appears to have prevented the due execution of the approved scheme of liquidation in many estates. From the Commissioner's remarks quoted by the Board, there appears to be an inherent tendency in the landlords of Chota Nagpur to run into debt, and many of them contract debts even while their estates are under Government management, the result sometimes being that a proprietor whose estate has been released, freed from the original encumbrances finds himself almost immediately under the necessity of again applying for the protection of the Act. The Commissioner thinks that the operation of the Act is of doubtful utility to the community at large.

18. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor congratulates the Board of Revenue on the very efficient manner in which they discharge their duties as a Court of Wards, and on the good results which they obtain with almost unbroken uniformity. The names of those officers whom the Board have singled out for favourable mention will be reported to the Appointment Department as usual.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

M. FINUCANE,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE BURDWAN DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1892-93.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.—MISCELLANEOUS No. 2560.

Calcutta, the 14th November 1893.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual General Administration Report of the Burdwan Division for the year 1892-93.

The Annual General Administration Report of the Burdwan Division for the year 1891-92, and the Resolution recorded thereon.

The Burdwan Division had the advantage of being in charge of one officer, Mr. Power, throughout the year. There were changes of officers in charge of all the districts of the division with the exception of the district of Burdwan. It is the desire of Government to avoid constant changes in divisional and district appointments, but circumstances from time to time render transfers of charge unavoidable.

Tours.

2. The Commissioner and the District Officers, with the exception of Mr. Grant, of Birbhum, who has retired from the service, and the Sub-divisional Officers were on tour in their respective jurisdictions for the period prescribed in Government Resolution No. 398T.G., dated 17th October 1891. All district offices and all treasuries, with the exception of that at Hooghly, which was under inspection by the Collector at the time of his visit, and all the sub-divisional offices were inspected by Mr. Power. All the Collectors, except one, also inspected their own offices and treasuries, and their respective sub-divisional offices and treasuries during the year. These inspections did not bring to light any serious irregularities; the offices were all found in fairly good order.

Weather and crop, health and condition of the people, and sanitation.

3. Last year the weather was most unfavourable; the rainfall was not so much remarkable for its scantiness as for its uneven distribution, resulting in the partial failure of crops in some parts of the division. The mischief was greatest in the north and centre of Bankura, in the south of Midnapore, centre of Hooghly and parts of Howrah, and it was least in Birbhum, where the outturn was 16 annas. Irrigation from canals saved much of the winter paddy on lands near them. These partial failures of crops have not told much upon the general health of the people, as indicated by the mortuary returns of the division, the death-rate being less than in the previous year in all the districts except Burdwan, where the climate has been exceptionally bad of late, but they checked to a certain extent the general advance of prosperity in most of the districts, and caused some distress in particular localities. Test relief works were opened in the affected tracts, but they failed to attract any considerable number of labourers. Temporary migration and private employment, stimulated by advances under the Land Improvement Acts, provided sufficiently for those in real need. Mr. Grierson, Collector of Howrah, gives the following glowing description of the condition of the people in his district:—

"Never, he says, in my whole Indian experience have I seen so well-to-do a class of people as that which forms the population of the district. I remarked on this in my last report. Then I had just come from the poorest district in the province to one of the richest, and the contrast was striking.

"My tours have emphasised this experience. I have not served in Eastern Bengal, but I know Central and Northern Bengal and Bihar pretty well, and in none of them have I seen the prosperity which forces itself upon the attention in Howrah.

"The reasons are equally obvious: a fertile alluvial soil and close proximity of a great city, which provides not only a ready market with high prices for the products of cultivation, but also employment at good wages for the landless members of the community. It literally reminds me of the fabled state of prosperity celebrated by Indian poets in the reign of King Dilipa, when even the 'name of theft' was forgotten. Petty offences against property are few, and those which do occur are, as a rule, committed by impecunious foreigners who come from distant parts of the country to annex a share of those worldly goods which have been provided in such abundance. The people of the district are honest, for they have no temptation to steal. In one of the larger towns of the district I found that the people prided themselves on leaving things lying about in the streets and their shops open and unguarded."

But even in this Arcadia, "where men are so good or so cold as not to be tempted by gold," some vanities and weaknesses assert themselves. Mr. Grierson writes that:—

"Schools are plentiful and popular, English knowledge is eagerly sought after, women never work in the fields, dresses are clean, made of good cloth, and are invariably accompanied by that symbol of respectability (what a top hat is to an Englishman)—the umbrella. Finally, material comforts are appreciated. The English 'chota hazri' is firmly established in the meanest village. A morning ride shows each family squatted round a low table drinking tea, well seasoned with plenty of sugar. So also the 'doctor' is everywhere present. Each large village has its two rival medical halls—one allopathic and another homœopathic—with perhaps a third, whose proprietor with noble eclecticism practices both branches of the healing art, and gives his patient a choice of treatments. Doctors may mean disease, but they certainly do mean the presence of a body of patients sufficiently well off to support the practitioners."

In the Division generally, public health was satisfactory. Fever was less virulent in all districts, and small-pox occurred to a less extent than in the previous year in Midnapore, Burdwan, and in part of Bankura among the Santhals who refused to accept vaccination. Cholera, attributed to defective water-supply and to pilgrims returning from gatherings, prevailed more or less in all the districts. Sanitation, it is reported, was not properly attended to either by the District Boards or the Municipalities. The negligence of some of the Municipalities in regard to sanitary precautions, especially that of Ghatal, is said to be extremely culpable.

The wage of a common agricultural labourer varied from three annas per day in Bankura to five annas in Howrah, and was generally about four annas.

Manufacture, trade, and commerce.

4. Owing to successive bad harvests during the last two years, the export of rice and paddy fell off in the districts of Burdwan, Bankura and Midnapore. There was also a decrease in the export of rice from Birbhum, but it had to a certain extent been counterbalanced by a larger export of paddy from the district. In Bankura the outturn of cocoons greatly fell off owing to the crippled means of the people brought about by successive failures of crops. But it was not so in Birbhum, where the trade in this article was brisk. Indigo industry is declining both in Burdwan and Bankura. In Midnapore the outturn was exceptionally good. Paper Mills at both Bally and Raniganj are fast supplanting the native industry in the Division. Owing to the rise in the price of European piece-goods in consequence of the fall in exchange, the manufacture of cotton cloth in the Division has increased. But the stimulus is only a temporary one, and the days of this industry are numbered.

Administrative changes.

5. Several administrative changes of greater or less importance were introduced during the year. The provisions of the Steam Boilers and Prime Movers Act were introduced in the town of Burdwan. The Barakar Iron Works, the Raniganj Paper Mills and the Pottery Works were brought under the operation of the Indian Factories Act. A uniform thanawari rate of chaukidars' pay was introduced into villages where Act VI (B.C.) of 1870 was in force. The charge of Provincial civil works was transferred to the District Board. Vaccination work was transferred to the Civil Surgeon. The collection of the zamindari dâk cess was transferred to the Collector. The provisions of Act XI of 1892 (Prevention of Cruelty to Animals) were extended to the town of Contai in Midnapore and to all Municipalities in the district of Hooghly.

Civil Justice.

* This total includes the figures of Judges and Sub-Judges.
† These figures show the number of witnesses who attended.

There has been an increase in ordinary, rent, and title suits. The increase in money and rent-suits may be attributed to bad harvests during the past two years, which prevented the poorer classes from meeting their obligations. The number of witnesses detained over two days was very large, being 21 per cent. of the total number examined, while in the Uluberia and Jehanabad Munsifs' Courts it was as high as 48 and 44 per cent., respectively.

Crime, Police, and Criminal Justice.

7. Cognizable crime also increased, the number of cases being 17,917 in 1891, while in the last year it rose to 20,567. Every district shows an increase, the chief reasons assigned being bad harvests and the disorganised state of the rural police. In Midnapore the Magistrate and District Superintendent of Police were satisfied that crime was being suppressed by the Police, and their exertions to prevent suppression resulted in an increase of recorded cases. In Hooghly nuisance cases swelled the list, but if they be excluded, there was a slight decrease.

There was a slight decrease in the figures for non-cognizable cases. They were 20,148 in the last year against 20,351 in the previous year. Last year there was a decided improvement as to the number of remands in criminal cases. The percentage of cases adjourned more than six times fell from 3·4 to 1·4, while over 52 per cent. of them were disposed of at the first hearing. There was also decrease in bad livelihood cases.

Notwithstanding the supposed suppression of reports on unpromising cases in Midnapore, it is stated that the police force in the Division generally conducted itself fairly well. With the paucity of officers and increase in the number of dacoity and gang robbery cases, great difficulty was experienced in complying with the Inspector-General's Circular No. 6 of February 1892, which directed that the investigation of such cases should be invariably supervised on the spot by sub-district police officer. The Commissioner has the following remarks on the chaukidars:—

"All the Magistrates are of opinion that Act VI chaukidars now give satisfaction and are regularly paid.

"With reference to chakran chaukidars, Mr. Williams considers their abolition necessary for efficient police administration. The continued prevalence of high prices is leading to the extinction of "darmashahara"*chaukidars and to the gradual substitution of Act VI men. Mr. Windsor, the present Officiating Magistrate of Burdwan, writes that 'the chakran chaukidar is, as a rule, hand-and-glove with the dacoits and burglars. He is generally badly off, and is becoming more so year by year. His predecessors and he himself have sold, leased and mortgaged the service lands and diminished the income thereof' Attempts are being made to improve their condition by not filling up appointments where there are more chaukidars in a village than the ratio of 1 to 60 houses would warrant, and dividing the lands thus vacated among those remaining.

"The Magistrate of Bankura writes that the Regulation chaukidars in the south get a mere pittance of 8 annas or a rupee a month, and now in a time of scarcity they can hardly collect even that; the people there are said to be too poor to pay adequate salaries

"The Magistrate of Birbhum is taking steps for the gradual introduction of Act VI, but he complains of being 'harassed by constant enquiries about chakran lands,' as he has no record of the boundaries of such lands held by each chaukidar.

"There are over 5,000 Regulation and chakran chaukidars in Midnapore; their reorganization is desirable.

"Mr Duke, Magistrate of Hooghly, writes:—'Police work is now so exacting that a chaukidar who has his chakran lands to cultivate has not time to do the zamindar's mal work. Hence most chaukidars are under the thumb of the zamindar, who has no trouble, when occasion arises, in proving that the chaukidar does not perform his mal duties. Consequently, whenever there is any difference of opinion between the police and the zamindar, and the chaukidar obeys the police, the zamindar can, and I am sorry to say constantly does, revenge himself on the chaukidar by suing him for the non-performance of mal duties.

'I have left no stone unturned to support the chaukidars, but Government is no party to these suits, and, so far as I have gone, I have only been strengthened in the conviction that the sooner we can extricate ourselves from the system of two masters, the better. I therefore make it a settled policy on all possible occasions to introduce Act VI (B.C.) of 1870.'

"In contrast with the above condemnatory remarks against chakran chaukidars, it is only fair to quote what Mr. Grierson says of their work in Howrah:—'Wherever I have gone on tour, the chakran chaukidars were certainly the best. They were the best set up, the best at work, the most obedient, and the most regular in attendance at parades. They are well-to-do men, and their holdings are so valuable that they cannot afford the luxury of disobedience with dismissal as its result.

'Whatever the chakran chaukdidar's duties to the zamindar may be, I do not know; but I do know that, as a question of practical police administration, I as Magistrate get all that I want out of them.'

"It would appear that the service tenures are larger and zamindars less exacting in Howrah than in Hooghly: the chaukidars themselves are far more intelligent in the former district; in the latter they belong mainly to the semi-aboriginal classes, some of whom are described as little better than savages. From the number of appeals against dismissals by chakran chaukidars (there were 28 to me last year), it is evident that their tenures are valuable and coveted."

Of 361 persons committed for trial in Sessions Courts, 217, or nearly 60 per cent., were convicted against 232 commitments and 94 convictions, i.e., 40 per cent. in 1891. The result was good in Bankura and Howrah, but not so in Burdwan.

* These figures show the number of witnesses who attended.
N.B.—A fraction indicates that an officer was employed for a fractional part of the year.

Taking Stipendiary Magistrates first, 49 officers disposed of 16,511 cases, the number of cases disposed by each being on an average 337. The largest amount of work was done in the Midnapore district (specially at the Sadar and Contai subdivision), and in Howrah, Burdwan, and Serampore. The average number of witnesses examined in each case was 3·1. The number of police cases disposed of was 4,413, of which 135, or 3·06 per cent., were remanded six times or more.

The number of cases disposed of by 49¾ Honorary Magistrates was 11,509, against 10,900 in 1891 by 36 officers. District Magistrates generally commend the work of the Benches.

8. From the statement given below it appears that the attendance of the Honorary Magistrates was on the whole fairly good, though there is still much room for further improvement. Mr. Power, agreeing in this with the Commissioner of Patna, recommends that Honorary Magistrates should be appointed in future only for a term of years, so that habitual absentees need not be re-appointed and Honorary Magistrates may be saved from the disgrace of removal, and District Magistrates from the unpleasant duty of severely criticising assistance voluntarily given:—

Registration.

11. The registrations of the year under review exceeded those of 1891-92 by 25,825. The following table gives the figures for each district :—

There was an increase in the number of documents registered from 152,922 in 1891-92 to 178,747 in the year under review, which the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor agrees in thinking to be due to the normal growth in popularity of the Registration Department.

During the year a new sub-registry office was opened at Chanditalla in the district of Hooghly.

Though there was an improvement in the collections as compared with those of the previous year, still the realisations did not generally reach the prescribed standard, except in Birbhum. Out of a total demand of Rs. 1,00,61,125 on account of land revenue, road cess, and zamindari dák cess, current and arrear, Rs. 93,13,863 were collected and Rs. 33,734 remitted, the balance being Rs. 7,15,874 against Rs. 8,15,651 in 1891-92.

In permanently-settled estates the percentage of total Land Revenue collections on total demand reached the prescribed standard of 99 per cent. in Birbhum and Midnapore; and in Burdwan, Bankura, and Hooghly with Howrah it was above 98 per cent.

In temporarily-settled estates the collections were far below the standard except in Birbhum where, however, the revenue from this class of estates is trifling.

In the case of Khas Mahals the realisations were also very bad.

* The Commissioner of Burdwan has included the statement of certificate of Howrah.
‡ The grand total for 1891-92 includes the figures of Howrah.

The number of certificates pending from 1891-92 was 29,581; 32,156 were filed and 33,122 disposed of during the year, leaving 28,615 at the close of the year. The number instituted during the year decreased by more than 22 per cent., chiefly under head "Road and Public Works Cesses" in Burdwan and Hooghly. Certificates for water-rates in Midnapore also show a continued decrease. Owing to failure in the past to keep the records corrected up to date in the Majnamutha estates, recourse to the certificate procedure for realisation of rents has become impracticable, and arrangements have been made to sue in the Civil Courts instead.

Settlements.

14. There were no important settlements of Government estates in any of the districts of the Division. Settlements of the Pataspur temporarily-settled estate under the Bengal Tenancy Act and of the Burdwan Raj Khas Mahals were in progress during the year. The settlement of Sujamutha, except village Madakhali, was completed, and the Settlement Officer has submitted his final report to the Commissioner.

Drainage.

15. There are four drainage schemes in the Division, all—in the district of Hooghly, viz., Dankuni, Howrah, Rajapur and Amta. The original cost of the first project has been collected; its future maintenance charges, which have been capitalised, are under collection. Work in connection with the second and third projects has been completed, but collections have not yet commenced; the last is in the hands of the Public Works Department.

Loans.

16. Out of Rs. 60,000 allotted to the Division for loans under the Land Improvement and Agricultural Loans Acts, only Rs. 29,340 were actually spent during the year. The reason assigned for failure to utilise the sanctioned amount was that the grant lapsed before the necessary enquiries could be completed. The Commissioner suggests either that these grants be made on a biennial or triennial estimate, or that they should lapse, not in the middle of the busiest season when enquiries are in full swing and cogency of demand greatest, but at the end of August, when work is over and the bhadoi crop coming in. The Commissioner's suggestion will be submitted for consideration to the Board of Revenue.

Wards' Estates.

17. There were 11 estates in the Division under the Court of Wards against 10 in the previous year. The percentage of total collections on total demands (i.e., current demand and arrears) in the Burdwan Raj estates amounted to nearly 70 per cent., whilst the collections in the estates situated in the district of Midnapore were very low, varying from 21 to 61 per cent. The collections in the Burdwan Raj estates amounted to 99·7 per cent. on the current demand—a result which is satisfactory, considering the shortness of the harvests. The outstanding arrears in wards' estates in this Division are very heavy. It is bad policy to maintain on the books arrears which cannot be paid. The arrear accounts of estates should now be examined in detail, and all sums which are irrecoverable by legal process, or beyond the capacity of the raiyats to pay, should be remitted. The true policy to pursue in land management is to adjust the demand within the law, to the circumstances of each holding, and then to insist on punctual payment.

There has been a marked increase both in the number of schools and pupils as compared with the previous year. The total number of schools rose from 10,622 to 10,883, and the pupils from 253,857 to 300,400. The number of girls' schools increased from 287 to 370, and the number of pupils attending them from 7,662 to 8,024; besides 9,261 girls attended boys' schools. The increase was contributed to by all districts except Bankura and Howrah.

The number of Muhammadan pupils attending the different classes of schools in the division rose from 29,664 to 30,883; the number of pupils in Bankura and Howrah decreased.

The percentage of boys at school on the total number of a school-going age is 51·6, so that more than half the entire number of boys of a school-going age are at school. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor thinks that these figures are satisfactory and creditable to the local educational and district officers.

Dispensaries and Hospitals.

20. The following table gives statistics relating to dispensaries:—

Total ...	38	10,140	4,543	27,751	53,281	95,715	265·89	1,494·89	2 8

The ratio of the outdoor patients to the total population of the districts is very low in Bankura and Birbhum. The two Burdwan Raj dispensaries at Burdwan and Kalna and the Municipal dispensary at Burdwan are specially well spoken of. A female hospital has been established at Bankura.

Local Self-Government Institutions.

21. District Boards on the whole worked satisfactorily and attendance was fairly good, but there was lack of keen interest in the administration on the part of the members in respect of which Mr. Duke, of Hooghly, writes as follows:—

"It would be unjust and ungrateful to complain of the apathy in the members, for I found them on all occasions most willing to assist me and anxious that business should be efficiently conducted; but at the same time I think there is an underlying sense that there is very little for the members to do. The Board in fact is so poor, its wants are so much beyond its income, that there is never anything new or popular to be done, and I think that after a certain experience of this damping fact, members come to feel that, where the income has obviously to be spent on only the most necessary and peremptory requirements, there is very little room for discussion, and most things may be left in the hands of the executive."

As members of Local Boards receive no travelling allowance, those who live at a distance do not attend regularly, but such duties as are delegated to these bodies are said to be performed with fair success. Mr. Grierson, as Chairman of the Howrah Municipality, acknowledges the sympathy and support he has received from the municipal members during the year. Since its close some difference of opinion in regard to sanitary improvements has arisen, but His Honour hopes that as both parties have the interest of the town at heart, these difficulties may be overcome in a reasonable spirit. Mr. Grierson raises a larger question by his recommendation that Howrah should be amalgamated with Calcutta to ensure the advantage of skilled supervision, for which it cannot now afford to pay. Burdwan, Raniganj, Kalna, Bankura, Vishnupur, and Suri were fairly well managed. In Midnapore the town itself was neglected. Ghatal was bad as regards drainage and drinking-water. Tamluk was improving. Hooghly was managed with general success. Bansberia was so mismanaged that an official Chairman had to be appointed. Serampore, as in the previous year, suffered from having had an absentee Chairman. The administration of Utterpara was good, but party spirit ran high, necessitating the resignation of an efficient Chairman. The spirit of faction also prevailed at Bally.

Public feeling.

22. On the state of public feeling, the Commissioner makes the following remarks:—

"The amendment of the Chaukidari Act, the Municipal Act Amendment Bill, and the Jury Notification agitated the minds of such members of the public as are imbued more or less with Western ideas; of the first we no longer hear anything; withdrawal of some contestable clauses of the second and entire withdrawal of the last pacified all who took any interest in the subject. Genuine public feeling can scarcely be said to exist; even in Hooghly, supposed to be one of the most advanced districts in Bengal, it is not a flourishing plant."

Social and political institutions, and conduct of zamindars.

23. There is nothing of special comment under this head. In Burdwan the relations of zamindars and raiyats were generally satisfactory. In Hooghly and Howrah some zamindars endeavoured to raise by illegal means the rents of land benefited by the Rajapur drainage scheme. In Midnapore proprietors with one notable exception treated their tenants where crops failed with consideration.

24. The Lieutenant-Governor thanks Mr. Power for his administration of the Division, and notices with satisfaction the praise bestowed by him upon Messrs. Williams, Dutt and Grierson, among the Collectors, and on Babu Pran Kumar Das, Munshi Nundjee and Babu Jaga Bandhu Bhatacharjee, among Deputy Collectors. The report on the qualifications of officers will be communicated to the Appointment Department, intimation being given to the officers concerned in cases where seriously unfavourable remarks have been made.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

M. FINUCANE,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE DACCA DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1892-93.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.—MISCELLANEOUS No. 2583.

Calcutta, the 14th November 1893.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual General Administration Report of the Dacca Division for the year 1892-93.

1. The report is submitted by Mr. Luttman-Johnson, who took charge of the Division as Commissioner in November last, a month and ten days after the date on which it was due. The office of Commissioner of Dacca was held by the late Mr. C. F. Worsley from the 1st April to the 21st May 1892, by Mr. T. L. Jenkins from the 22nd May to the 21st June, by Mr. H. G. Cooke from the 22nd June to the 1st November, and by Mr. Luttman-Johnson for the remainder of the year.

Tours and inspections.

2. Of the officers who successively acted as Commissioner, Mr. Worsley spent 22 days, Mr. Cooke 35 days, and Mr. Luttman-Johnson 80 days on tour. All the district and subdivisional offices and treasuries except Tangail were inspected by Mr. Luttman-Johnson, who remarks that he found very great room for reform in several directions and departments.

The Collectors of Faridpur and Backergunge were on tour for more than the periods prescribed for their respective districts. In Dacca and Mymensingh the tours fell short of the prescribed periods, the explanations furnished being that in the former district Mr. Jenkins was disabled by fever towards the close of the year, while in the latter Mr. Palit, who was in charge for nearly two months during the best part of the boating season, only spent nine days on tour—an insufficient proportion. The use of boats permits of tours in this Division being spread over a greater portion of the year—an advantage to which most officers are fully alive. Mr. Savage in Backergunge spent some days of every month and Mr. Jenkins in Dacca some days of eleven months on tour with very useful results. The tours of sub-divisional officers were all of the prescribed length.

Weather and crops, and material condition of the people.

3. The rainfall of the year, taking the Division as a whole, was in excess of the average of the previous five years by 1·36 inches, and was fairly well distributed, in Dacca the amount received was 2·44 inches below the average. The aus crop suffered in some districts from the too sudden rise of the water, and the boro from unusual floods, but the outturn of aman rice, the most important food-crop of the Division, was fully up to the average. Prices, however, ruled high—a fact which the Commissioner attributes to the increase of the area under jute and the consequent contraction of the food-stocks. The only classes adversely affected are those with small fixed incomes and wage-earners. The agricultural population continue to be prosperous, and artizans, except weavers, command high prices for their work and are well off. The daily wage of a common cooly is reported to be 4 annas a day in Backergunge, 5 annas in Dacca, while in Mymensingh it is said to vary from $2\frac{1}{2}$ to 8 annas per day.

Public health.

4. The total number of deaths registered was 251,839, against 234,157 in 1891-92, the ratio of deaths registered per mille of the population ranged from 12·38 in Mymensingh to 43·6 in Backergunge, the variations being caused for the most part by the different degrees of success attained in the registration of mortality. Mr. Savage is to be congratulated on the results in Backergunge, which indicate that considerable attention has been paid to this subject, while in Mymensingh the figures are not only worthless in themselves, but they are even worse than in the preceding year. The Commissioner is personally of opinion that the year was not unhealthy, the annual inundation having been in his opinion sufficient to cleanse the tanks and wells and replenish the water-supply, on which the health of the people chiefly depends. Fever is said to account for two-thirds of the deaths in the Division. Small-pox raged virulently in the Dacca town and district, causing 1,659 deaths.

It may be mentioned here that there is much room for improvement in the registration of births and deaths in municipal areas—a duty which was transferred to the police by the orders of December 1891, and which appears to be much neglected, especially in Mymensingh.

Trade and commerce.

5. The only novel feature in the trade and commerce of the year is that common earthenware plates and dishes from Holland are now largely sold in this Division. The Commissioner writes:—

"The trade of the port of Narayanganj has not recovered the decline of 1891-92; indeed, there has again been a small decrease—about one per cent. Though there was an increased export of jute, there was a decrease in value. Less salt was imported, prices of this article at Chittagong ruling high. Jute business at Goalundo largely increased, while in oil-seeds business was very slack there."

There was less rice exported from Backergunge than in the previous year owing, the Commissioner thinks, to the action of the raiyats in holding their stocks either with a view to obtaining higher prices or from fear of scarcity. A large business was as usual done in betelnuts and cocoanuts, the former being said to pay one-third of the rent.

Administrative changes.

6. Among administrative changes, the Commissioner mentions the following:—

"The Collector of Mymensingh has made a small but very radical change in the distribution of work among the officers attached to the Sadar station. He found that each officer did a little of everything. He found especially that where criminal judicial was combined with revenue and miscellaneous work, the former was apt to crowd out the latter. Accordingly he has set apart certain officers to do the criminal judicial work, and has confined them to this and the executive work inseparably connected therewith—police, chaukidars, arms, ammunitions. I shall watch the result of this experiment with great interest. The Collector of Dacca is making similar arrangements."

The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor desires the Commissioner to submit a special further report on the results of this experiment.

* Shows the number of witnesses who attended.

The number of civil suits disposed of increased from 113,654 to 131,413, or 15·6 per cent. As compared with the beginning of the year, the number of suits pending has decreased by 8,430, or 29·3 per cent. The remarkable difference in point of material prosperity and in that resort to litigation which seems to attend prosperity, which exists between the Dacca and Patna Divisions, is illustrated by the fact that, with a population only somewhat more than half that of Patna, the Dacca Division shows six-times the number of money suits and two-and-a-half times the number of rent suits instituted in Patna. The Commissioner makes the following remarks:—

"There has been a large increase in the number of suits disposed of, 15·6 per cent., mostly in the money and moveables class, but largely also in the rent suits class; still there was only one suit to 74 of the population. Faridpur is the most litigious district, with 61 persons to a suit. There is no corresponding increase in our income from court-fee stamps, so the increase is probably in suits of small value.

In the money and moveables class there is large increase in Dacca, Faridpur, and Mymensingh, some 20 per cent., while in Backergunge there is small decrease.

The Collector of Mymensingh explains that the increase in his district is due to the scarcity which prevailed during a portion of the year, and which rendered it impossible for debtors to meet their liabilities. In rent suits, on the other hand, though there is increase in all districts, it is largest in Backergunge, due, the Collector thinks, to the prosperity of the people; no doubt rent-receivers take advantage of a good year to press their claims. The increase in rent suits in Mymensingh is stated to have occurred chiefly in the Tangail sub-division, and is attributed to the inundation of 1889-90. In title suits there is little change on the whole."

The ratio of witnesses detained over two days per cent. of the witnesses examined is very high at some munsifs, especially Iswarganj, Kishorganj, Goalundo and Narayanganj. The ratio of appeals confirmed to the total number disposed of ranges from 51·4 in Backergunge to 64·8 in Faridpur.

Crime.

8. Both cognizable and non-cognizable crime increased during the year, the total number of cases of both kinds being 36,630 in 1892, against 33,269 in 1891 and 31,036 in 1890. The increase in cognizable crime occurred chiefly in the number of burglaries and thefts committed in Dacca and Mymensingh, while there was a large decrease in the number of these offences in Faridpur and Backergunge. The latter, being exporting districts, benefited by the high prices which with the prevailing scarcity developed criminal propensities elsewhere.

It is probable, however, that other causes were also at work to bring about these results, for, as the Commissioner remarks, the increase in crime was not so great in the Kishorganj and Netrokona sub-divisions of Mymensingh, which suffered most from scarcity, as in the rest of the district: good police administration rendering successful the measures taken to control and supervise the criminal population and the degree to which petty offences are reported are factors which have an important influence on criminal statistics.

The Commissioner gives some interesting figures showing that the districts of his division compare favourably in point of turbulence with Sylhet in Assam. Taking cases of unlawful assembly and rioting together, after Sylhet comes Dacca, then Faridpur, Mymensingh and Backergunge in the order named. The number of cases, however, in which loss of life occurred is greatest in Backergunge, and it must also be borne in mind that preventive measures under section 107, Criminal Procedure Code, are far more largely resorted to in that district than elsewhere.

Police.

9. The weakness of the regular police in this Division has been recognized, and improvements are contemplated when funds become available. Some interesting remarks are made by the Commissioner and the District Officers regarding the conduct and morale of the force. The Commissioner writes thus from a somewhat novel standpoint:—

"The police are not and can never be a popular body. Here, in India, they are perhaps more unpopular than they are in other countries A very distinguished native officer recently remarked to me that the police would never improve so long as people continued to offer them bribes. I am inclined to agree with him that the faults of the police are the faults of the people, and that only as the people rise to a higher level of public morality will the character of the police improve. From this point of view the lavish abuse of the police which disfigures the native press is encouraging, as showing that the people are becoming more alive to their (own) faults in connection with the police."

The following extract contains Mr. Savage's remarks on the police of Backergunge. He writes that—

"In his district, excluding the police employed on guard and other duties, only 409 persons are employed on regular police duties, or one to 5,266 of the population, as compared with one to 3,503 in the Province of Bengal, and whatever may be said (and much may be said truthfully) against our police, it must always be borne in mind that this small force has to cope, and has with a fair measure of success coped, with crime in a district notorious for the turbulent character of its inhabitants. When we consider the numerical weakness of the force, the bad pay, the hard work, and the manifold temptations which a district (in which every thief and lathial is rich enough to command the services of a trained pleader) can throw in the way of officers and men alike, the wonder is, not that the police fail to do their duty in many instances, but that duty is to them a word with any meaning. Nevertheless, we have officers and men who are zealous in the discharge of their duties, and if they be still outnumbered by the lazy, incompetent and dishonest, as I am afraid it must be admitted they are, their number will, it is to be hoped, increase year by year with increase of pay to the men greater care in the recruiting of officers."

Rural Police.

10. There appears to be great disparity between the efficiency of the rural police in different districts. Dacca is still backward in this respect. In Faridpur and Mymensingh matters are improving, but much still remains to be done before these districts are on a level with Backergunge. The following account is taken from the Commissioner's report:—

"Mr. Savage, Magistrate of Backergunge, writes that the chaukidars in his district are now well paid and are a very useful body of men. He states that, as a rule, the chaukidar is a man of influence in his village, and can, if he will, keep his mahalla in order. His post is regarded as a very desirable one, and it is his interest to keep it by doing his duty From the reward fund now started, the Magistrate hopes to be able to give better rewards and so increase the incentive to good work. I think Backergunge is unique in chaukidari as in some other matters. So desirable is the post of chaukidar in this district, that chaukidars, when dismissed, generally appeal to me. They often come to all the way to Dacca to plead their own cause.

I attended a parade at Pirojpur in this district a short time ago, and was astonished at the smartness and intelligence of the men. They bring their uniforms in neat bags, and put them on clean for parade. Each had a neat chunga containing his sanad of appointment, his registers of vital statistics, his acquittance roll, and also a copy of questions he had to answer at parade.

It is stated that in this district the chaukidars have now greatly improved in rendering assistance to station officers, and have in numerous instances averted riots which would otherwise have occurred had they not given prior intimation to the police."

It is worthy of note that under a scheme drawn out by Mr. Savage all the chaukidars in his district have been paid in full for the Bengali year 1299, while in every other district there are considerable arrears

* One died.
† Shows number of witnesses who attended.

Forty-one Stipendiary Magistrates disposed of 18,027 cases, being an average of 440 cases to each officer against 413 in 1891. The Sub-divisional Officer of Pirojpur in Backergunge disposed of 1,095 cases, with an average of four witnesses to each case. At Patuakhali 879 cases and at Narayanganj 700 cases were disposed of by an officer with an average at both places of three witnesses to each case. At Netrokona and Jamalpur the average number of witnesses in each case was as high as six. The percentage of witnesses detained over two days to the number examined was greatest at Kishorganj (16 per cent.) and Narayanganj (11 per cent.) The ratio of A cases remanded six times and more to the number disposed of was over 10 per cent. at Tangail, Jamalpur Backergunge (Sadar) and Patuakhali. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to acknowledge that there has been an improvement in the promptitude with which witnesses were examined and in the ratio of convictions confirmed on appeal.

The number of cases disposed of by Honorary Magistrates rose from 4,269 in 1891 to 4,606 in 1892, which was 20·3 per cent. of the total number of cases disposed of, and there can be no doubt that Honorary Magistrates render valuable assistance to the regular staff. Backergunge is still backward in making use of this agency for the trial of cases.

The Honorary Magistrates at Kishorganj, Netrokona, Pirojpur. and Madaripur detained over 10 per cent. of their witnesses for more than two days. The results on appeal are not satisfactory in view of the simple nature of the cases which Honorary Magistrates have to try. The figures are worst for Tangail, Mymensing (Sadar) and Naraingani.

12. The following table shows the attendance of Honorary Magistrates during 1892:—

Total for the Division.	274	6,646	5,005	476	1,165	1,641

The number of absences without leave or notice is largest in Mymensingh and Faridpur and least in Backergunge, where the number of Honorary Magistrates is small. The Commissioner writes regarding the system as follows:—

"The whole system requires reorganisation. In the first place we cannot expect Honorary Magistrates to work unless we provide them with proper cutcherries and attendants. I have found Honorary Magistrates, who should be first served, relegated to all sorts of makeshift abodes. Then the roster system of attendance seems to me highly inconvenient. An Honorary Magistrate should sit certain days in the week or month, and should give notice a week beforehand when he is unable to attend. There should be an understudy ready to take the place of any Magistrate prevented from attending by sudden illness or other accident. It is a fact that in this Division few Benches sit more than once a week. A daily Bench, such as has been organised at many stations, is unknown. I hope soon to have daily Benches at head-quarters of districts and sub-divisions. The instructions contained in Circular No. 2843J., dated 30th May 1893, will greatly improve the organisation of Benches."

It is noticed that the outstanding balances were larger at the close than at the beginning of the year in all districts.

15. The number of documents registered during the year was as follows:— Registration.

District.	Class of Registration office.	Number of offices.	Number of documents registered.	Average per office.
1	2	3	4	5
Dacca	Special ...	1	5,377	5,377

Total for 1891-92 ...	Special ...	4	20,610	5,152
	Rural ...	44	153,409	3,487

There was an increase in the number of registrations which as in other divisions being due to the increasing popularity of the Department is normal and requires no special explanation. Backergunge heads the list with 69,084 documents registered, and Dacca is last with 32,205 registrations. The Commissioner says:—

"Though the increase in business is not so great as in the previous year, it is still highly satisfactory. The increase is distributed over all the districts. While an increase of Rs. 19,635 in receipts in 1891-92 entailed an increase of only Rs. 5,937 in expenditure, this year an increase of Rs. 5,733 in expenditure has only brought in Rs. 8,045 improved income. So, while we made a local profit of Rs. 1,20,119 in 1891-92, this year we have only made Rs. 1,22,431. In Dacca and Mymensingh increased income only about covers increased expenditure; in Backergunge there is a small decrease in receipts, while expenditure increased by Rs. 516; only in Faridpur is there really much improvement in profits, Rs. 3,268. This has not been satisfactorily explained. It is thought that there has been improvement in copying fees and in fees charged for delay in taking back documents."

The total collections of land revenue amounted to Rs. 35,14,217 against Rs. 34,95,801 in the previous year, 95·7 per cent. of the total demand having been collected against a percentage of 94·4 in 1891-92. The collections in estates of class II were poor, except in Backergunge, where over 94 per cent. of the true recoverable demand was collected in all estates of this class. Owing to the assessment of new estates and new accretions in Backergunge, the revenue from estates held under direct management increased from Rs. 4,95,768 to Rs. 5,23,830, and the cost of management fell from 7·5 per cent. of the current demand to 5·5. The collections in estates leased to farmers were particularly bad in Dacca and Faridpur, and the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor considers the explanations offered of these unsatisfactory results altogether inadequate.

In regard to cesses, the percentage of collections on gross demand varies from 84·3 in Faridpur to 96·9 in Dacca. There has been improvement since the previous year in nearly all districts, but there is room for further improvement in Faridpur.

Certificate Procedure.

17. The statement below exhibits the certificate work of the year:—

* These figures exclude the number of certificates received from other districts.

There were 14,157 of which 10,567 were disposed of, leaving 3,590 pending at the close of the year. The cases disposed of exceeded the number instituted in all the districts of the Division, except Mymensingh, where the number pending at the close of the year was very large, owing, it is said, to the fact that 1,347 cases were instituted in the last quarter of the year as compared with 817 institutions in the corresponding quarter of the preceding year.

Partition.

18. The total number of partition cases for disposal was 555, including 463 which were pending at the close of the preceding year. Of these 114 were disposed of, thus reducing the number of cases pending at the end of the year to 441. In Dacca the oldest pending case dates from January 1881, in Mymensingh from August 1883, and in Backergunge from January 1884. It is desirable that some explanation should be offered in the column of remarks to account for these long delays. The same remark applies to the statement of Land Acquisition cases.

Excise.

19. The main features of the working of the Excise Department are exhibited in the statement below—

The consumption of country spirits has increased in Faridpur and diminished in other districts, while Dacca only shows a slightly increased consumption of ganja. Mr. Savage introduced in Backergunge a system of issuing ganja to licensees only in proportion to the amount of license fees paid by them, which, while it considerably reduced the quantity of ganja sold, has brought retail selling prices to one and the same level, prevented unhealthy competition, and checked illicit sales.

The excise revenue amounted to Rs. 8,10,440 against Rs. 8,18,086 in 1891-92, the incidence of revenue being 1 anna 3 pie per head of the population.

Income Tax.

20. The average incidence of the income-tax in this division is Re. 1 to 35 persons. The incidence varies from Re. 1 to 28 persons in Dacca, to Re. 1 to 48 persons in Faridpur, where the Commissioner seems to think that the tax could be made more productive without resorting to harsh assessments.

Communications.

21. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor observes with pleasure the development of steamer communications in this division. Some of the services now maintained receive subsidies from the different District Boards, but it is hoped that they will soon be in a position to dispense with such assistance. If the companies which run these steamers are soundly managed, they should do remunerative business and confer much benefit on the people of Eastern Bengal, where the great waterways are the natural avenues of wealth.

The Commissioner's remarks about projected railways will be considered in the Public Works Department, and those on the subject of towing-paths in the Municipal Department. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Commissioner in thinking that the proper maintenance of towing-paths is a matter of much importance to the people in districts like Backergunge, where traffic is principally carried on through rivers.

Education.

22. The following table gives the main educational statistics for each district in the division exclusive of private institutions for indigenous instruction :—

NOTE.—In the above statement the cost of buildings, furniture, inspection, scholarships and miscellaneous charges amounting to Rs. 1,13,745 is not included.

It will be observed that about 29·6 per cent. of the boys of school-going age were actually at school, the highest ratio being in Backergunge (42·2 per cent.) and the lowest in Mymensingh (17 per cent.) As remarked last year there is very great room for improvement in the latter district. At the close of the year there were 7,874 schools with 206,133 pupils against 7,876 schools with 208,309 pupils in 1891-92. The District Boards spend considerable sums on education, and the greater part of their contribution goes to the support of primary schools. The Dacca Municipality, though its total expenditure during the year amounted to Rs. 1,86,487, contributed nothing towards primary education, and other municipalities but little. It is to be hoped that recent orders issued by Government will effect a reform in this respect.

The average cost of primary education per pupil is largest in Backergunge and least in Dacca and Faridpur.

There were 19,803 girls at school as compared with 17,961 in the previous year, and 14,507 in 1890-91. These figures indicate that female education is gaining ground.

The number of Muhammadan pupils (boys and girls) on the other hand declined from 131,530 in 1891-92 to 117,599 in 1892-93, the decrease being attributed to the high price of articles of food. The success of Muhammadan pupils in the different departmental examinations was indifferent compared with other sections of the community. While Muhammadans form 60 per cent. of the total population and 48·6 per cent. of the total number of pupils, of the successful candidates, at the lower primary scholarship examination only 22·5 per cent were Muhammadans, and the percentage in examinations of a higher order is much less.

Dispensaries.

23. The following table gives the statistics relating to dispensaries:—

District.	Number of dispensaries.	Income from—					Daily average patients—		Ratio per cent. of outdoor patients to total population.
		Government.	District Board.	Municipality.	Subscriptions.	Total.	In-patients.	Out-patients.

Grand total for 1891-92.	33	883	3,230	16,267	37,315	57,695	51	233	1·6

There are 36 Dispensaries in the Division with an average daily attendance of 971 out-patients, being 1·7 per cent. of the total population as compared with 1·6 per cent. in the year preceding. Of these 36 institutions, 13 are supported by District Boards and Municipalities, and the rest (23) by private individuals and subscriptions. The Commissioner says:—

"I am inclined to attribute our backwardness in the matter of public charitable dispensaries, partly to the fact that we are more liberally provided with private practitioners of different systems of medicine than many other parts of India."

The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor observes with pleasure the success which has attended the liberal expenditure of Srimati Bindu Bashini Chaudhurani and Srimati Jannabi Chaudhurani on the Tangail and Santosh dispensaries respectively.

Local Self-Government Institutions.

24. The Commissioner makes the following remarks regarding the District and Local Boards:—

"Most of the members of the Dacca Board continued to take considerable interest in the questions which came before them for consideration. The Faridpur Board worked satisfactorily and smoothly. The Local Boards have no funds of their own, and are rarely allowed for expenditure more than a small percentage of the amount they contribute to the District Funds. Under these circumstances, that in Dacca members take some interest in the transaction of business is very satisfactory, while the statement that in Faridpur they are a failure can hardly cause surprise. In Backergunge the members of both District and Local Boards have taken great interest in their work, and steady progress has been the result in sanitation, communications, and education. The Mymensingh District Board is far the most helpful body Mr. Earle has ever presided over. The members take the keenest interest in the Board's affairs. The Local Boards in this district carried out their vicarious duties satisfactorily."

There are now 17 municipalities, ranging from the large and important town of Dacca with a population of 82,321, to rural areas, which in some cases hardly fulfil the conditions of section 10 of the Act. The character of the work done appears to have been fairly satisfactory. The Commissioner advocates the introduction of some form of rural municipal government.

Political.

25. Of political institutions and the press there is little to be said. The Commissioner remarks:—

"I look to the press of this country as the great social and economic reformatory agent of the future. At present it is merely in its infancy, and spends much of its time in discussing political questions of very secondary importance."

Conduct of the zamindars.

26. The conduct of zamindars in their relation to Government has been satisfactory.

In Dacca Nawab Sir Abdul Gani, Bahadur, K.C.S.I., Nawab Ahsanulla Bahadur, C.I.E, Raja Rajendro Narain Roy Bahadur of Bhowal, and Raja Sri Nath Roy of Bhagyakul, have well maintained their reputation as law-abiding zamindars. Maharaja Sir Jotindra Mohan Tagore and Babu Kali Kissen Tagore in Faridpur, Raja Sir Surendra Mohan Tagore and Babu Kali Kisson Tagore in Backergunge, are reported to manage their estates well. In Mymensingh Babu Jogendra Kishore Ray Chaudhri, the Sherpur landholders especially Babu Radha Balab Chaudry, the Tangail zamindars, Muhamed Ali Khan of Koratia, Maharaja of Durgapur, and Babu Jogat Kishore Acharjee of Muktagacha are favourably mentioned. Babu Upendra Chandra Sen of Basanda in Barisal gave a liberal donation of Rs. 2,800 for the erection of an infectious disease's ward in connection with the Barisal hospital. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with regret that Srimati Bindu Bashini Chaudhurani and Srimati Jahnavi Chaudhurani should be hostile to one another, for both are public-spirited, especially Srimati Bindu Bashini, who has founded the best hospital in the district.

Relations of landlords and tenants.

As regards the relations subsisting between landlords and their tenants, the Commissioner makes the following observations:—

"The relations between the landlords and their tenants in this Division were on the whole not unsatisfactory. In Dacca a few cases of misunderstanding between these two classes are reported to have occurred in the sub-divisions of Narainganj and Munshiganj. Faridpur, as reported last year, suffers from the evil effects of non-resident landlords, and the Collector mentions two typical cases as instances in point—one in which the naib of a zamindar's cutcherry at Binodepur, in the Madaripur sub-division of that district, was brutally murdered by some of his tenants, and the other, in which a peon of the Munsif's Court at Bhanga, in the Sadar sub-division, was murdered in cold blood by the adherents of certain zamindars, who thereupon charged a refractory raiyat with the murder in order to get him out of the way. In Backergunge, of the combinations noticed in paragraph 164 of the last year's printed report, that at Beghadi still exists in a modified form. There was a riot during the year in which a tenant belonging to the combination was killed. The Collector thinks that the combination will probably continue till the estate comes under the Court of Wards. The other combination at Charadi has, through the judicious action of a local pleader who was put in charge of the zamindari affairs, been broken up, and the tenants are now paying their rents at the former rates. But though the combinations reported last year have subsided, others are about to spring up. The Collector states that at the first fruits of good crops and high prices, some of the zamindars are making demands for extraordinary subscriptions which, it is to be feared, will prove the forerunners of new and serious disputes. It may be hoped, however, that the experience of the past will have taught the zamindars that the tenants in combination are ordinarily stronger than the landlords, however much the latter may have right on their side, and that, in recent years at least, the landlords have never succeeded in breaking down such combinations by force. Roughly speaking, the Collector remarks, the relations are strained over one-fourth of the district, and that over the remaining three-fourths there is peace which will continue as long as the landlords are content with their present income."

"In Mymensingh the general relation between landlord and tenant is reported to be one of sullen discontent, but no exceptional manifestation of bad feeling came to light during the year. The never-ending disputes between Bindu Bashini Chaudhurani and her rival Jahnavi Chaudhurani in the sub-division of Tangail, which for years past have unsettled that sub-division, continue to exist, but have not given rise to very serious disturbance during the year under report. There was also a series of disputes between Rahatannessa Khanam and her son Abdul Rahaman, which caused strained relations between the raiyats of the estate and the lady in question. The Magistrate is now engaged in trying to settle this unfortunate quarrel amicably."

Conclusion

27. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank Mr. Luttman-Johnson for his full report and careful administration of the Division. Among District Officers Messrs. Savage and Earle and among Sub-divisional Officers Mr. Basanta Kumar Mullick and Babu Raj Mohun Chakravarti have been specially commended.

The confidential remarks of the Commissioner on the characters of officers will be forwarded to the Appointment Department as usual.

RESOLUTION ON THE GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE CHOTA NAGPUR DIVISION FOR 1892-93.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS—No. 2582.

Calcutta, the 14th November 1893.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual General Administration Report of the Chota Nagpur Division for 1892-93.

The report is submitted by Mr. Grimley, who held charge of the Division as Commissioner from the 1st April to the 30th May 1892, and from the 26th October to the end of the year. During Mr. Grimley's absence on leave, Mr. Wace officiated as Commissioner.

The Division was twice visited by the Lieutenant-Governor (Sir Charles Elliott) during the year—first in July and then again in November. Sir Charles Elliott inspected all the district offices and treasuries, and examined and discussed many important questions including the proposal to extend the Bengal Tenancy Act VIII of 1885 to the Division, the Bill to regulate the enhancement of rents and the commutation of predial services, the state of the tauzi, the re-settlement of Palamau, the status of the jagirdari tenures of that district, forest conservancy, the arrangements for the disposal of civil suits, and the large question of free emigration.

Tours.

The Commissioner's tour, of which he gives a full and interesting description, included the Political States of Kharsowan, Seraikela, Sirguja, Udaipur, Jashpur and Gangpur, which were visited by Mr. Grimley during the cold weather. All the district offices were inspected either by Mr. Grimley or Mr. Wace with results which are reported as being on the whole satisfactory, but the sub-divisions, of which there are only two, Giridih and Govindpur, were not visited. Mr. Grimley explains that, owing to the great distances which have to be traversed, it is difficult to combine a complete tour in the districts with a tour through the Political States.

The tours of District and Sub-divisional Officers were in all cases of the prescribed length and appear to have been well arranged and well distributed throughout the year. Colonel Garbett in Hazaribagh, and Mr. Bright in Palamau, are specially mentioned by the Commissioner for their excellent work on tour. The rules regarding inspections of offices were also observed with commendable punctuality.

Weather and crops.

2. The Commissioner gives a good summary of the atmospheric conditions of the year and the outturn of the various harvests. He remarks that the year was characterised by intense heat in April and May, and unusual cold in November, December and January. The rainfall was sufficient in quantity, but not always seasonable or evenly distributed. On the whole conditions were favourable, and taking the good with the bad, the average results were probably little, if anything, below the normal, except in the Manbhum district, certain localities in which suffered from a partial failure of the crops. The outturn of bhadoi ranged from 12 annas in Manbhum to 19·5 annas, nearly a bumper crop, in Hazaribagh. The winter rice crop, which at one time promised so well, was adversely affected by the insufficient rainfall in October and November, and the average for the division is estimated at about 13 annas. Owing to deficient moisture in November and December, which was followed by heavy and untimely rain in March, the rabi crops were the worst of the year, the outturn ranging from 8 annas in Manbhum to 14 annas in Hazaribagh. Fears were at one time entertained in respect of the important mahua crop, which forms one of the chief articles of food of the poorer classes for two or three months of the year, but in spite of the heavy rain of March, a fair outturn was eventually obtained.

Public health

3. The Commissioner writes that the year was decidedly less healthy than either of the two preceding it. Cholera and small-pox were more prevalent throughout the division, and the former assumed an epidemic form in Lohar laga and Manbhum, causing 3,379 deaths in the former and 2,952 deaths in the latter district, against 1,939 and 1,111 respectively in the previous year. In Hazaribagh the number of deaths from cholera was 2,296 against 1,180 in 1891-92, and some villages in the Hussainabad and Chainpur thanas in Palamau were also attacked with considerable severity. Mortality was also largely caused by bowel-complaints, probably of a choleraic order.

Material condition of the people, prices of food and labour, and emigration.

4. In this Division, which supplies labour largely to other parts of Bengal and to Assam, it may be stated with almost mathematical accuracy that the number of emigrants from each district varies inversely with the material prosperity of the people in any particular year, while at the same time the standard of comfort has a tendency to rise, because labourers and cultivators grow less easily satisfied with what they can earn in their own homes, and more ready to emigrate to better their condition. In other words, the Division is so far progressive. Applying these general observations to the circumstances of the past year, it may be inferred that, in all districts except Manbhum, the year was one of advancing prosperity. Prices of food-grains generally ruled higher, but while people depending on occupations other than cultivation on fixed incomes suffered, the cultivators, especially in Lohardaga, made large profits by selling the surplus of their harvests for export to meet scarcity elsewhere. In Manbhum where, as already stated, there was a partial failure of the crops, there was no surplus to sell, and possibly some scarcity. Accordingly Hazaribagh, and to a greater degree Lohardaga, show a diminution in the stream of emigration; while in Manbhum, so far as the returns can be relied on, the number of emigrants increased from 2,787 persons in 1890-91 and 7,892 in 1891-92 to 12,296 in 1892-93, the pressure of scarcity being in this way so far relieved that the road works which were undertaken in some parganas, where the harvests were worst, attracted but few labourers. As regards Singhbhum and Palamau, it is difficult to estimate the amount of emigration, but probably it is small, and in the former district at least there are not wanting indications that the people are for the most part well off. Mr. Renny, the District Officer, who is an undoubted authority, writes as follows:—

"Speaking generally, the agricultural classes have stored up a full year's food-supply in their houses, and with this they will never part, no matter how high the prices offered are; while the labouring classes have plenty of work, and the price of even unskilled labour ranges high"

Again, speaking of prices, the Commissioner says—

"In Singhbhum, as stated in the last year's report, owing to the opening of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway and mining and other industries, there has been a general rise in the wages of every class of labourer except gharamis. In some cases the increase has been at the rate of 50 per cent., and in others the rate is 100 per cent. It is said that the Kols of Singhbhum are a most independent lot. They are chiefly of the agricultural class, and as their material condition is generally good, they hold out for a certain rate of wages, and will not accept a pice less. They are, however, excellent workers, and European contractors would often be too glad to pay them 10 pice or 3 annas per diem, for they are sure to get from them a full equivalent of the amount paid."

Palamau is more backward than the rest of the division, there being little export trade from it; prices ruled lower, though owing to deficient communication they varied considerably in different localities in the district. The condition of the people was on the whole satisfactory.

This seems to take awayt for the effect of the quetitions immediately preceding.

Abuses in emigration.

5. Complaints continue to be made of abuses in connection with free emigration. Colonel Evans Gordon, the Deputy Commissioner of Lohardaga, and Mr. Bedford vigorously condemn the system as being a source of cruelty, oppression and wrong. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes that the most important means at present available for the prevention of abuses, namely, the inspection of coolie depôts, will be systematically practised. In Palamau the inspection of a depôt by Mr. Babonau led to the discovery of what is said to be a typical case of kidnapping. The following account of the case is taken from the Commissioner's report—

"One serious case of kidnapping occurred in Palamau in December last, in which two arkatis carried off a whole family from the village at the order, they say, of the malik of the village, who told them to take the family to the depôts and realize a debt due to the malik. On the road the husband managed to effect his escape, and the two arkatis proceeded to Daltonganj with the wife and several little children. They were safely landed in a depôt, and nothing would probably have been heard of the case, had not Mr. Babonau, when inspecting the depôt shortly after their arrival, seen signs of recent occupation, though the depôt-holder denied that there had been any coolies for some days. A search was then made, with the result that the women and children were found confined in a room in a neighbouring house. Both the accused were convicted of wrongful confinement."

Manufactures and Mines.

6. The number of tea gardens fell from 29 to 28, the area under tea from 3,646 to 3,511 acres, and the total quantity manufactured from 535,512 to 373,957lb, the average yield per acre being 112lb against 157lb in the preceding year. The Commissioner says:—

"The prospects of the tea industry in the Division are not favourable, the climate is too dry, the rainfall too uncertain, and the soil not sufficiently rich. Labour is also an annually increasing difficulty, owing to emigration, and wages have risen since the opening of the gardens, and of a tendency to rise each successive year, while the tea produced is not a very high quality. Mr. Middleton, an experienced tea planter of Lohardaga, writes—'Chota Nagpur can never compete with the other tea districts of India and Ceylon, and its cultivation will eventually have to be abandoned.'"

The manufacture of lac increased in Lohardaga, but this improvement was more than counterbalanced by the falling off in Manbhum, where the conditions of the year were unfavourable to this industry. Considerable quantities of lac are said to be grown in the Division, and especially in Palamau, for export to Gaya and other districts, where it is manufactured into shell-lac. Catechu is manufactured on a small scale in Hazaribagh and Palamau, and soapstone bowls and plates are made in Singhbhum and parts of Lohardaga. A silk filature started at Palamau has proved a failure; but large quantities of cocoons are exported chiefly to Murshidabad for manufacture into tusser silk, the value of the cocoons exported from Singhbhum alone being estimated at Rs. 5,59,240

The coal mines in the Giridih and Gobindpur sub-divisions continue to be successfully worked, while as regards the mica mines, the Commissioner says:—

"Up to the end of the last year, altogether 189 Government mines, covering 90·30 acres, have been settled. The annual revenue demand of these mines amounted to Rs. 9,616-9, out of which Rs. 9,319-9 were realized during the year. The balance Rs. 297 is being realized under the certificate procedure The total output of all mica mines worked in Hazaribagh was 2,236 maunds against 1,789 maunds in the previous year. The demand for mica is said to be principally from the United States, but is said to be now affected by the McKinlay Tariff Bill, under which a duty of 35 per cent. is levied upon all foreign mica."

The Baraganda copper mines have been purchased by Messrs. Bird and Company, but work has not yet been resumed. A mine at Rakka belonging to the Rajdoha Mining Company, Limited, is likely to prove profitable as two valuable beds of copper are reported to have been discovered. Gold operations have not proved more successful this year than last, and no silver or tin has so far been found by prospectors.

Trade.

7. The Commissioner remarks that the chief feature in the trade of the past year was the large increase of exports from all districts of the division, but this is hardly borne out by the table of statistics showing the exports by rail from Manbhum in 1892-93 as compared with those of 1891-92. In Lohardaga statistics were collected between the 1st September 1892 and 31st March 1893 of the traffic on the road between Ranchi and Lohardaga, and the results indicate that there has been an immense expansion of the volume of trade passing over this route. In Singhbhum the timber trade was carried on during the year on the extensive scale which was noticed in last year's Resolution. It is stated that the trade of Palamau is much hampered by want of good roads, but measures are being taken for the improvement of the communication between this district and the neighbouring district of Gaya.

Over 20 per cent. of the witnesses were detained over two days in the Munsifs of Giridih and Raghunathpur, and over 10 per cent. in those of Ranchi, Lohardaga, Daltonganj, and Gobindpur.

During the year the appointment of a Subordinate Judge for the district of Manbhum was sanctioned with the addition of a munsif, who is to work for eight months of the year at Purulia, and for the remaining four months at Chaibassa.

The following table shows similar statistics in regard to rent suits.

Witness attendance registers do not appear to have been maintained in Lohardaga and Manbhum. The omission should be explained. At Daltonganj 16 per cent. of the witnesses in these suits were detained over two days. The ratio of cases pending at the close of the year to the total number disposed of is very large in the case of Singhbhum, where it is observed that three officers disposed of only 91 cases with 59 witnesses.

Crime.

9. There was an increase of 132 in the number of cognizable cases reported during the year, and a decrease of 118 in the number of non-cognizable cases, the total number of cases of both descriptions being 11,098 in 1892 as compared with 11,084 in 1891.

Police.

10. The following remarks which are taken from the Commissioner's report will show that there is still much room for improvement in the conduct and management of the police force:—

"As a body, I cannot speak in terms of praise of the regular police force of this Division in the conduct of investigations. There are a few good officers who may be relied upon to put forth their whole strength and intelligence in the discharge of their duties; but as for the rest, they rarely manage to exhibit the possession of qualities of striking ability in important enquiries, requiring promptness, skill and delicacy in execution. In cases of murder, when the delinquent fails to confess his guilt, a clue is very seldom obtained, and the enquiry is prolonged without any tangible result, the police being incapable of overcoming the combination of village cliques formed to throw a protecting mantle over the offender. In house-breaking and dacoity their detective ability is at a low stand-point, and the jungly state of the road is invariably put forward, and accepted, as the excuse for failure to detect highway robberies. The responsibility of this state of things must in a certain degree rest with the District Superintendent, who, it is to be feared, does not take sufficient advantage of the numerous opportunities he has of educating his officers up to their duties and of infusing into them a spirit of activity, zeal and enthusiasm for their work. A judicious system of approval and commendation will do much more to train up an efficient body of men than a plan of fault-finding and punishment of petty irregularities. In fact, what is wanted is a stronger bond of sympathy between the police and those placed in authority over them. When an officer visits a police-station, something more is required than answering the series of inspection questions, and looking to the equipment of the men and the state of the buildings. A District Superintendent should spend several days at a station for the purpose of discussing with the officers concerned the details of pending enquiries, pointing out how the investigation should proceed, and mistakes committed in previous investigations. He should further make himself thoroughly acquainted with the rank-and-file of the force, for there is no greater inducement to exertion than for a man to know that he has a personality of his own which is recognized by his superior; and under this encouragement he is more likely to work with energy than if he is treated as a mere machine, to be moved about at the will and pleasure of his master."

Auxiliary Police.

11. The chaukidars, who in this division are partly under Act V (B.C.) of 1887, and partly under an old Regulation of 1817, appear from the reports received to have worked fairly well, except in Palamau. The conduct of the ghatwali police force, another adjunct to the regular police, was generally satisfactory, especially in Singhbhum, where there was not a single case of dacoity or highway robbery along the routes guarded by them. The ghatwals of Manbhum are, however, not as useful a body of men as they might be, and the Commissioner adds that there are many complex questions connected with them, and that their abolition and effacement under a system of commutation seems to be on many grounds desirable.

* Shows the number of witnesses who attended.

The number of cases disposed of was less than in the previous year, being 6,045 against 6,406. The percentage of persons convicted remained the same, 54, and the number of witnesses detained for more than two days exceeded 10 per cent. of the number examined in only one district, Palamau. The number of A cases remanded six times and more was largest proportionately in the Sadar Courts of Lohardaga, but even there the ratio was not more than 8 per cent. of the total number of A cases disposed of. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice the marked improvement in this respect.

One thousand seven hundred and fifty-four cases were disposed of by 18 Honorary Magistrates or Benches, giving an average of 99 cases for each Magistrate or Bench. The ratio per cent. of persons convicted was 57 as compared with 58 in the previous year, and the number of witnesses detained for more than two days was satisfactorily small. The Benches at Hazaribagh and Giridih examined 899 witnesses without a single case of such detention. The Ranchi Magistrates disposed of 11 A cases, of which 4 were remanded six times or more, but no delays of this kind are reported elsewhere, and the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor has to express his satisfaction with the generally useful character of the work done.

The percentage was over 70 in Palamau, Singhbhum and Manbhum, but in Lohardaga and Hazaribagh the figures are 53 and 57 per cent., respectively. It is evident that officers in these districts have not been sufficiently careful in making committals.

16. The fine register for the year shows that the amount of outstanding fines exceeded the balance at the beginning of the year in the districts of Singhbhum and Manbhum, while elsewhere the outstanding balance was reduced.

The increase in the number of documents registered is mainly contributed by Manbhum. The Commissioner says :—

"The principal reason of the very remarkable increase in Manbhum seems to be the high price of food-grains. Owing to the deficiency of the last year's crops in the district, almost all classes had to purchase rice or paddy crops, and in order to procure money for the purpose, the middle and the poorer classes were obliged either to sell, or to mortgage, or to lease out in perpetuity their small holdings."

The increase in Palamau is attributed to the large number of marriages celebrated during a year which was regarded as specially auspicious for this purpose, and the consequent expenditure often met by loans on the security of zarpeshgi leases.

The decrease in Singhbhum is said to be due to the fact that owing to the uncertainty of agricultural prospects, no loans were advanced on the security of land, while the failure of former enterprises discouraged the grant of mining leases.

As regards land revenue the collections were as usual good, amounting to 98·05 of the gross demand, current and arrear. In Hazaribagh they were 99·93 per cent., and in Manbhum 100 per cent. of the gross demand. The total amount realized was Rs. 3,83,144 as against Rs. 3,81,562 in the previous year.

As regards road cess, the figures are not so satisfactory, as the outstanding balances show in some districts a considerable increase. The outstanding balance was largest in Manbhum, where it was Rs. 34,223 as compared with Rs. 29,855 in the preceding year, and the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor hopes that it will be found possible to obtain better results in future.

19. The working of the certificate departments of the various districts is shown below :—

The number of certificates pending at the close of the year was less than the number pending at the beginning, except in Palamau and Manbhum where the disposals did not keep pace with the number issued during the year.

Wards' and Encumbered Estates.

20. There were six Wards' estates and 54 Encumbered estates under management during the year. The collections, which owing partly to poor harvests were not as good as in the previous year, amounted in Wards' estates to Rs, 1,24,311, or Rs. 8,041 less than the current demand, and in Encumbered estates to Rs. 4,94,368 out of a current demand of Rs. 5,73,011, and a gross demand of Rs. 8,53,490. The progress made in paying off debts due by Encumbered estates is shown in the following table ;—

Excise.

21. The Commissioner remarks with satisfaction, which the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor shares, that while there has been a very small increase in the number of licenses the revenue has increased by about one-eleventh of the previous year's revenue, amounting to Rs. 8,39,285, in 1892-93, as compared with Rs. 7,65,646 in 1891-92. A table is appended from which it will be seen that the bulk of the revenue is derived from country spirits.

Arboriculture.

22. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice that considerable attention is paid in this Division to arboriculture. The following account is taken from the Commissioner's report:—

"In Hazaribagh 1,266 new trees, mostly poinceana, sissoo and Algerian date, were planted, and 3,716 old trees were maintained, at a total cost of Rs. 702. The nursery garden in the Road Cess office compound in this district contained 2,060 plants, viz. 1,000 sissoo, 100 mango, 300 poinceana-regia, 350 eucalyptus, 30 jaman, 200 kunar, 60 karanj, and 20 nim. In Lohardaga 748 seedlings, principally of karanj, mango, jaman, tamarind and mahua, were newly planted to fill up gaps caused by the drought in April and May 1892, and over 9,000 plants along 63 miles of roads were maintained and 6,210 new gabions were supplied for the protection of the plants. Arrangements were also made to sow seeds and rear seedlings in pots in the nursery garden in the Road Cess compound in this district, and 300 holes were dug and filled up with manure for planting trees during the ensuing season on the sides of one-and-a-half miles of road on Mr. Worsley's plan. The total expenditure on account of arboriculture in this district amounted to Rs. 1,399. In Palamau the existing roadside trees were maintained, and 300 seedlings were transplanted from the nursery at Daltonganj to the three main roads which branch out from that place at a total cost of Rs. 80. In Singhbhum nothing was done in this matter during the year. The planting of avenues along roadsides proved a failure in this district, owing to the dryness of the climate and the stony nature of the country over which the roads run, and the Committee, with their limited funds, could not afford to pay for the construction of wells along roadsides. The Deputy Commissioner says that an attempt will be made during the current year to plant trees on the system recommended by Mr. Worsley. In Manbhum Rs. 193 only were spent in entertaining establishment for watering and looking after the trees already planted, and Rs. 100 in renewing and repairing gabions. The trees planted on the sides of roads in this district are bor, peepul, jack (kantal), jaman, kusum, mahua, nim, and mango."

Education.

23. The educational results of the year continue to be encouraging. Taking public and private institutions together, there was a net increase of 95 schools and 2,394 pupils. Forty-six out 55 candidates passed the Entrance examination, though the results of the upper and lower primary scholarship examinations were not so good. The number of girls' schools declined from 124 to 116, the total number of girls attending these and boys' schools being 5,544 as compared with 5,465 in the preceding year.

The following table exhibits certain statistics regarding education in schools under public management:—

(a) Excluding Rs. 113 for building and library.
(b) Excluding Rs. 56 for building.

The number of primary schools increased in every district, except Manbhum. The increase was greatest in Palamau which is striving to place itself on an educational equality with the rest of the division. Taking the division as a whole, the ratio of boys at school to the total number of a school-going age is a little higher than in Patna, which is the worst in all Bengal in this respect. The Municipalities do little to support education and contribute more to middle than to primary education. Under recent orders, however, it is hoped that Municipalities will in future make provision for the education of half the boys of school-going age within their limits. It has again to be noticed that the cost of educating a pupil in the middle schools in Lohardaga appears to be excessive, and this year it is even higher than last. A similar observation may be made in respect to the cost of primary education in Manbhum, which amounted to Rs. 3 per pupil.

Mr. Grimley was more than once struck while on tour with the large assortment of books which appear to be necessary in middle and primary schools. In the first class of one school 14 different books were in use, the cost of which amounted to Rs. 8 or Rs. 9, or about three times as much as the yearly fees paid by each boy. The Director of Public Instruction will be requested to consider this point.

Dispensaries.

24. The following table gives details in regard to the dispensaries in the division, the number of which was increased by the opening of a dispensary at Giridih :—

District.	Number of dispensaries.	Income from—					Daily average patients.		Ratio per cent. of out-door patients to total population.
		Government.	District Board.	Municipality.	Subscriptions.	Total.	In-patients.	Out-patients.

Manbhum	8	459	.....	2,880	3,800	7,139	29 37	141·56	1·7

Manbhum continues to be the only district which is at all well provided in this respect. The table does not include private dispensaries, such as those of the Dublin University Mission and Pachamba Scotch Mission which are open to the public. Speaking of the Lohardaga dispensary, the Commissioner says:—

"The usefulness of this institution is much hindered by the fact that the room which ought to be set apart for indoor patients is occupied as an office by the Municipal Commissioners. Here, as elsewhere, the subscriptions are sadly in arrears, and even the contribution of the municipality towards the medical officer's salary is not paid with proper regularity."

The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that immediate measures will be taken to remedy the state of things disclosed.

Liberal subscriptions in aid of the Dufferin Fund were received during the year and since its close from the following gentlemen—

	Rs.
Maharaja of Chota Nagpur	2,000
Kumar Jagat Mohan Nath Sahi	1,750
Raja Nam Narain Singh of Ramgar	5,000
Babu Sarup Narain Singh of Padma	1,500
Tekait Todal Narain Singh of Gawan	2,000
Babu Rameshar Nath Singh of Kunda	1,000

These sums will be utilised to provide zanana hospitals at Hazaribagh and Ranchi.

Local Self-Government Institutions.

25. In this Division, where Act III (B.C.) of 1885 is not in force, self-governing institutions are represented by the Municipalities and the District, Road and Education Committees. The municipalities are few and far between, and though the Commissioner's remarks are somewhat colourless, the Municipal Commissioners appear for the most part to display as much interest in their work as similar bodies elsewhere. At Ranchi, for instance, some attention was paid to water-supply and conservancy, and at Lohardaga to sanitation, while at Chaibassa the roads and wells were well maintained, collections were closely supervised, and outstanding arrears were largely cleared off. There is, moreover, a pleasant absence of the internal disputes and jealousies which sometimes occur in other places claiming to be more advanced in the art of self-government. On the Road and Education Committees the greater part of the work is done by the official members.

State of public feeling.

26. The Commissioner says—

"The only political institution of this Division is the Congress Committee at Hazaribagh with branch committees at Giridih, Ranchi and Purulia. Only one meeting, to elect delegates for the 8th Indian National Congress, was held at Hazaribagh. Ten persons were elected, but only three attended the Congress. The branch commitees have displayed no signs of activity, except the one at Purulia, which collected a few rupees for the general purposes of the movement."

As regards the agrarian problem in Lohardaga, the Commissioner writes: —

"In Lohardaga the state of feeling between landlords and tenants continues to be unsatisfactory, especially where there are Christian raiyats. 'The conversion to Christianity,' remarks the Deputy Commissioner, Colonel Gordon, 'seems to have brought about a complete change in the minds of these people, and they now seek for total emancipation from the bet begari system. The zamindars, finding resistance difficult, their authority and influence on the wane, and support in courts is expensive and uncertain, are giving way, and nothing but suits for commutation can now save them from altogether losing those old feudal dues from their tenants.' Notwithstanding the existence of this feeling of antagonism, there has been no open manifestation of it such as occurred a few years ago, and the attitude of both parties may be described as one of quiescent expectancy regarding the action of Government. They seem to understand that legislative action of some kind is impending, but are not particularly curious to learn the nature of it; and when the principal zamindars were invited to a conference to discuss the proposed measure, the invitation met with little response, and those who did attend were not able to throw much light on the subject."

Conduct of zamindars.

27. The Maharaja of Chota Nagpur and his brother Kumar Jagat Mohan Nath Sahai Deo are mentioned for their loyalty to Government, and the latter is an active and useful Honorary Magistrate. In Hazaribagh, Raja Ram Narain Singh of Ramgar is loyal and well-intentioned, while Tekait Todal Narain Singh of Gawan whose title of Tekait was recently conferred on him by the Viceroy, and Babus Saroda Narain Singh and Poresh Nath Singh of Serampur and Palganj are specially selected for favourable mention. In Palamau Thakurai Bhagabat Doyal Singh of Chainpur received the title of Rai Bahadur in recognition for the service which he has rendered the State in the past.

28. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor thanks Mr. Grimley for his full and interesting report and for his efficient administration of the Division. The remarks which he makes towards the close of his report regarding the necessity for the establishment of a sub-division in the south-west of the large Lohardaga district will be considered in the Judicial Department. His observations on the character of officers serving under him will be communicated to the Appointment Department as usual.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

M. FINUCANE,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE FOR THE MANAGEMENT OF THE CALCUTTA ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS FOR THE YEAR 1892-93.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS No. 4539.

Calcutta, the 1st November 1893.

READ—

The Report of the Honorary Committee for the management of the Zoological Gardens, Calcutta, for the year 1892-93.

The actual receipts of the Garden, excluding the opening balance of Rs. 4,298 and the sum of Rs. 100 realized at the end of March 1893 and credited into the Treasury on the 1st April 1893, amounted to Rs. 42,144 against Rs. 43,211 in the previous year; and the expenditure decreased from Rs. 46,548 in 1891-92 to Rs. 41,202 during the year under report, the decrease being chiefly due to a considerable reduction in the outlay on original construction. With the surplus of Rs. 942, the balance at credit of the Garden increased from Rs. 4,298 to Rs. 5,240.

2. The number of visitors who were admitted to the Garden on payment of entrance fees was 139,183 against 116,382 in the previous year. This is the highest number admitted in any year except 1883-84, the year of the Calcutta International Exhibition.

The following statement shows the number admitted each year since 1878-79:—

Comparative statement of visitors from 1878-79 to 1892-93.

Year.	Visitors.	Year.	Visitors.
1878-79	111,291	1885-86	108,944
1879-80	130,826	1886-87	96,099
1880-81	98,760	1887-88	108,041
1881-82	120,749	1888-89	111,573
1882-83	126,080	1889-90	109,569
1883-84	188,532	1890-91	136,410
1884-85	120,813	1891-92	116,382
		1892-93	139,183

The chief causes of this large increase in the number of visitors to the Garden are—(1) the growing popularity of the institution, and (2) the opening of a direct carriage route from the Garden to Kalighat, rendering it more easily accessible to the large number of pilgrims who daily resort to that shrine.

3. Altogether 367 additions were made to the collection, including 97 mammals, 149 birds, and 121 reptiles. The following are mentioned by the Committee as being among the more interesting animals acquired:—(1) A pair of Patagonian Cavies (Dolichotis patagonica, Shaw) obtained by exchange from Mr. Carl Hagenbeck of Hamburg; (2) a Brazilian Tapir (Tapirus americanus, Gmel) from South America, and a Baird's Tapir (Tapirus bairdi, Gill) from Central America, acquired by exchange; (3) the two little weavers, acquired by purchase on account of their superior beauty and rarity in Indian markets; (4) a fine collection of birds consisting of Flamingos, Saras and Kulung Cranes, and other species, obtained from Rajputana.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to learn that the popularity of the Zoological Garden with the students and teachers of the various schools and colleges of Calcutta continued undiminished. With regard to the position which the Garden takes in the education of the people, the Committee write as follows:—"Applications from heads of institutions for free admission of students were frequently received and granted. It is also a satisfactory indication of the educating influence of the Garden that authors of elementary books and primers in the vernacular seek to stimulate the faculty of observation of their juvenile readers by illustrations and anecdotes of animals exhibited here."

5. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with pleasure that the laboratory for the purpose of conducting experiments with, and testing the various alleged remedies for snake-bite which are from time to time brought to notice, and for other physiological and biological investigations, for which Babu Joy Gobind Law, a wealthy citizen of Calcutta, gave a liberal donation, already acknowledged by Government, is now nearly complete. It is expected that experiments will be undertaken in the ensuing cold season.

6. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to the members of the Committee for their efficient management of the Garden.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Honorary Secretary to the Committee for information, and that it be published in the Gazette.

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

13. Circular to Local Governments and Administrations, No. $\frac{4}{3}$, dated 16th July 1892.

Many enquiries having been received by the Government of India on the subject, the following explanation of the constitution and objects of the Imperial Institute is published for general information.

2. In December 1886 an organising Committee appointed by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, with Lord Herschell as President, submitted their report, copies of which were received by the Government of India and circulated to Local Governments and Administrations in February 1887.

3. Lord Herschell's Committee recommended that the Institute should comprise two sections—one for the United Kingdom, the other for the Colonies and India. They explained in the 9th and following paragraphs of their report that—

"(9) the object of the Colonial and Indian Section will be to illustrate the great commercial and industrial resources of the Colonies and India, and to spread a knowledge of their progress and social condition.

"(10) to this end provision should be made for—

(1) the display in an adequate manner of the best natural and manufactured products of the Colonies and India, and, in connection with this, the circulation of typical collections throughout the United Kingdom;

(2) a hall for the discussion of Colonial and Indian subjects, and for receptions connected with the Colonies and India;

(3) the formation of Colonial and Indian libraries, and establishing in connection therewith reading, news, and intelligence rooms;

(4) the incorporation in some form into the proposed Institute of the Royal Colonial Institute and Royal Asiatic Society if, as is hoped, it be possible to bring about such a union;

(5) the collection and diffusion of the fullest information in regard to the industrial and material condition of the Colonies, so as to enable intending emigrants to acquire all requisite knowledge. Such information might be advantageously supplemented by simple and practical instruction. An emigration office of this character should be in correspondence with the provincial towns, either through the free libraries or by other means, so that information may be readily accessible to the people. These objects would be greatly facilitated if, as may be hoped, the Government should consent to the transfer to the buildings of the Institute of the recently formed Emigration Department, which would, by a close connection with the Institute, largely increase its usefulness.

"11. Facilities might be afforded for the exhibition of works of Colonial and Indian Art.

"12. It is also considered desirable that means should be provided, not for a general exhibition, but for occasional special exhibitions of Colonial and Indian produce and manufactures. At one time a particular Colony or portion of the Empire may desire to show its progress; at another time a general comparison of particular industries may be useful. Whilst the permanent galleries would exhibit the usual commercial or industrial products of the several Colonies and India, the occasional exhibitions would stimulate and enlist the sympathies of Colonial and Indian producers, and keep up an active co-operation with the industrial classes of this country."

4. The Colonial and Indian section has since the date of the Committee's report been subdivided into sections for each Colony, and there is now a distinct section for India, which, for the purposes of this Resolution, will be referred to as "the Indian section."

The scope of the Indian section has been enlarged by the introduction of arrangements for the teaching of Oriental languages thus described in the Year Book of the Institute for 1892:—

"In 1887 it was suggested that a School of Modern Oriental Studies should be established as a branch of the Institute in imitation of the very efficient establishments of this kind which are carried on with Government resources in France, Germany, and Austria. The promulgation of this proposal led to negotiation with the authorities of University College and King's College, London, which resulted in their co-operation with the Institute in the establishment of the School. A Special Committee having been appointed to organise a system of work, it was arranged that classes for instruction in the Oriental languages required by students qualifying for examinations for the Indian Civil Service should be held at University College, while Modern Oriental languages, other than the Indian languages, should be taught at King's College, and that the Imperial Institute should undertake the general administrative and financial work. The School was officially opened in January 1890, when an inaugural address was delivered by Professor Max Müller at the Royal Institution in the presence of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. The daughters of the late Colonel W. J. Ouseley (Bengal Army) have established and endowed in his memory three scholarships in Arabic and Persian in connection with the School, each one of the value of not less than £50 per annum."

Since 1887 subscriptions to the amount of £101,550 have been raised in this country, and constitute more than one quarter of the total subscriptions received from all sources by the Managing Committee in London. The entire sum contributed has been utilized partly for the constitution of a permanent endowment fund, which amounted in 1892 to £ 141,520, and partly for the construction of the building.

The Institute, of which the foundation stone was laid by the Queen on the 4th of July 1887, was formally opened by Her Majesty on the 10th May 1893.

5. It was originally intended that a Committee of the Indian section should be formed in India with the Viceroy as President, and in 1887 the names of members were forwarded to the Secretary of State. This scheme was, however, superseded by the constitution framed in 1890, in pursuance of the charter granted to the Institute in May 1888, under which the Institute is controlled by a governing body or general Council of not less than 120 members or governors, of whom 15 are appointed to represent India. The Indian Governors may be selected in such manner as the Governor-General in Council for the time being may direct.

6. The following rules have been prescribed for the appointment of the Indian representatives:—

Three are to be appointed annually by the Governor-General in Council; six by the Provinces, including Native States, in rotation; four by the Chambers of Commerce in rotation, and two by Native institutions: provided that no representative can be appointed who will not be resident in England during his term of office.

The term of office commences and ends on the 23rd of July, but a fresh nomination may be made at any intervening date in the event of office being vacated by the return of a member to India or for any other reason.

The Native States and Associations to be represented each year will be selected by the Government of India after ascertaining what eligible candidates are resident in England, and after correspondence with the rulers of the Native States and with the Native institutions concerned.

Provinces and Chambers of Commerce, in the order below prescribed for the next three years, will forward to the Secretary in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture the names of proposed representatives on or before the 1st of June. In each case three names may be submitted in the order in which it is desired that the offer of a governorship for the ensuing year may be made to the nominees. If no one of the nominees accept, the Government of India will select a representative. If no communication is received before the 1st of June from any Province or Chamber of Commerce entitled to a nomination, either the offer will be made to any existing representative, or a representative will be selected by the Government of India.

The following is the rotation prescribed for the next three years :—

8. Fellows of the Imperial Institute are elected under rules, of which a copy is appended to this Resolution, and which explain the conditions and privileges attached to Fellowship. Application for election as Fellow, or for any information that may be required regarding the Institute, should be made to the Secretary, Imperial Institute, South Kensington.

9. The Government of India have decided that the most effective way in which the Imperial Institute can be made to serve the interests of India is to utilise it both for the purpose of attracting attention to the various economic products of India, especially those which are little known, and for obtaining through the agency of the governing body the trial or analysis by experts of products more or less new to commerce. The objects held in view will be more fully gathered from the following explanation embodied in the preface to the series of Commercial Hand-books which are provided to the Institute by the Department of Economic Products:—

"The Government of India have arranged to provide to the Imperial Institute for the illustration of the Economic Products of India—

(A) a descriptive catalogue or dictionary;
(B) an index collection of all products;
(C) a commercial collection of special products;
(D) a hand-book descriptive of C.

A. The descriptive catalogue has been completed, and is termed the "Dictionary of the Economic Products of India." The compilation has occupied eight years, and has been made under the editorship of Dr. G. Watt, C.I.E., Reporter on Economic Products to the Government of India. It has been confined to the collection of facts and statistics available up to the date of the publication of the work.

To each product there is assigned in the dictionary a separate number, which will be permanently maintained for purposes of reference.

B. The index collection will, when completed, comprise small samples of every economic product of India, which will bear the same numbers as those assigned to the products in the dictionary.

C. The commercial collections are on a larger scale. The number of products of which a collection is provided each year will be limited to about 20.

Each collection will comprise as complete a set of specimens of the product in its raw and manufactured state as is necessary for the fulfilment of the objects with which the commercial collections and hand-books are provided.

D. The hand-books will supply, in a separate pamphlet for each product, the information contained in the dictionary, amplified by supplementary facts and statistics, and illustrated by maps, diagrams, photographs, etc.

The objects of the commercial collections and hand-books which accompany them are—

(1) To secure, while each collection is being made for the Institute, a thorough and special investigation in India through which fresh information regarding the product concerned, not contained in the dictionary, may be obtained.
(2) To illustrate the dictionary in a manner more complete than can be effected by the index collection.
(3) In the case of products which are not generally known—
  (a) to bring them to the notice of those interested;
  (b) to indicate the extent to which and conditions under which they are procurable;
  (c) to ascertain their commercial value;
  (d) to secure, through the governing body of the Institute and commercial experts whom they may consult, such special trial or analysis of them as can be more effectually made in England than in India."

The initial cost of the collections has been met from a special grant of Rs. 10,000. An annual grant of £600 is provided for the maintenance and completion of the existing collections, and a further grant of £400 again is allowed for the salary of the official Curator. Rupees 4,000 are also contributed annually by Local Governments towards the collection of products for the Institute. The Indian Section is under the general superintendence of Sir F. Abel, Secretary to the Institute, and the collections are under the charge of Mr. J. R. Royle, C.I.E., of the India Office, who has been appointed official Curator of the Indian Courts.

10. The index collection has reached an advanced stage.

Commercial collections have, under the direction of Mr. E. Thurston, Officiating Reporter on Economic Products, been already provided for the representation of the following products:—

These may be purchased for a nominal price either at the Imperial Institute, at the office of the Reporter on Economic Products in Calcutta, or from the Superintendent of Government Printing, Calcutta.

11. Galleries have been provided in the Institute building, in which the index collections are arranged in such a way as to be easily studied by interested visitors, and there are also working rooms for detailed examination of the commercial collections by those connected with the trades to which they appertain.

12. Special arrangements have, since the opening of the Institute, been set on foot, under the direction of Sir Frederick Abel, with the object of facilitating the trial and analysis of commercial products by experts either at the Institute itself, where rooms and laboratories have been provided for the purpose, or in local manufactories, chemical works, and other appropriate places. Dr. Theodore Cooke, C.I.E., late Principal of the College of Science, Poona, has recently been appointed as Technical Sub-Director of the Institute and to supervise arrangements for securing the investigation of new products from India and the Colonies.

13. All correspondence in India connected with the collections supplied to the Institute is conducted by the Reporter on Economic Products, to whose office at the Indian Museum, Calcutta, all enquiries or letters on the subject should be addressed.

14. The names of Governors appointed for the Indian Section for the year 1893-94 will be published shortly in the Gazette of the Government of India.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the above be published for general information in the Supplement to the Gazette of India, and that copies be forwarded to the several Local Governments and Administrations for information and publication in the Local Gazette, and to the Chambers of Commerce noted on the margin.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF OCTOBER 1893.

THE weather during October has been unusually disturbed. Two moderate or feeble barometric depressions have been formed. The first advanced over the South-East Bengal, and the second over the west of the Bay and the Madras Presidency. A severe barometric depression or cyclonic storm also formed to the west of the Bay and advanced through the Central Provinces into Oudh. A very small but severe cyclone also formed in the south-east of the Bay and advanced up the Bay first in a north-westerly and finally in a north-easterly or east north-easterly direction, striking the land to the south of Barisal and pasing over Noakhali. Lastly, a small cyclonic storm formed in the centre of the Bay and advanced north-eastwards into Burma. Hence with these five storms weather in Bengal has been unusually disturbed, and rainfall has been much heavier than usual, the falls being in excess in all districts, and the excess being large in North Bihar, East Bengal, and Chota Nagpur.

During the first week of the month fine settled weather prevailed generally over the Bay and over Bengal, except over parts of the eastern districts when weather was showery. The rainfall over the eastern districts was caused by the formation of a very shallow barometric depression in Burma, which advanced northwards over the east of the Bay into Lower Bengal, where it filled up on the 4th or 5th. The rainfall continued in the south-eastern districts of Bengal for several days, and then gradually extended westwards to the western districts, and on the 7th the falls were fairly general in South-West Bengal. From the morning of the 8th, however, an area of comparatively low pressure was developed in the west of the Bay off the Madras coast, which continued to develop slowly from the 9th to the 12th, and which advanced partly over the south of the Peninsula on the 13th, causing the commencement of the Madras rains. In connection with this low pressure area winds became easterly over Bengal, and with the moist winds which were blowing over the province, numerous rain showers continued to be reported in all districts except Bihar throughout the second week of the month. The depression continued to exist over the Madras Presidency on the 14th and 15th, but on the 16th a fresh barometric depression of considerable intensity was formed off the east coast of the Peninsula with a centre probably to the east of Masulipatam and Coconada. This was decidedly more influential than the former one, and it at first commenced to advance in a north-westerly and afterwards in a northerly direction, the centre being near Raipur on the 17th and on the 18th close to Lucknow. From the 17th to the 18th it had therefore advanced over about 400 miles, or at the rate of 17 miles an hour. On the 19th the storm had passed into the Himalayas, and was probably close to Ranikhet, but it was evidently breaking up, and on the 20th it had ceased to exist. It as usual brought up with it a heavy wave of monsoon winds, and this spread over the whole of North-Eastern India, and gave moderately heavy rain to Bengal, the falls from the 16th to the 21st being particularly heavy. Indeed, many of the stations in North Bihar reported from 5 to 10 inches of rain on the 19th, while in the Darjeeling Hills the average fall was from 3 to 4 inches.

Before this last storm had finally broken up and long before its effects had ceased, another storm was in process of formation. Its history probably dates from the 17th or 18th, and it dispersed about the 23rd, so that its life was short. The following is a description of the storm taken principally from the Bengal Weekly Meteorological Report:—

On the 17th and 18th conditions in the south-east of the Bay again became unsettled, but there was no definite disturbance till the 19th, when stormy weather developed rather rapidly to the west of Diamond Island. A depression of no great extent but of much greater depth than the previous storm and of very considerable intensity near the centre moved rather rapidly into the centre of the northern half of the Bay on the 19th to the 20th. Though a diffused low pressure area was then shown by the observations taken at the coast stations, there was no sign of stormy weather except at Diamond Island up till the 20th, and the depth of the depression and the character of the resulting storm could not be estimated.

On the 21st it had moved north north-westwards or north-westwards, and was near the centre of the northern half of the Bay. It was then giving few indications of its existence at the meteorological stations, and none of its intensity or direction of motion. After moving in a north-westerly direction it appears to have changed gradually towards the north-east, and on the morning of Sunday, the 22nd, rushed with great rapidity towards the mouth of the Megna, the centre of the disturbance probably passing close to Noakhali. At 8 A.M. on the 22nd pressure fell more than a quarter of an inch at Chittagong, Noakhali, and Barisal, the wind blowing with moderate strength from east at the first station and from north-east at the other two. The centre was then probably to the south of the line joining Chittagong and Barisal and equally distant from them; but as its rate of motion appears to have been unusually high, it must have passed over Noakhali some time during the next two hours. At 11 o'clock pressure was rising at Chittagong, and the storm-wave which accompanied the depression was then reported to be passing up the river there. From Noakhali no information has been received regarding the passage of the disturbance. That hurricane winds blew over the north-east of the Bay and in East Bengal to some distance from the coast is shown by the fact that the Mutlah light-ship broke loose from her anchorage, and much damage was done to the shipping between Narainganj and Chittagong. Wind velocity rose to 25 miles at Chittagong on Sunday; but as the storm was of small extent and soon reached the hilly ground to the east of Tippera, it was very shortlived after passing inland. Pressure rose rapidly, and the rough weather quickly moderated. So far very little appears to be known regarding the storm-wave which washed over part of the islands at the mouth of the Megna. There is, however, sufficient to show that it must have devastated the parts near the coast, causing great destruction to property and probably loss of human life.

General heavy rain fell in East Bengal on the 22nd and 23rd, and light scattered showers in other parts of Lower Bengal and Orissa, but except near the centre of the depression weather continued fine, and the only change was in the light cloud disappearing after the rapid rise of pressure mentioned above. From the 22nd onwards till the 28th fine clear weather with northerly winds prevailed over the province. In the south of the Bay, however, an apparently immediate result of the recovery of pressure in the north-east of the Bay was the beginning of another storm which caused cyclonic winds at the Burma stations. Judging from reports received from the shipping, it must have commenced near the centre of the Bay, because squally weather was experienced about longitude 88° and latitude 16° on the 24th. Its course from its formation very probably was to the north-east, and it struck the coast of Burma, moving in this direction between the 28th and 29th at no great distance to the north of Diamond Island. Pressure changes were small everywhere, but a regular cyclonic circulation of winds prevailed over the whole Bay area. Wind velocity steadily increased at Diamond Island, till on the 27th an average of 50 miles was reported for the 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. on that date. It soon after crossed the coast, and as in the case of the previous storm diminished much in intensity on encountering the hilly ground near the coast. The stormy weather which accompanied its advance soon passed away.

As this disturbance did not approach the north coast of the Bay, its influence in Bengal was very slight, being shown only in the increase of cloud in the southern districts, and in a few light showers. The northerly winds increased somewhat in strength, but soon fell off as the pressure distribution became normal. During the latter portion of the month therefore weather was usually fine over almost the whole of Bengal.

Pressure.—For the first week the average pressure was below the normal, the defect varying from 0·05 inch in Orissa and Chota Nagpur to nearly 0·1 inch in the east of the province. In the second week the defect was a little smaller and ranged from 0·04 inch in the east of the province to 0·06 inch in the western districts. In the third week pressure was in defect in Orissa and Chota Nagpur due to the effect of the depression passing to the west of these divisions, but elsewhere it had become in excess by small amounts, and in the last week of the month pressure was in excess over the whole province, the excess ranging from very small amounts only in South-East Bengal to about 0·05 inch and 0·06 inch in parts of Bihar.

Hence the variations from the normal for the whole month have been small, and at only a few stations equal as much as 0·02 inch. At practically all stations the average pressure for the month has been below the normal, the usual defect averaging about 0·01 inch.

Temperature was in excess during the first week by less than half a degree, but in the second week the excess had increased to 1·2°. In the third week owing to the heavy rain which had commenced temperature became below the normal in almost all districts, but the defect was only about a third of a degree, but in the last week the defects had increased considerably, and temperature was about half a degree low in North Bihar and North Bengal, between half degree and one degree in defect in South Bihar, South-West and East Bengal, and in defect by 1·3° in Orissa, and by more than 2° in Chota Nagpur.

The mean temperature for the month has only varied from the normal by a few tenths of a degree at the majority of stations, and in almost all cases slight excess amounts have been registered. Slight defects on the other hand have been registered at the extreme eastern stations, and at some in Central Bengal and Chota Nagpur and at Darbhanga and Patna. In almost all cases, however, the variation of the average mean temperature for the month from the normal has been less than 1°.

In the case of the day or maximum temperatures they have been lower than usual by about a degree, but on the other hand the night or minimum temperatures have been in excess by a larger amount, frequently equalling about 2°, so that the mean daily temperature has also been above the normal.

Rainfall.—The falls over the province have averaged from about four to seven inches, having been smallest in South Bihar and Chota Nagpur and largest in East Bengal and Orissa. In North Bihar, which has received more than five-and-a-half inches, there has been an excess fall of more than two inches, and in East Bengal with a fall of more than seven inches, there has been an excess of 1·7 inches. In Chota Nagpur with an average fall of 4·37 inches, the excess has equalled 1·40 inches, but in the other meteorological divisions the excess amounts have been comparatively small, but all divisions show a distinct excess above the ordinary fall for October.

The number of rainy days has also been in decidedly large excess of the normal in all the seven meteorological divisions.

The following table gives a comparison between the actual monthly and total rainfall and the normal rainfall of the province up to the end of October in the same form as has been employed in the previous monthly abstracts of the present year. The figures represent the ratio of the rainfall of each month of the present year to the normal rainfall expressed as a percentage. The table thus gives a condensed summary of the rainfall data of the year for each meteorological division. The first ten columns give the percentage amount of rainfall received in each month, and the last column the percentage rainfall of the whole period from the 1st of January to the end of October :—

Meteorological Divisions.	January.	February.	March.	April.	May.	June.	July.	August.	September.	October.	Actual rainfall of first ten months of 1893 expressed as a percentage of the normal fall for the period.

Chota Nagpur ...	155	585	226	151	212	185	121	72	170	147	141

It will be seen the excess amounts for October range from 2 per cent. in Orissa and 5 per cent. in North Bengal to 47 per cent. in Chota Nagpur and 58 per cent. in North Bihar, and, taking all the seven meteorological divisions to have an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall in October for the whole province has been 25 per cent. larger than usual.

It will also be seen from the above table that the falls for the whole of the year up to the end of October have been in excess in all divisions by amounts ranging from 16 per cent. in North Bengal to 41 per cent. in Chota Nagpur and 48 per cent. in Orissa. Again, considering all the divisions of equal value, the rainfall for the year over the whole of the province has been 30 per cent. in excess of the normal fall.

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfal of the month of October in all districts of the province. The figures are obtained in the manner explained in previous monthly summaries. The first column gives the average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 15 years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the actual weighted rainfall of the month at the reporting stations in the district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall to the normal as a percentage, and the fourth the same information in a slightly different form :—

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. Rainfall the normal mean are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations district, i.e. from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall column are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 14th November 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 11TH OF NOVEMBER 1893.

At the close of the previous week fine settled weather obtained over the whole of Bengal, while in the south of the Bay conditions were decidedly disturbed. The disturbance over this area had been becoming more pronounced, and it also probably extended over a large area, for on the last day of the week cloud proportion was increasing in Orissa and Lower Bengal. On the 5th, or the first day of the week under review, a brisk fall of pressure occurred in the south-west of the Bay, and a very distinct barometric depression was formed, the centre of which was lying off the South Madras Coast. Conditions having thus become more seriously disturbed over the Bay, weather in Bengal also became a little more unsettled, and the sky clouded over rapidly at the southern stations. From the 5th to the 6th the small storm advanced in a westerly or north-westerly direction and struck the Madras coast a little to the south of Madras shortly before 8 A.M. on the 6th. The barometric depression at the centre was considerable, and the storm, though small, was accompanied by a severe gale of wind, very high sea and heavy rain, and at 8 A.M. the wind velocity registered at Madras equalled no less than 68 miles an hour. The small storm apparently broke up as a separate storm on striking the coast, but the disturbed conditions due to its disintegration steadily and rather rapidly spread northwards. A moderate wave of humid monsoon winds advanced along the west coast of the Bay and gave heavily clouded skies with rain at first in Orissa and over the southern parts of Bengal from the 6th to the 8th and 9th, and then as the moist winds again advanced northwards over the province, rainfall extended to Chota Nagpur and Bihar, the rain being reported over the last district, principally on the 9th instant. As the wave of humid winds advanced up the west coast of the Bay, it did not penetrate to any great extent over either East or North Bengal, which districts therefore received very little rain. This advance of humid winds was only temporary and was soon overcome by the superior force of the winds from Upper India, and at the close of the week it was again being driven back towards the Bay by the dry north-westerly and northerly current from Northern India. Thus on the 11th, or the last day of the week, the rainfall over the province had ceased. Skies had also become cloudless in Bihar and North Bengal, while light cloud prevailed over the remainder of the Province except in Orissa, where the sky was still heavily clouded, and hence north-east monsoon conditions were again rapidly setting in over the Province.

Conditions in Bengal therefore during a large part of the week have been very abnormal, and for the greater part of the time the sky was heavily clouded, the air was unusually damp, the day temperatures were comparatively low and the night temperatures high, and rain was received in most districts on one or two days.

Pressure at the commencement of the week was largely in excess of the normal, the excess usually ranging from 0·1 inch to 0·13 inch. On the 5th a further slight increase of pressure took place, which was continued on the 6th in the southern districts, though a fall began over the northern half of the Province. From the 7th to the 9th inclusive pressure fell tolerably steadily in connection with the advance of the disturbed conditions over Bengal, but on the 9th pressure was still in excess by amounts ranging from about 0·02 inch in the eastern districts to nearly a tenth of an inch in the west of Bihar. On the 10th and 11th pressure was rising, and hence the mean pressure for the week has been in excess of the normal in all districts, the usual excess equalling about 0·07 inch to 0·11 inch, the excess being largest over parts of Bihar. In Assam the mean excess has equalled 0·08 inch.

Temperature.—For the week slight excess mean temperatures have been registered in East and North Bengal and in Bihar, while slight defects have been registered in Orissa, South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur. In no case, however, does the variation from the normal equal as much as a degree. For the whole Province the average mean temperature has been almost absolutely normal. In Assam the average mean temperature for the week has been 0·7° below the normal.

Rainfall.—The falls during the week have been small. The average amounts in Orissa and in North and South Bihar have only equalled from 0·1 inch to 0·15 inch, those in South-West and East Bengal and Chota Nagpur have been a little more than a twentieth of an inch, while in North Bengal rainfall has been almost absent. In all divisions except Bihar the falls have been below the normal, but in this division a slight excess has been registered.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 11th of November 1893:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast ; g, gloomy ; d, drizzling rain ; ▲, dew.

Tidal signals and depth, South channel.

The Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 26 of 1893) that, on and after the 15th October next, the code of tidal signals in use at all other Queensland Ports (Brisbane excepted) will be that used at the Burnett Heads.

Notice is also given that the South channel across the Burnett bar has shoaled one foot, the depth at low water being now 5½ instead of 6½ feet as notified in Notice No. 28 of the 7th August last. The tide signals give the depth of water on the old bar.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON PUBLIC INSTRUCTION, BENGAL, FOR THE YEAR 1892-93.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EDUCATION—No. 2659.

Calcutta, the 21st November 1893.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report on Public Instruction in Bengal for the year 1892-93.
Read also the Resolution of Government on the Report for the year 1891-92.

Preliminary.

THE Report on Public Instruction in Bengal for the year 1892-93 is submitted by Dr. C. A. Martin, who received charge on the 27th December 1892 on the retirement of Mr. C. H. Tawney, C.I.E., Officiating Director of Public Instruction. Under the standing orders of Government the present year's Report should be one of a general and summary character, but the Director explains that owing to a call for special information made by Government in the Resolution on last year's Report, he has been obliged in some respects to depart from the standing orders.

Number under instruction.

2. There has been an increase in the numbers of pupils under instruction, viz., from 1,392,371 to 1,400,067 in public institutions, and a decrease from 139,594 to 134,989 in private or indigenous institutions. On the whole, the number of pupils has increased from 1,531,965 to 1,535,056. At the same time the aggregate number of public institutions has decreased from 53,956 to 53,131, and private or indigenous institutions from 13,868 to 13,473. Among the schools classed as "Public Institutions" which adopt departmental standards, the number supported or aided by public funds has decreased from 43,972 to 41,697, and the number of unaided schools has risen from 9,984 to 11,434. The number of pupils receiving University and secondary education has increased from 202,510 to 207,192, while the number in primary schools, upper and lower taken together, has slightly fallen, viz., from 1,123,560 to 1,123,225, the upper primary having gained almost as many pupils as the lower primary have lost. The figures for lower primary schools for five years are given below:—

Year.	Schools.	Pupils.
1888-89	44,854	982,126
1889-90	44,146	960,914
1890-91	43,998	942,244
1891-92	44 920	987,948
1892-93	43,829	983,271

The population of Bengal, excluding Kuch Bihar, Hill Tippera, and the Tributary States of Chota Nagpur, of which the schools are not included in the Educational returns, is 73,043,697, of whom 36,412,749 are males and 36,630,948 females. This gives, at the conventional rate of 15 per cent., 5,461,912 male children and 5,494,642 female children of a school-going age. Of the scholars on the Educational returns 1,431,528 are boys and 103,528 girls. Hence of all boys of a school-going age, 26·2, and of all girls of a school-going age, 1·9 per cent. are at school. The percentages in the previous year were 26·2 and 1·7, respectively. While it thus appears that one boy in every four throughout these Provinces is receiving instruction of some kind in schools, public or private, the table given in paragraph 12 of the Director's report shows great differences in the degrees of educational progress attained in the various districts and divisions. According to the figures given in that table, Hooghly shows 63·8 of the boys of a school-going age as actually at school against 42·6 in the 24-Parganas; Balasore shows 48·2 per cent. as against 27·8 per cent. in Puri, while Cuttack shows 33·8 per cent. of its boys at school in 1892-93 against 43·3 in the preceding year. Patna gives 31·9 per cent. against half that ratio (15·8) in the neighbouring district of Gaya and 11·1 in Shahabad. Assuming the correctness of the figures, the great disparity in educational progress between the different districts and divisions might be accounted for by differences in material comfort or in the habits of the people, or in the varying degrees of interest in the subject and of energy displayed by the local educational and district officers. The point is one which may with advantage be considered in future Reports. When the cause is ascertained the remedy can be applied.

The following statement taken from the Commissioners' divisional Reports shows the percentage of boys at school to the total number of boys of school-going age in each division of the Lower Provinces:—

Division.	Percentage of boys at school to total number of boys of school-going age.
Burdwan	51·6
Chittagong	45·2
Orissa	35·9
Presidency	30·1
Dacca	29·6
Chota Nagpur	16·7
Patna	15·2
Rajshahi	14·5
Bhagalpur	13

Financial results.

3. The net Government expenditure for the year was less than the sanctioned estimates by Rs. 2,791. In the years 1890-91 and 1891-92 there was an excess of expenditure over receipts to the extent of Rs. 55,115 and Rs. 33,679, respectively. The total expenditure on education in Bengal, including all disbursements from public and private sources, such as the fees and contributions paid to the University and in all public schools and colleges, amounted to

Rs. 96,45,408, as compared with Rs. 93,52,000 in the preceding year, an increase of Rs. 2,93,408. The expenditure from Provincial revenues decreased from Rs. 24,96,000 to Rs. 23,87,906, or by Rs. 1,08,094. Expenditure from all public sources, including District and Municipal Funds, decreased from Rs. 36,29,000 to Rs. 34,66,457, or by Rs. 1,62,543, while expenditure from private sources rose from Rs. 57,23,000 to Rs. 61,79,000, or by more than four-and-a-half lakhs. This is a satisfactory feature in the year's retrospect. Collegiate education cost less by Rs. 11,265, secondary education cost more by Rs. 1,19,810, primary education by Rs. 35,853, and female education by Rs. 1,10,086, of which the share from private sources came to Rs. 1,06,000. Under primary education District Funds contributed Rs. 45,000 less, which, however, was due to the fact that uncashed cheques, though issued, were not included in the accounts of the year. Under female education they contributed Rs. 2,000 more than in the preceding year. Municipal funds contributed under the two heads Rs. 8,000 more than in the preceding year. The expenditure by Municipalities on secondary is still more than 50 per cent. in excess of that on primary education, which means that children who cannot pay for education are refused it in order that those children who can pay may receive it gratuitously. This is not as it should be, and the authorities should see to it that the remedy is applied on all suitable occasions.

Controlling agencies.

4. Mr. Tawney, as Officiating Director of Public Instruction, made a tour extending over 17 days in the month of August 1892, during which he visited the districts of Patna, Muzaffarpur, Bhagalpur, Monghyr and Hooghly, and inspected colleges and schools, and held conferences with District Officers. Dr. Martin made a tour of 40 days during the months of January, February and March 1893, and visited the Sibpur, Hooghly and Midnapore Colleges, as well as the Reformatory school at Hazaribagh and training schools. The time spent on inspections by the inspecting staff of the Province, throughout the year, is exhibited in the following statement and compared with last year:—

	1891-92.		1892-93.
	Number of officers.	Average number of days.	Number of officers.	Average number of days.
Inspectors	5	157	5	168
Assistant and Joint-Inspectors ...	9	143	9	131
European Inspectors ...	2	65	2	67
Deputy Inspectors	44	169	44	161
Sub-Inspectors	193	208	198	219

Rai Radhika Prasana Mookerjea Bahadoor spent 152 days on tour and visited 251 schools, Babu Dinanath Sen, Officiating Inspector of Schools, Eastern Circle, spent 158 days and visited 194 schools, Mr. Bellett, Inspector of Schools, Rajshahi Circle, 176 days and visited 193 schools, and Mr. Stack 64 days out of 182 days during which he was in charge of the Bihar Circle. These officers did specially good work in their circles. Babu Beni Madhav De did not spend the prescribed period on tour; he inspected only 115 schools, and did not distribute his tours judiciously. Maulvi Abdul Karim should be called upon to explain his neglect to visit the important Musalman district of Chittagong. Babu Brajendra Kumar Guha's excuse for falling so much short of the prescribed touring period is inadequate and unsatisfactory. The periods spent on tour by the Deputy Inspectors have fallen short of the prescribed limit—150 days—in two instances only. It is gratifying to find that the work of all the Deputy Inspectors, so far as touring is concerned, has been satisfactory. The Sub-Inspectors have on an average exceeded the prescribed number of days (200) to be spent on tour in all the Divisions. Dr. Martin explains the reasons of their shortcomings in the case of officers who have not been on tour for the full period prescribed. The Lieutenant-Governor approves the action taken by the Director in reducing, from class VI on Rs. 100 to class VII on Rs. 75 for one year, Babu Brajaballab Maitra, Sub-Inspector of Burdwan, who had been severely censured year after year, without any real effect, for want of activity. Other Sub-Inspectors who have fallen short of the standard work without sufficient excuse, such as Babu Sarada Prasad Ghose and Babu Anada Prasad Chatterji of Malda, Babu Hara Mohan Ray and Babu Bal Krishna Das of Gaya, should be warned and severely censured. On the other hand, the good work done by the Sub-Inspectors as a body, and especially by Babus Sures Chandra Sarkar and Siva Sankar Lal, is noticed with satisfaction. Last year 921 chief gurus and inspecting pandits paid 280,916 visits to schools: average 305. This year 750 of them paid 248,008 visits: average 331. Chief gurus have their own patshallas to look after, and cannot therefore devote much time to the inspection of those in their neighbourhood. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor agrees with Dr. Martin that this system should be wholly discontinued, and inspecting pandits should be substituted for chief gurus.

5. District Boards.—The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice that the District Boards generally took an important share in the work of education, in the preparation of educational estimates, conducting of lower primary examinations, in discussing and deciding on suggestions from the Circle Inspector and the Director, in framing rules for expansion of primary education and in other ways, and that where formerly much friction and mismanagement were reported there is now co-operation and efficiency. In the Presidency Circle the District Boards have worked in harmony with the Education Department and given due consideration to the opinions of the officers of the Department as coming from experts. The District Boards in the Burdwan Division have made a considerable advance in knowledge and experience and in capacity for work. The appointment of the Deputy Inspectors as ex-officio members of the District Boards has given general satisfaction, and, owing to their being also on the Educational Sub-Committees, friction has nearly entirely ceased. The District Boards of Burdwan, Bankura, Hooghly and Howrah, as well as those of Gaya, Shahabad, Saran and Champaran, were late in sending in their annual reports. The Chairmen of the Boards in question will again be reminded through the Commissioners of their responsibilities for such matters of routine business. In the Rajshahi Division the relations between the Boards and the Department have been cordial: from the Dacca and Patna Divisions no case of friction is reported. There was no friction worth noticing in the Chittagong Division. The District Boards of Bhagalpur and Chittagong took special measures to encourage education of a secular kind among the Mussalman community. From Orissa a complaint comes that some of the Local Boards of Cuttack, instead of remitting money invariably through the post-office, make payments sometimes in cash, and "much being left to the Local Board's office, delays in payment are the consequence." This practice should be put a stop to.

University education.

6. The number of colleges stands at 34, the same as last year, divided into Government 11, Municipal 1, Aided 7, and Unaided 15. The students on the lists are returned as 5,443 instead of 5,225 as last year—a variation of no significance. The Aided colleges have, taken together, gained 70 students. The Government colleges show a decrease of 133 students. The Midnapore College had 39 instead of 46 youths under instruction. The Unaided institutions have attracted 288 more than last year. The variations in the number of successful candidates at the University examinations during the last five years are shown in the following statement:—

	1889.	1890.	1891.	1892.	1893.
Entrance	1,153	2,156	1,710	1,643	2,915

Percentage of success ...	53	70	63	27	47
Masters of Arts ...	62	57	46	54	...
Percentage of success ...	50	45	36	46

7. A comparison of the tables shows that out of 3,766 youths reading on the 31st December 1892 for the F. A. Examination, so many as 2,216 attended the examination: the proportion was lowest in aided colleges. The percentage of successful candidates decreased from 44 to 37. In Government colleges the percentage was 44, in aided colleges 36, and in unaided colleges 36. The most successful unaided mafassal college was the Jagannath College, Dacca, which sent up 172 candidates, of whom 61 passed. Among the candidates for the B. A. degree, the percentage of success increased from 24 to 25. Comparing the groups of colleges, the ratio of success appears to be as follows:—

	A Course.	B Course.	Total percentage.
Government ...	29	54	34
Aided ...	19	45	23
Unaided ...	18	28	20
Total ...	21	42	25

Of the 118 candidates for Mastership of Arts 54 passed as compared with 46 out of 128 last year.

The suggestion made by Government in paragraph 7 of the Resolution on last year's Education Report, that the University authorities should make efforts to secure uniformity of standard by continuity in the examining body, was referred to the Syndicate by the Director of Public Instruction. That body have replied that they are very sensible of the importance of attaining and of preserving uniformity in the standard of examination, but they think that the present system secures this as far as is practically possible, while at the same time it enables the Syndicate to exercise a control in the matter which it is desirable they should retain.

8. The total expenditure upon collegiate education has decreased from Rs. 7,07,104 to Rs. 6,95,839, or by Rs. 11,265; the expenditure from Provincial revenues has fallen from Rs. 2,92,686 to Rs. 2,79,570; and the receipts from endowments and other sources from Rs. 1,38,835 to Rs. 1,36,159. The charge on Provincial revenues is nearly 40 per cent. of the total expenditure and amounts to more than the Provincial Government outlay on primary education. During the year the cost of each student to Government has decreased in Government Colleges from Rs. 147-13 to Rs. 145-11. The cost per annum of collegiate instruction generally has decreased from Rs. 126-11-6 to Rs. 124-0-11 per head. The cost of the whole number of collegiate students for the past five years may be exhibited as follows:—

The B or Science Course.

9. The number of candidates who took up the A or Literature Course has risen this year from 967 to 987, while that of the students of the B or Science Course increased from 182 to 220. The increase in the former case has been two per cent.; in the latter about 21; thus showing the growing popularity of the B Course. On the other hand the percentage of success is 21 in the A Course and 42 in the B Course.

Secondary Education.

10. The main statistics relating to secondary schools for the last five years are contained in the following statement:—

Year.	Number of schools.	Number of pupils.	Public funds.	Private funds.	Total.
			Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1888-89 ...	2,313	200,124	6,01,539	19,34,506	26,36,045
1889-90 ...	2,366	201,452	6,08,294	20,11,672	26,19,966
1890-91 ...	2,393	199,105	6,11,046	20,62,859	26,73,905
1891-92 ...	2,285	194,178	5,94,846	20,87,904	26,82,750
1892-93 ...	2,326	198,270	5,90,493	20,92,642	26,83,135

Secondary schools of all classes taken together have advanced from 2,285 in 1891-92 to 2,326 in 1892-93, or by 1·8 per cent., and their pupils from 194,178 to 198,270, or by 2·1 per cent. There has been a decrease of one school in High English Schools, but a gain of 1,158 pupils. Middle English schools have increased by 25 and their pupils by 887, while Middle Vernacular schools have increased by 17 and their pupils by 2,047. In the preceding year the expenditure on 2,285 schools was Rs. 26,82,750, of which Rs. 5,94,846 were contributed from public funds, and Rs. 20,87,904 were raised from private sources. This year Rs. 5,90,493 were raised from public funds, or a decrease of Rs. 4,353, and Rs. 20,92,642 from private funds, or an increase of Rs. 4,738. The increase in the number of schools without a corresponding increase in the expenditure from public funds is no doubt a subject of congratulation, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that the economy exercised in the distribution of grants-in-aid by the Education Department, as well as the District Boards, has had an entirely wholesome effect. At the University Entrance Examination, 2,915 boys passed out of 4,365 candidates against 1,626 boys out of 4,046 candidates in 1892. The number of candidates increased from 4,046 to 4,365, or by 8 per cent. only; the number passed has risen from 1,626 to 2,915, or by 80 per cent. The percentage of successful candidates from schools was 25 in 1889, rose to 50 in the next year, fell off to 40 in the two following years, and has now reached 67. Judging from general results, and from the fact that many schools known to be inefficient obtained a fair measure of success, Dr. Martin has reason for thinking that the last examination was a particularly easy one, and this is said to be the general belief everywhere. The relative position of the different classes of schools remains the same as before, institutions under public management standing at the top, with 81 per cent. of their candidates passed, the Aided schools next with 66 per cent., and the Unaided schools last, with 59 per cent.

Middle class schools.

11. The results of the Middle English and Middle Vernacular Scholarship examinations are better than those of the preceding year. The percentage of success has risen from 52 to 63. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that the result of the Middle Vernacular Scholarship examination is more satisfactory than that of the preceding year, the percentage of success having increased from 50 to 57. His Honour sees much reason in the Director's views expressed in the last part of paragraph 59 of the Report that the vernacular schools of the Dacca Division are being stifled owing to the scholarships being awarded in that division on the aggregate marks obtained, so that students even with a smattering of English get a great advantage over the vernacular candidates, and will be prepared to consider the question when proposals are submitted in a definite form.

Drawing.

12. In accordance with the orders contained in paragraph 11 of the Resolution on the Education Report for the year 1891-92, the Director of Public Instruction has inserted in paragraph 60 of his Report a table showing the progress made in drawing in those Entrance schools in which drawing-masters have been appointed. Out of 13 pupils from nine schools who took up drawing, only two passed, both of whom came from the Hare School, while one candidate passed from the Bogra zilla school which is not provided with a drawing-master. The results are disappointing. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, accepts the Director's view that the giving of due importance to the subject by taking the marks gained in it into account in the award of junior scholarships will in time give it a value which will force it into notice.

Physical training.

13. Almost every high school under the department is supplied with a gymnastic teacher, one teacher sometimes working in a group of schools, two or three months at a time in each school of the group. Many high English schools under private management have followed the example of the zilla schools according to their resources. The middle and primary schools mostly satisfy themselves with indigenous games which, though not costly in their apparatus, are none the less useful in promoting muscular development. The Boards of Nadia and Midnapore are making commendable efforts to introduce physical training in middle and primary schools, and other Boards might follow their example with advantage. It is noticed with satisfaction that Mr. Growse at Faridpur, Mr. Greer at Tippera, Mr. Oldham, the Commissioner of Chittagong, and the Commissioner and Deputy Commissioners of Chota Nagpur organised inter-school cricket and football matches which they encouraged by their presence, and the Lieutenant-Governor agrees that kindly sympathy like this will do much to popularise games among the pupils. The Society for the higher training of young men, for which a grant of Rs. 100 a month was sanctioned during the year, has given prominence to the question of physical training, but nothing practical has yet been done.

Discipline and moral training.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with pleasure that the Director reports there has been a perceptible change for the better in the morale of school-boys, and that serious breaches of discipline and offences against morality were in most divisions very rare (paragraph 61), but His Honour at the same time notices that some very disgraceful cases of breach of discipline and of disrespect towards teachers and other constituted authorities occurred in Noakhali and Backergunge. Many high English schools possess debating clubs, in which students meet for self-improvement, under the presidency of one or other of the teachers. If properly controlled such clubs serve an useful purpose.

Boarding-houses.

15. The importance of boarding-houses as a powerful factor in promoting school discipline has not been lost sight of. Most Government institutions have attached boarding-houses, in which the pupils live under the charge of one or more of the resident teachers. Schools under private management follow the example of Government schools, whenever their means allow and the exigencies of the localities require such establishments.

Primary education.

16. The fluctuations in the number of the boys receiving primary education during the last five years are shown in the following statement :—

	Upper Primary.		Lower Primary.
	Schools.	Pupils.	Schools.	Pupils.
1888-89	3,077	115,485	44,854	982,126
1889-90	3,337	124,568	44,145	960,865
1890-91	3,537	128,537	43,997	942,211
1891-92	3,661	135,871	44,918	987,948
1892-93	3,697	139,726	43,828	983,204

There was a steady advance in the numbers of upper primary schools and pupils, while there was a loss of 1,090 lower primary schools and of 4744 pupils. The fluctuations in the numerical statistics of lower primary schools originated, as explained by Dr. Martin, from different causes, viz., the state of the public health, the price of food-grains, floods or drought—in fact all the agricultural circumstances of the year; but, allowing for these considerations, it is still unsatisfactory to find that there has been little or no progress in primary education during the past five years. In a country in which only one boy in every four of a school-going age is learning to read and write and the other three are absolutely illiterate, the statistics of primary education ought not to show merely a few more one year and a few less the next, but they should show increases in all years. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor agrees in the opinion that the loss in primary education during the year points to a decline in efficiency and activity of the inspecting staff, and thinks that, if more money were spent throughout the Province in this branch of education as pointed out in the Resolution on last year's Report, the result would be increased numbers at school. Sir Antony MacDonnell entirely concurs in the remarks made in paragraphs 10 and 15 of the Resolution on last year's Report on this subject.

The expenditure incurred from the primary allotment by the Department and by District Boards on account of schools for native boys and girls, and of the subsidiary inspecting agency, is compared for the last two years in the following table:—

	From Provincial revenues.		From District funds.		Total.

Savings	9,136	6,055	5,534	45,788	14,670	51,843

The expenditure from Provincial revenues upon stipendiary schools has increased from Rs. 97,766 to Rs. 1,06,741, while that upon non-stipendiary schools has diminished from Rs. 32,075 to Rs. 30,474. The total district fund expenditure was Rs. 5,76,563 against Rs. 6,17,766, and the savings out of the allotted grants amounted to Rs. 45,788 against Rs. 5,534 for the preceding year. Regarding this large saving the Director explains that the figures of expenditure for the year 1892-93 do not include uncashed cheques, and these in many districts came to large amounts.

The direct expenditure on primary schools, including the charges for those abolished during the year, was Rs. 5,75,532, or 76 per cent. of the total against Rs. 6,10,297, or 78·5 per cent. in the preceding year. This means that comparatively larger sums were expended during the year under report on such indirect heads as chief gurus, scholarships, prizes, buildings, furniture, &c.

The number of stipendiary schools aided from the primary fund has remained much the same as in the previous year, viz., 6,252 against 6,244, while that of non-stipendiary schools has declined from 34,490 to 31,890, owing partly, as stated above, to the introduction of a minimum allowance for rewards.

The municipal contribution to primary schools for boys and girls was raised from Rs. 24,984 to Rs.32,916. This is satisfactory as indicating that Municipalities are becoming more alive to the importance of providing for the education of the poor. Dr. Martin says that there is a diversity of practice with regard to the administration of these grants; in some Municipalities they are made over to the department for expenditure; in others they are distributed by the Commissioners themselves without consulting the Department. The Lieutenant-Governor concurs with the Direcor of Public Instruction in thinking that the former practice should be enforced: for unlessthis is done, much of the money will be frittered away, or left unspent.

The views of Government as to the financial responsibility of Municipalities in regard to primary education were defined during the year. The principle adopted was that Municipalities should provide for the primary education of at least half the boys of a school-going age within their areas. It was calculated that this would cost them on an average about 3·2 per cent. of their ordinary income, and it was decided that those municipalities which were unable to set aside so large a proportion of their funds during the current year should receive assistance from Government. In future it is hoped that all municipalities will make arrangements to comply with the wishes of Government in this respect. The result of this policy when carried out will be a considerable increase in the funds set apart for primary schools, and a corresponding increase in the number of schools and of pupils attending them. The Chairmen of municipalities have been recommended to take measures for opening the required number of schools from the 1st April 1894.

When due provision has been made for the required number of primary schools, but not before, any further sum which a municipality is desirous of expending on secondary education can be so devoted.

17. The following table exhibits by divisions the apportionment of the primary allotments between upper and lower primary schools, and the direct expenditure upon them:—

The ratio of expenditure on the two classes of institutions, upper and lower primary, varies from district to district, the rule being that as the payment-by-result system is more largely introduced in the districts of a division, the cost of upper primaries increases proportionately.

In paragraph 74 of his Report the Director has given a table showing the number of pupils in each district in the different stages of primary instruction, and comparing their relative positions with reference to the progress made in this respect.

The table has been recast in conformity with the wishes of Government as expressed in paragraph 17 of the Resolution on the last Annual Report. There are now two standards of comparison—one based on the stages of progress attained, and the other on the number of pupils in the different stages of primary instruction put together. The former may be called the merit-mark system, determined as before by assigning five marks to each pupil in the upper primary or the highest stage, three marks for each pupil in the lower primary stage, and one mark for each pupil who reads printed books. These marks roughly represent the years a pupil of average intelligence takes to reach the different stages. The second test compares the progress of the different districts by ascertaining the ratio of the number of pupils in the primary stages to the total population of school-going age. To this second test allusion has been made in a few remarks entered at the foot of the statement, but no attempt is made to explain the extraordinary difference between the percentages between different districts of the same division and between different divisions. Why is it that 47 per cent. of the boys of a school-going age are undergoing primary education in the Burdwan Division and only 24 per cent. in Dacca, and why again is it that 26 per cent. of the boys of the Patna district are at primary schools and only 7·8 per cent. of them in Shahabad?

Primary scholarships.

18. The standard of the results of the Upper Primary Scholarship examination for boys, i.e., candidates from upper primary schools, including private students as given in the table in paragraph 80 of the report, shows the result more favourable than in the preceding year. Out of 2,460 schools which sent up pupils to this examination, 1,694, or 68·8 per cent., were successful, against 1,493 out of 2,381, or 62·7 per cent., in the year before. The results of the corresponding Lower Primary Scholarship examination show that the number of competing schools increased from 10,001 to 10,597, but that of successful schools declined from 7,244 to 6,923, or from 72·4 to 65·3. The percentage has gone down in almost all the Divisions, and the cause of this decline should be more carefully looked into by the Inspectors and their subordinates.

Mr. Stack, Inspector of Schools, Bihar Circle, writes:—

"Another very important consideration arises here connected with the variation of the maximum limit of rewards that can be earned by gurus in different districts. In Patna, Muzaffarpur, and some others this has been fixed at Rs. 40, whereas elsewhere in the Division it exceeds that limit. It has been found that there are gurus within the area restricted to the forty-rupee maximum who could earn this maximum fully, or very nearly by successful results obtained at situ and examinations by the A and B standards only, and who therefore are averse to the additional trouble and expense involved in attending distant examinations at lower primary centres, where no further reward is to be gained. Hence this circumstance operates adversely in some cases to the attainment of a high standard of results, and the question of the maximum is worthy, therefore, of further consideration by District Boards, who might in consultation arrive at a suitable scale of maximum reward, which would constitute an inter-Board maximum for the Division."

The Lieutenant-Governor thinks this proposal may be adopted—at all events as a provisional arrangement, especially as measures are being taken to hold the lower primary examinations in the districts of each division with the same set of questions.

Dr. Martin writes—

"It would seem that in some districts non-stipendiary upper primary schools are not admitted to the reward examination beyond the standards A and B, the two lowest in a primary school. This does not seem equitable, and it sets a premium on poor work by holding out no encouragement for anything higher. Thus in the 24-Parganas, upper primary schools have declined, owing, as the Deputy Inspector says, to the wholesale withdrawal of fixed stipends from them, and to the rule that they must not earn rewards by any standards higher than A and B. There are four well-defined stages of progress in a fully organised primary school, viz., the A and the B standards, the lower primary scholarship standard, and the upper primary standard; and it is highly desirable that each standard should have an adequate value set upon it. If payment is made for the two lowest stages only, few gurus will attempt to raise their schools to a higher level, when the chief incentive for higher work is gone."

The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Director that in the case of upper primaries the question of fixing a maximum should be restricted to the A and B standards only, and that every guru of a non-stipendiary upper primary school, who passes pupils by the higher standards, should be rewarded with additional grants. The adoption of this principle will, His Honour trusts, have the effect of raising the tone of these pathsalas.

Special Instruction.

19. Under the head of Special Instruction are included training schools for teachers and all institutions for professional, technical and industrial education. The number of training schools for masters, mistresses and gurus advanced from 205 to 267 and their pupils from 1,943 to 2,382, and it is satisfactory to notice that this advance was chiefly in the Patna, Bhagalpur, and Dacca Divisions, in which primary education is very backward. The expenditure from Provincial revenues increased from Rs. 83,195 to Rs. 84,597, or by Rs. 1,399, while the total expenditure decreased from Rs. 1,16,703 to Rs. 1,13,380. The expenditure from Provincial revenues in the Government training schools for masters increased from Rs. 67,485 to Rs. 70,591. This is to a great extent due to the employment of drawing-masters and the opening, for the first time during the year, of drawing classes with the necessary apparatus in these institutions.

The results of the Vernacular Mastership examination for pupils of first and second grade training schools and for private candidates show 444 as having successfully passed out of 621 candidates, but are somewhat less favourable than last year: only 110 men have been granted first grade certificates after the three years' course and may be regarded as having cost Rs. 65,211 or Rs. 593 each. From the figures supplied, it appears that in 1,012 middle vernacular schools for boys and girls there were only 895 head-masters (this results from one man having under the Circle system to look after two or three schools in some instances) and 1,872 other teachers. It is satisfactory to observe that of the former no less than 700 were holders of Vernacular Mastership Examination Certificates, and no less than 1,330 of the latter might be regarded as having certificates of competency, while the rest were remnants of the old class teachers or local men employed on low pay. Of 3,550 head-gurus in upper primary schools, 2,629 may be regarded as having ample qualifications, and of 1,298 junior gurus, 602, together with a proportion of 569 others, may also be held to be competent. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Director that there is no difficulty in finding locally all the teachers who are needed for schools of this class.

In paragraph 19 of the Resolution on the report for the year 1891-92, directions were given to "have the whole system of these (training) schools carefully reviewed by the Inspectors." After quoting the opinions expressed by Mr. Prothero, Inspector of Schools, Rajshahi Circle, Babu Dinanath Sen, Officiating Inspector of Schools, Eastern Circle, and Rai Radhika Prasanna Mookerjea, Bahadur, Inspector of Schools, Presidency Circle, Dr. Martin observes:—

"I think the training schools in Calcutta and Dacca might be converted into training colleges somewhat upon the lines suggested by Babu Dina Nath Sen, and I believe this could be done without increasing expenditure. The school at Hooghly, in spite of its apparent popularity, might be gradually reduced from its present status, and in a few years it might be abandoned altogether, its teaching staff being absorbed into the establishments of zilla schools. The schools at Rangpur, Patna, Ranchi, and Cuttack might remain somewhat as they are for some years to come. In these outlying places there is still a need of schools of the kind for the training of teachers who may be employed either as head pandits of middle class schools or as inspecting pandits to help to supervise the work done in the upper and lower primary schools. As regards the school at Chittagong a difficulty arises On the one hand it might be regarded as a necessity from its being situated in such an outlying district; on the other the Assistant Inspector of Chittagong in referring to its loss of numbers (from 67 to 51) remarks: This is due not to the unpopularity of the school, but to its unusual success at the final examinations during the last two years, when it turned out more pandits than the Division had need of. The supply having exceeded the demand, there was a dead-lock in appointments producing a discouraging effect.' The opinion of the Commissioner of the Division is summed up in the following words:—'A training school in this Division, except in the Hill Tracts, is now an anachronism.'"

An expression of Sir Alfred Croft's opinion in the matter will be awaited.

The scheme of attaching guru classes to certain middle schools in each district is said to have worked with varying success in the different circles and divisions. Altogether 1,171 gurus are reported to have received some kind of education in middle class schools at a cost of Rs. 6,473. Of these, only 91 were subsequently able to pass any departmental examinations, so that for each pass obtained (a Middle Vernacular pass being the highest) about Rs. 70 were paid by Government. Dr. Martin does not approve this system. He considers that the question is one upon which the special opinion of each experienced inspecting officer of the Department should be obtained. The Lieutenant-Governor would be glad to be furnished with a special report on the subject.

20. The "Other schools of special instruction," including all institutions and departments teaching Law, Medicine, Engineering, the Calcutta School of Art, industrial schools and other schools of a special character, are shown in the following statement:—

The decrease in the number of Law students continues. One reason is the recent changes in the regulations for the B.L. and Pleadership examinations, and another is that students have begun to see that the native Bar is already crowded. The increase in the number of medical pupils is attributable to the opening of a new school in the Dacca Division. One of the Homœopathic schools in Calcutta, which was returned last year, has not been returned this year. The total expenditure of the Medical College was Rs. 1,91,366 against Rs. 2,05,206 in the preceding year, of which Rs. 16,758 against Rs. 12,140 were raised from fees, and the rest paid by Government. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor notes with much satisfaction the increase in the number of students of the "Engineering" and "Arts and Industry" classes which Sir Antony MacDonnell like Sir Charles Elliott desires heartily to encourage. So great is the demand for trained apprentices in the Sibpur College now-a-days, that it is sometimes unavoidable to issue certificates before the complete course has been gone through. The Principal writes—

"As a consequence of my inability to supply fully qualified men for vacant appointments, I have been compelled to recommend partially trained men * * * As many as 39 partial certificates have been issued (during the year under report) to apprentices who accepted employment before the completion of their full course. This shows that the demand for the class of labour is greater than our present supply, and I hope that the attainments of the partially trained men will be found to be up to the standard of the appointments they have been recommended for."

The number of students admitted to the Engineer class was 41 against 28, and that to the apprentice class was 66 against 33. The total admission during the year was 107 against 61 in the preceding year. At the B.E. and L.E. Examinations held in July 1892, 14 candidates competed, of whom 6 or 43 per cent. passed, against 5 in the preceding year. The number of candidates in the F.E Examination was 14, of whom 11 or 79 per cent. were successful against 4 in the year before.

The proposal to establish an artizan class is under consideration, but no arrangements can be made unless more accommodation is provided in the College. The European students of the College are encouraged to join the Volunteer corps. The College corps was amalgamated during the year with that of the East Indian Railway and formed into an Engineer Company. A class for photography has recently been opened. The total expenditure of the College, exclusive of the workshop, was Rs. 62,742, of which Rs. 10,592 were raised from fees and the rest paid by Government. Of the 43 pupils in the Cuttack Survey School on the 31st March 1893, 23 only were natives of Orissa. The decrease in the number of Uriya students is attributed to the lack of efficient practical training, for want of which even passed students, it is said, are found to be almost useless when they are first taken into Government service, so that, in times when there is a normal demand (for passed students), difficulty is experienced in obtaining employment. The Lieutenant-Governor does not accept this explanation. The difficulties in connection with practical training are no greater in Cuttack than in the Dacca Survey School, where the number of pupils rose from 268 to 318, and where the demand for passed students exceeds the supply. In Orissa, which was recently brought under survey, there ought to be no want of demand for surveyors. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor thinks that the Directors of Survey and of Land Records might with advantage visit this and other survey schools and offer such suggestions as may be necessary to increase their efficiency. The School of Art, in which the artistic and decorative industries of Bengal are concentrated, more than maintained its position by attracting 198 pupils against 181 in the preceding year. The school was removed to the new premises in Chowringhee during the year. Seven students of the school were employed during the year as teachers of drawing, and three as draftsmen, in the Indian and Geological Museums. Arrangements were also made with the Office of the Survey of India for a number of specially trained students to be admitted annually as probationers in the drawing office, the pay commencing at Rs. 20 and rising to Rs 120 a month. The total expenditure on the institution was Rs. 29,922, of which the Government share was Rs. 25,171 against Rs. 27,352 in the previous year. The Government School at Ranchi made some progress in blacksmith's and carpenter's work during the year. The total expenditure amounted to Rs. 3,276, of which Rs. 1,882 (against Rs. 1,555 in the preceding year) were paid by Government.

The Bihar Industrial School was opened during the year. The total capital of this school is Rs. 2,50,411, of which Rs. 2,39,900 is invested in Government securities and Rs. 10,511 deposited in the Bank of Bengal. The monthly establishment charges amount to Rs. 182, and the total cost came to Rs. 16,011, the chief portion of which was devoted to the erection of a building. The institution had 32 pupils on the rolls, divided into two departments—the apprentice with 20 pupils and the artizan with 12. Twenty-five of the pupils received stipends varying from Rs. 7 to Rs. 3 a month. The course of instruction includes arithmetic, algebra, Euclid, drawing and carpentry. The management is vested in a Committee with the Commissioner of the Patna Division as President. A new industrial school was opened during the year at Pabna, the Comilla artizan school was brought on to the books of the department, and a new technical school was opened at Noakhali.

The Lieutenant-Governor has read with pleasure Dr. Martin's conclusion that District Boards and other local Educational authorities are becoming alive to the importance of technical education, and that year after year not only has there been an advance in the number of such schools, but a steady endeavour to place the existing ones on a better footing. Sir Antony MacDonnell hopes that this is only the beginning of a great movement. Higher education has now taken such firm root in Bengal that it has ceased to require from Government the same fostering care as formerly. The educational authorities should now pay special attention to the preparation of the youth of the country for new industrial and scientific pursuits and to the fostering of primary education among the poorer classes.

21. At the beginning of the official year, Mr. Slater, Principal of the Sibpur College, was authorised to visit the outlying industrial schools in order to introduce some uniformity of system into their course of instruction, so as to prepare them gradually for affiliation. Mr. Slater inspected the following institutions:—

(1) Bihar Industrial School (2 visits).
(2) Calcutta ditto ditto.
(3) Giridhi ditto.
(4) Ranchi ditto.
(5) Patna Survey School (2 visits).
(6) Dacca ditto.
(7) Rangpur Technical School.
(8) Mymensingh Technical School.
(9) Hazaribagh Reformatory.

He sums up his conclusions as follows:—

"In the present state of their finances they (these mufassal schools) can never rise above the standard of what I may call primary industrial schools, if they have to purchase machinery at market prices. Their funds are sufficient to enable them to employ a fairly competent head-master (generally an ex-apprentice of this College), and equip a carpenter's and blacksmith's shop. As feeders to a Central Technical College, such schools are invaluable from an industrial point of view; as separate institutions, with no further means of training their more advanced students, they must fail. The experiment has been tried unsuccessfully before, and I am convinced the recently established schools will meet with the same fate unless they are affiliated to an institution that can give a more advanced and complete training. This problem, therefore, of the training of students on a technical basis is a pressing one, if the present movement is to be successful. All my advice to the management of these schools has been based on the understanding that Government desired to place the Sibpur College on such a footing as to enable it to receive and complete the training of these students from the primary schools The only other suggestion I could have offered was that the movement should be suppressed as it was certain to fail. The schools I have visited have most readily accepted the suggestion as the only one on which their schools could progress, and I am now hampered with the prospect of these schools asking us to limit their students, and our being obliged to refuse on the ground of inadequate accommodation. My proposal for the proper encouragement of technical education in Bengal is a very simple one, and, if carried out on the lines I advocate, has the additional advantage of being cheap All I ask for is (I) the affiliation to the Sibpur College of such primary industrial schools as desire this affiliation; (II) the necessary equipment and accommodation in the College to enable me to receive these students. At present the accommodation both in the College and workshops is inadequate for our present requirements, and sufficient accommodation could not be provided under a cost of about three lakhs of rupees. This cost is prohibitive in the present financial position of Government, so I propose to utilise the existing workshops solely for instructive purposes. Their area is sufficient for every purpose I require, and their only cost to the State would be their adaptation to their new requirements. * * * If the shops are given over for educational purposes, a new era in technical education will open out in Bengal."

If it lay with Sir Antony MacDonnell to decide whether the Sibpur Workshops should remain under the control of the Public Works Department or be transferred to the Educational Department, he would have no hesitation in deciding in favour of the transfer. Under the Public Works Department the Workshops serve no substantial purpose, while they compete with private enterprise. Under the Educational Department they would form a necessary and most valuable adjunct to a broad scheme of technical instruction for the Province.

The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice that some of the District Boards have created scholarships for the encouragement of industrial studies.

Female education.

22 The progress of female education, in its main statistical aspects, is exhibited in the following table:—

1891-92	2,706	54,199			1,31,003			2,23,976

There was a material advance in female education. The number of girls' schools increased from 2,706 to 2,821, and their pupils from 54,199 to 56,579. The number of girls in boys' schools also increased from 32,749 to 34,200. The net gain of schools was therefore 115, and of pupils 3,231. The only Government schools are the school department of the Bethune College and the Eden Female School in Dacca. It is satisfactory to see that, though the number of girls increased, the total expenditure decreased by Rs. 3,334. The cost of the schools under all the different heads except "Other sources" shows an increase which is in keeping with the increase in the number of schools and of pupils. The Bethune School passed two girls at the last Entrance examination, but the number of girls sent up has not been mentioned; the Dacca Female School sent up two, of whom one passed. Mrs. Wheeler, the Inspectress of Schools, furnished examination returns of 5,537 pupils; the number of schools examined by her was 104, of which 46 are in Calcutta. In Calcutta there were 150 primary girls' schools with 5,872 pupils against 162 schools with 5516 pupils in the preceding year. Arrangements have recently been made and rules framed under which the grants to schools in and near Calcutta will be revised, so as to bring them to some extent into proportion with the actual work done. The special standards for girls' scholarships that were originally decided for Calcutta and its neighbourhood could not be largely extended to the mufassal for want of funds. It is a matter for congratulation to read that, in the last examination under these standards, out of 276 examinees, 236 passed against 175 out of 292 in the preceding year.

Education of Europeans.

23. Though the total number of schools remained unchanged, there was an increase of 346 scholars attending European schools in Bengal during the year, and, with the exception of a slight falling off in 1886, the number has steadily increased since 1883, as the following figures will show:—

Year.	1883.	1884.	1885.	1886.	1887.	1888.	1889.	1890	1891.	1892.	1893.
Number of schools	5,578	5,055	6,389	6,008	6,391	6,541	6,682	6,710	6,829	7,098	7,444

The Government Boarding School at Kurseong had 86 students instead of 90; the Government expenditure has been reduced by Rs. 1,900. The average cost per scholar (Rs. 152) was less than that of the preceding year, (Rs. 180). The 27 schools under Roman Catholic management afforded education to 3,968, and the 14 Church of England schools to 1,750 children, out of 7,444 above mentioned, the remainder belonging to other denominations The total cost of European education was Rs. 10,84,680, of which Government paid Rs. 1,70,798. Government sanctioned during the year Mr. Bamford's proposals, (1) that all the aided schools in Bengal should receive grants dependent upon the average attendance of scholars instead of upon examination results, and (2) that frequent supervision by the Inspector should supersede the annual examination. These changes will give the Inspector freedom to employ the best methods for investigating the character of the teacher's work, and enable him to spend a much greater portion of his time actually in the schools, thus affording him increased opportunity for giving help and supervision where it is needed. The number of candidates from European schools for the University Entrance examination increased from 106 to 154, and the number of successful candidates from 52 to 126. The percentage of successful candidates rose from 49·1 to 81·8. The number of schools upon the special list of those in receipt of fixed annual grants is the same (five) as in previous year. All these schools were examined during the year on the collective system (i.e., the classes as a whole were tested instead of each individual scholar), and were all found to be doing good work.

Muhammadan education.

24. The total number of Muhammadan pupils decreased from 448,847 to 447,485, or by 1,362, and the percentage from 29·2 to 29·1. In public institutions the Muhammadan pupils increased by 4,430. A large increase, viz. by 3,094 Muhammadan pupils, took place in the upper primary schools. The private institutions sustained a loss of 5,792 Muhammadan pupils. In advanced private schools there was a loss of 1,793 Muhammadan pupils, while in the elementary schools there was a gain of 2,753. In other schools not coming up to departmental standards, there was a loss of 56 pupils. The actual expenditure of the Mohsin Fund exceeded the estimates which amounted to Rs. 66,654 by Rs. 777. The number of Muhammadan candidates successful at the University examination for the last five years is shown as follows:—

	1889.	1890.	1891.	1892.	1893.
Entrance	54	125	110	85	172
First Arts	21	57	16	47	35
Bachelors of Arts	18	21	12	14	28
Masters of Arts	1	3	2	2

The number of passes gained by Muhammadan candidates was greater in 1892-93 than in the preceding year at all the examinations except the First Examination in Arts. The percentages also of Muhammadans among successful candidates advanced except in the case of the First Arts Examination. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that, though these results show some slight improvement, they are disappointing when the proportion which the Muhammadan element bears to the total population is considered. The ratio per cent. of Muhammadan boys at schools, of all kinds to the total number of Muhammadan boys of a school-going age is 25, against 29 per cent. in the case of Hindus. Of boys receiving secondary education, 81 per cent. are Hindus and only 14 per cent. Muhammadans, while of students receiving collegiate education, 90 per cent. are Hindus and only 5 per cent. Muhammadans.

In the general results of the central examination of the Madrassas 169 out of 313 passed this year, as compared with 224 out of 270 last year. The total number of candidates increased by 43, but the total number of passes diminished by 55. Three of the seven Madrassas are maintained from Provincial revenues; the rest from the Mohsin Fund. The 1,722 pupils at the seven Madrassas cost Government Rs. 25,231, and the total expenditure on their account was Rs. 59,933. Physical training is receiving attention both in the Calcutta and the Nawab of Murshidabad's Madrassas. On the subject of the comparative backwardness of Muhammadans in education, especially of the higher kind, the Director remarks:—

"One of the most depressing influences which have had the effect of discouraging the advance of education among the Muhammadan community arises from the fact that so little has hitherto been done towards giving employment to Musalman gentlemen in the Department of Public Instruction. This is a matter which I have recently brought to the notice of Government in a separate report, so I need not do more than allude to it here. Another matter upon which I wish to make a passing remark is the constitution of the District Boards, upon which in the majority of cases Muhammadans are not represented in such proportions as their numbers would seem to demand. This is a difficulty for which seemingly a remedy might easily be found. The Muhammadan Assistant Inspector for Patna and Bhagalpur Divisions, pointing to the fact that some of the Boards in Bihar 'have no Muhammadan members at all, and some perhaps only one or two,' goes on to say:—'The result has been just what could be anticipated with such imperfect and one-sided representation, so that even in some cases the presence of a European Magistrate-Chairman with all his powers and endeavours cannot do anything to help the cause of Muhammadans and check the growing tendency to retard it.'"

This matter will be separately considered.

Education of aborigines and indigenous education.

25. The aboriginal population of Bengal includes the Sonthals and Kols, Dhangars, Uraons, Pathaliks, Paharis, Indo-Tibetans, Indo-Chinese, Indo-Burmese, besides the tribes on the Assam, Chittagong and Tippera frontiers. The number of pupils of these aboriginal races under tuition increased from 29,657 to 31,712 or by 2,055. The Christians advanced by 964 and the non-Christians by 1,091. The divisions in which the aborigines chiefly live are Burdwan, Bhagalpur and Chota Nagpur. In the first of these there were 3,426, in Bhagalpur 6,231, and in Chota Nagpur 17,579, of whom 4,424 are Christians and 22,812 are non-Christians. The five missions in Chota Nagpur maintained 136 schools as compared with 146 in 1891-92, and the pupils attending them decreased from 4,194 to 3,920 or by 274. The total expenditure on these schools increased from Rs. 33,933 to Rs. 42,063, while the Government expenditure decreased from Rs. 9,435 to Rs. 9,282. The aboriginal pupils gained 133 more passes at the Entrance and other examinations than in the previous year.

Indigenous education.

26. The figures for the last five years under this head are as follows:—

	1888-89.	1889-90.	1890-91.	1891-92.	1892-93.
Schools ...	11,709	13,867	13,387	13,868	13,473
Pupils ...	117,284	139,603	132,057	139,594	134,989

The total number of institutions decreased by 395 and the pupils attending them by 4,605. The largest decrease was in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, and is attributed by Mr. Oldham to the fact that foreigners are imported to supervise education. The suggestion of the Commissioner that he should be given the powers of Director in this district should be separately submitted.

The advanced schools for teaching Arabic or Persian decreased by 77 and their pupils by 1,933, while the Sanskrit tols increased by 102, but their pupils diminished by 202. Certain rules were published by Government during the year for the award of Government stipends in the indigenous tols of Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, and nine Associations have been empowered to conduct the examination, the same sets of question papers being supplied to each by the Principal of the Sanskrit College. Under the orders of Government Mahamahopadhyaya Mahesa Chandra Nyayaratna, C.I.E., visited Sanskrit tols in the Cuttack, Puri and Balasore districts. His visit to Orissa proved a success and evoked much enthusiasm in the cause of Sanskrit teaching in that province. Under his auspices three Associations have been established for the promotion of the study of Sanskrit.

The Central Text-Book Committee.

27. The duty of selecting school-books has, since the year 1875, been entrusted to the Central Text-Book Committee, which now consists of 17 members, with Babu Bhudeb Mukherji, C.I.E., as President, and the Inspector of Schools, Presidency Circle, as ex-officio member and Secretary. The Committee received for examination during the year 301 books on different subjects: of these 157 were approved for various purposes, 142 were rejected, and the consideration of two books had to be postponed. Besides the Central Text-Book Committee sitting at Calcutta, there are Branch Committees for Bihar and Orissa. A list of text-books and another of prize books in Hindi and Urdu were approved by the Bihar Text-Book Committee and published for the first time. The Orissa Committee consists of 16 members, of whom only four belong to the Education Department, but it does not appear that its members did any very useful work during the year.

Conclusion.

28. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank Dr. C. A. Martin for his efficient administration while in charge of the Department, and cordially agrees in the high eulogium already bestowed by Government on Mr. Tawney for his conspicious services in the cause of education in Bengal.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

Except for the last few weeks of the year, Mr. Beames was in charge of the Division. The report is submitted by Mr. Westmacott, who assumed charge on the 4th March 1893.

Tours.

2. The Commissioner's tour was far short of the prescribed length, and covered only 68 days, to which Mr. Beames contributed 48 and Mr. Westmacott, during the short time he was in charge 20 days. The tour of the Collector of Murshidabad fell short by 13 days; Mr. Kennedy explains that his tour was curtailed by stormy weather in February, and by the necessity for remaining at head-quarters during March to complete the half-yearly inspections; but the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Commissioner that his explanation is not sufficient: all other district officers found it possible to comply with the orders. All Sub-divisional Officers completed the full period of tour, except the Sub-divisional Officer of Magura, where Mr. Lees was on tour for only 22 days between the 1st April and the 12th December; he then made over charge to Babu Bepin Behari Mookerjee, who was on tour only for 53 days during the remainder of the year. The inspections of the district offices and treasuries, which were punctually made, disclosed no serious irregularities in any district except Nadia, where defects were noticed in the arrangement of the records, and in the dilatory disposal of applications respecting spoiled stamps in the Certificate Department. In the same district the registers of loans under the Land Improvement and Agriculturists' Loan Acts were found to be in great disorder, and in consequence a muharrir, who it appears had dishonest reasons for not keeping proper accounts, has been dismissed. The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad to be informed of the name of the Deputy Collector in charge who failed to exercise efficient supervision. The district officers inspected all the sub-divisional offices and treasuries in their respective districts twice during the year in accordance with existing orders.

Weather and crops.

3. The rainfall of the year was greater than that of the previous year in all districts except Nadia, where it was approximately the same. The largest fall, 93·44 inches, was recorded at Canning Town in the 24-Parganas, and the smallest, 34·31 inches, at Akhriganj in Murshidabad. The uneven character of the rainfall affected the outturn of the harvests, which varied considerably not only in different districts, but in different parts of the same district. There were good aus crops in Nadia and Jessore, and a bumper aman crop in the bagri tracts of Murshidabad, while in the Jangipur sub-division the crop failed. The aman or winter rice was generally below the average, and in parts of Jessore and Khulna it was much below the average. The rabi crops were damaged by excessive rain.

Public Health.

4. The following figures show the total reported mortality in each district for the last three years:—

District.	1892.	1891.	1890.	Deaths per mille.
				1892.	1891.	1890.
24-Parganas ...	48,058	45,785	36,900	25·40	24·19	22·05
Nadia ...	58,686	71,582	32,676	35·69	43·53	19·73
Jessore ...	79,707	76,820	59,531	42·19	40·67	30·69
Murshidabad ...	40,678	40,599	26,438	32·51	32·45	21·55
Khulna ...	37,286	30,713	33,509	31·66	26·07	31·02
Total ...	264,415	265,499	189,054	33·66	33·80	24·9

These statistics, defective as they are, would seem to indicate that public health was on the whole better than in the previous year. The mortality from malarial fever and cholera still seems to be great, and will probably continue so as long as the water-supply, sanitation, and the drainage of the country are not improved. Some steps have been taken towards improving the water-supply in the districts of the 24-Parganas, Jessore, and Khulna.

Material condition of the people.

5. In regard to the material condition of the people, the following remarks are taken from the Commissioner's report:—

"There was no improvement in the condition of the people during the year. It would seem rather to have somewhat deteriorated. The high prices of food-grains which prevailed during the last three years pressed hardly on the landless classes and all persons with small fixed incomes. The agricultural classes did not feel the pinch so much, inasmuch as they had the benefit of better prices for such crops as they harvested. The case was, however, different with the labouring classes, who had no increase in their wages. The condition of the poorer middle classes (bhodra lok) was also bad. Their incomes being limited, they found difficulty in maintaining their social position. According to the custom of the country, they spend more than they can afford on marriages and other social ceremonies, and to meet these charges they generally have recourse to the money-lender, with the inevitable result that they ultimately lose such rent-free lands as they may possess. This is evident from the large increase in the number of sales of immovable property, mortgage deeds and bonds for money registered during the year."

The following extract relating to Murshidabad is also of interest:—

"In Murshidabad the condition of the people is said to have been generally good, owing in great measure to the trade in silk. The large number of silk filatures causes a steady demand for labour, and both landless labourers and cultivators make large profits by rearing silkworms. Mr. Kennedy thinks that what distinctly injures the lower classes in some parts of the district is the amount given in charity by rich zamindars, which must materially injure the spring of industry by reducing the need of work. There are in this district always a lot of beggars from other districts, especially Muhammadans."

In the Diamond Harbour sub-division of the 24-Parganas, there was some distress during the rainy season, and relief was given by the District Board and also by private individuals and charitable institutions. Loans under the Agriculturists Loan's Act were granted to a number of raiyats in this sub-division, and in a few villages in thana Kumarkhali in Nadia, to enable them to tide over any temporary difficulties which they may have experienced.

Emigration.

6. There is no emigration properly so called from any of the districts of this division. There is a large annual influx of labourers from Jessore and Nadia to the Sundurbans and neighbouring districts during the harvest season, but owing to the poor harvests many this year were unable to obtain employment.

Prices.

7. The price of rice, which is the staple food in all the districts of the Division, was higher in the 24-Parganas and Jessore, but lower in Murshidabad, Khulna, and Nadia than in 1891-92. A steady rise is taking place in the price of food-grains in Jessore and Khulna, which the Commissioner attributes to the action of railways and Commerce in bringing about uniformity of prices and to the continued fall in the value of the rupee. As regards the wages of labour, both superior and common, they were almost the same as in the past two years. The Commissioner adds that wages are in a manner fixed by custom in different districts and localities, and the fluctuations in the prices of food-grains have so far had little effect upon them.

Manufactures and Mines.

8. The chief manufactures of this Division are—cotton twist and yarn, gunny-bags, cloth-paper, ice, shell-lac and lac-dye, indigo, silk, sugar, and molasses. The manufacture of cotton twist, gunny-bags, cloth-paper, ice, shell-lac, and lac-dye is confined to the district of the 24-Parganas, in which 49 mills, presses, and factories were at work at the end of the year, against 46 in the previous year. Besides the mills and factories, there are several jute screws, soorkee, and flour mills, and castor-oil presses in the suburbs of Calcutta, and 16 oil mills at Swarupganj in Nadia, but no statistics of their outturn have been furnished. The year was a favourable one for jute and cotton mills.

Indigo is manufactured in the districts of Nadia, Jessore, and Murshidabad. The season was unfavourable, and in all districts the outturn was less than in the preceding year. In Nadia the outturn was only one-third of what it was the year before, and in Jessore nine factories were closed. Though prices were considerably higher, the total value of the indigo produced in the three districts was only Rs. 12,90,527 in 1892-93, against Rs. 21,69,000 in 1891-92, in which year the value of the produce in Nadia alone was Rs. 12,67,980 against Rs. 5,44,790 in 1892-93. The season was nearly, but not quite, as bad as that of 1890-91.

Silk is manufactured in the districts of the 24-Parganas and Murshidabad; and while the former showed a decrease in the value of the outturn as compared with the previous year, in the latter the outturn showed a satisfactory increase both in the amount and value. There was a considerable increase in the number of silk cloths manufactured at Mirzapur in Jangipur.

Sugar is manufactured on an important scale in Jessore and Khulna, and molasses in Nadia, Murshidabad and Khulna. These industries give promise of expansion.

Trade and Commerce.

9. The volume of trade on the eleven main road routes of the 24-Parganas, the trade of Nadia, and that of the Nadia rivers, appear to have declined. The trade of Jessore is said to be on the increase. The Bengal Central Railway aided by the steamer service has greatly facilitated communication with Calcutta, where the products of the district find a good market. There was a marked increase in the export traffic of Murshidabad, due to a large increase in the exports of rice and of gram and pulses in consequence of high prices elsewhere. In Khulna both the export and import traffic showed improvement.

The number of civil suits disposed of by the Munsifs increased from 81,756 in 1891 to 105,350 in 1892. The proportion of witnesses detained over two days to the total number examined was greatest in Bagerhat in the Khulna district, where the ratio was 29 per cent. The ratio exceeded 20 per cent. in Satkhira, Jangipur, and Backergunge. The proportion of cases pending at the end of the year to the number of cases disposed of was highest in Sealdah.

The Commissioner remarks that suits for money or moveables and rent suits increased in all the districts, the increase being attributed to decrease in the general prosperity of the people occasioned by the partial failure of crops, and consequent difficulty in recovering debts and realizing rents.

Crime, Police, and Criminal Justice.

11. The number of cognizable offences reported in this Division during the year was 15,859 as compared with 15,099 during the previous year, showing an increase of 760 cases. The number of non-cognizable cases was 16,847 against 16,574 in the year before, showing an increase of 273 cases. All districts except Nadia and Khulna contributed to the increase in the number of cognizable cases which was chiefly made up of offences against property, with the addition in the 24-Parganas of offences under the Act for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The increase in offences against property is ascribed mainly to the high prices of food and the pressure felt by the labouring classes. The following extract is taken from the Commissioner's report:—

"The Magistrate of Jessore reports that as regards his district, the past year was conspicuous for an epidemic of crimes against property in the form of burglaries and dacoities. The district abounds in professional and systematic thieves, who form gangs under known leaders. They belong to various castes and classes, such as Kayasths, Moohees, Bediyas, and Mussalmans. It is stated that the outbreak of crime was most marked in the Sadar subdivision, and to a less degree in the Bangaon subdivision, where there had been a succession of poor harvests, and where the criminal classes are numerous. Special detective officers were deputed to take the dacoity cases in hand, and a fair degree of success is said to have been obtained in bringing the offenders to justice. It is observed that detection is rendered more difficult by the existence of receivers of stolen property, who are to be found in the more respectable classes of society, such as Kayasths, and whom it is very difficult to catch. Systematic efforts were made to check the recurrence of burglaries by binding down bad characters under section 110 of the Criminal Procedure Code and holding the enquiries on the spot. The villagers, it is stated, came forward with alacrity to give their evidence, and the result was that burglaries almost ceased in some of the worst localities. Dacoities could also be stopped at once, if the villagers could only be induced to pursue the robbers with a hue-and-cry, rousing every village through which they pass to take up the pursuit."

Non-cognizable cases increased in all districts except Jessore and Murshidabad.

Police.

12. The conduct of the police in this Division is said to have been on the whole satisfactory. Mr. Brajendra Nath De, however, the Magistrate of Khulna, observes:—

"The conduct of the police was on the whole fair; but I cannot speak favourably of the intelligence or ability of the officers. Only 1 of the 3 Inspectors is a man with detective ability. The Sub-Inspectors are as a class not men of ability, and only a few of them can be thoroughly depended upon. There are only 1 or 2 out of the whole body of 21 that can be promoted to the rank of Inspector. The men who have risen from the rank of head-constable can only rarely be thoroughly depended upon, and many of them appear to be thoroughly worked out and effete before they rise to be Sub-Inspectors. Two outsiders were tried during the year—one a B.A., and the other a man who came from the Inspector-General's office and Mr. Ballard's office with good testimonials, but they have not by any means turned out to be successes. It is scarcely necessary after what I have said about Sub-Inspectors that I should say anything about head-constables. As a class they are apathetic and stupid."

The Commissioner considers that on the whole chaukidars worked well in all districts except Khulna, where they are said to be indolent and apathetic. Many chaukidars are still very poorly paid and in consequence have to work as day-labourers. Their wages however, are paid more punctually than before, except in Nadia, where the state of things in this respect is described as very bad, and an indication, the Commissioner remarks, of the want of a strong and vigorous Magistrate in that district.

The average number of cases disposed of by each stipendiary officer was 405, and this number was considerably exceeded in the Sealdah Court of the 24-Parganas, the figures for which must, however, include a large number of petty offences, the number of cases being almost twice as great as the number of witnesses examined. Criminal work appears to be lightest at Barrackpore and at the sadar station of the Murshidabad district. The number of witnesses detained over two days exceeded 10 per cent. of the total number examined at Magura, while at Barasat the ratio was as high as 22 per cent. There was considerable improvement in the promptitude with which A cases were disposed of, the percentage of such cases remanded six times and more being slightly above 1 for the whole division. At Magura, however, the percentage was 15, and at the sadar station of Murshidabad 11, the Commissioner's observation that remands are sometimes granted too readily and for trivial causes being probably applicable to the Magistrates at these places. The number of witnesses to each case was highest in Jessore and Khulna. The figures showing the proportion of cases confirmed on appeal to the total appealed are very low in the 24-Parganas. At several centres 100 per cent. of the decisions appealed against were confirmed, while at others, and especially in the 24-Parganas, the percentages are extremely low. Of 108 cases appealed against, the Magistrates' decisions were confirmed in only 12 in one instance, in only one out of 30 in another instance, and in 7 out of 67 in a third. The figures showing number of decisions confirmed appear to have been compiled on a somewhat different principle to that adopted elsewhere, and do not include appeals rejected after hearing.

Honorary Magistrates disposed of 8,417 cases during the year as compared with 7,115 in the year before. At several centres, where a considerable amount of work was done, no witnesses were detained over two days, but at Lalbag and Kandi in Murshidabad over 30 per cent. of the witnesses examined were so detained, at Chuadanga the percentage was 27, and at Satkhira, Murshidabad (sadar), Bagerhat and 24-Parganas (sadar) it was over 10.

* Four days, excess attendance.

The Commissioner makes the following remarks:—

"The great difficulty in giving more extended powers and more important cases to Benches of Honorary Magistrates is the irregularity in attendance, and consequent difficulty in getting the same Bench together a second time to try an adjourned case. It is for this reason, and not from any want of capacity, that the Benches seldom get beyond the trial of petty cases which can be disposed of at one sitting."

The increase in the number of registrations which occurred chiefly under the heads of sales, mortgages, and bonds is common to all the districts, and is attributed partly to the fact that circumstances compelled many among the lower classes of people to sell or mortgage their petty holdings, and partly, it is said, to the increasing popularity of the registration system.

In regard to Land Revenue, the percentage of collections to demand, both arrear and current, in estates of classes I and II was nearly the same as in the previous year, that is to say, collections in permanently-settled estates were good, while those in temporarily settled estates did not reach the prescribed standard. In the case of estates held direct by Government, the Commissioner describes the results as decidedly bad, and the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with him, the percentage of total collections on total demand being only 78·4. The collections in this class were worst in the districts of the 24-Parganas, Khulna, and Murshidabad, and though the results may be partly due in the 24-Parganas to special causes connected with the Government estates of Port Canning, and in the other two districts to the impoverished condition of the raiyats, the Lieutenant-Governor entirely agrees with the Commissioner that there is great room for improvement in the management of this class of estates, an improvement which could be effected if the Deputy Collectors nominally in charge did not leave so much to their subordinates, and if Collectors and the Commissioner in their tours were careful to examine the khas tahsil offices and to scrutinise the accounts.

In the case of cesses the collection of current demands shows some improvement, while the collection of arrears has fallen off. The revaluations of Nadia and Murshidabad were completed during the year, the increase in Nadia being Rs. 5,27,164 in the amount of valuation, and Rs. 32,157 in the annual cess demand, and in Murshidabad Rs. 2,63,785 in the amount of valuation and Rs. 16,980 in the annual demand.

* Shows the number of certificates filed during year.

The number of cases pending at the close of the year was smaller than the number pending at its beginning in all districts except Khulna, where it rose from 1,554 to 1,745. The results were especially good in Jessore, where 8,137 cases were disposed of during the year, the number of pending cases being reduced from 6,338 to 1,624.

Land acquisition.

20. The following table indicates that the files of land acquisition cases were reduced in the 24-Parganas, Nadia and Murshidabad, while the number of cases pending in Jessore and Khulna increased. The number of pending cases is still large in the 24-Parganas.

Wards Estates.

21. Of the estates under the management of the Court of Wards during the year, the most important are those of the minor Barada Prosad Chaudhuri of Bhawanipur in the 24-Parganas, and of the minor Ashutosh Nath Roy of Kasimbazar in Murshidabad. The management of the former estate has undergone great improvement in the hands of the present Manager, and is now on a satisfactory footing. Though the outstanding balance is still heavy, there was some improvement in collections, which amounted to Rs. 1,72,876 out of a total demand of Rs. 4,46,268, the balance after deducting remissions being Rs. 2,19,283. Rs. 18,400 were sanctioned for works of improvement, such as clearing jungle, construction of roads, excavation and re-excavation of tanks and reclamation of land in the Sundarbans tracts, about 700.

The Kasimbazar estate is the most important in the Division. The collections were not satisfactory, amounting to Rs. 3,22,239 out of a total demand of Rs. 5,97,184. The Manager of the estate attributes the short collections mainly to scarcity in pargana Sarail. The Survey and Settlement under Chapter X of the Tenancy Act of that pargana were completed and resulted in an increase of Rs. 57,000 in the previous rental. The estate contributed during the year Rs. 6,150 towards the maintenance of schools and patshalas, and Rs. 5,866 to charitable dispensaries, and spent Rs. 30,341 for works of improvement and Rs. 306 on agricultural improvements and experiments.

The consumption of excisable articles is largest in the 24-Parganas; but all the districts contributed to the increase of revenue except Murshidabad, where consumption diminished owing to the high retail price of country spirits which has had the effect of making the poorer people take to tari or pachwai.

The number of schools under public management increased from 5,675 to 5,781, and the number of pupils from 180,636 to 191,123. The increase occurred chiefly in the number of middle English, lower primary, and female schools, the proportion of boys at school to boys of school-going age was greatest in the 24-Parganas (42·6) and Khulna (38·5) and least in Nadia (21·9). In municipalities the tendency to spend too large a proportion on secondary education is even more noticeable, but this subject has been so fully dealt with in recent orders that no further remarks are required here.

The Muhammadans, who form 49·37 per cent. of the total population, contributed only 28·5 per cent. of the total number of pupils, though the year showed improvement in this respect.

The total number of girls at school increased from 11,284 to 13,120, an indication that female education is making progress in this Division.

The number of Sanskrit tols in the Division increased from 59 with 558 pupils in the previous year to 72 with 749 pupils in the year under review. It is stated by the Commissioner that the increase, which is chiefly in Nadia, is apparently due not so much to a desire among the Hindus for the revival of their ancient literature as to the encouragement held out by Government in the shape of stipends to the pandits.

Dispensaries.

24. The following table gives statistics concerning the dispensaries in the Division:—

District.	Number of dispensaries.	Income from—					Daily average patient—		Ratio per cent. of outdoor patients to total population.
		Government.	District Board.	Municipality.	Subscription.	Total.	In-patients.	Out-patients.

Khulna	5	1,810	335	1,756	1,392	5,343	4·6	125·30	1·4

The total number of dispensaries during the year increased from 43 to 46. The ratio of the outdoor patients to the total population appears to be very low in Jessore, Khulna, and Nadia.

Local self-government.

25. The third general election of members of the District and Local Boards was held during the year. The District Officers, with the exception of the Magistrate-Collector of Murshidabad, report more or less favourably regarding the interest evinced by the members of District Boards in their work. In Murshidabad the members are reported to be apathetic. The Commissioner states that he has formed no definite conclusions in regard to the efficiency of District Boards as administrating bodies; while his impressions are unfavourable, he suspends judgment until he has seen more of their work.

As regards Municipalities the Commissioner writes:—

"Party-feeling still exists in most of the municipalities in this Division, which, coupled with improper favouritism and fear of unpopularity, plays a large part in all municipal arrangements. None of the municipalities in the district of Nadia are free from party factions, and Krishnagar may be said to have been convulsed thereby during the year under report. The same state of affairs obtains in Maheshpur in the district of Jessore, and in Satkhira in Khulna, which comes to light in connection with the management of their affairs."

Bad management appears to have reached a climax in Santipur, the state of which is described as scandalous and discreditable to the district administration, an officer of Government having been in charge as Chairman. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with pleasure the good work which is being done by Babu Umesh Chandra Ghose, the present Chairman of the Jessore Municipality, who is said to devote much of his time to his voluntary duties. The Khulna Municipality sustained a great loss in the death of the late Chairman, Dr. K. D. Ghose, who is reported to have shown both energy and judgment in his conduct of affairs.

Political institutions and public feeling.

26. There are not in any of the districts of this Division, regularly organized public associations, social or political, in which members are enrolled under definite rules and required to pay subscriptions. The Commissioner writes:—

"Public feeling has been, as usual, confined to a small minority, consisting of the educated class and chiefly of pleaders. The masses of the people do not concern themselves with the discussion of Government measures. What is called public feeling as regards the districts on matters of general interest, usually follows the lead of Calcutta. The only subjects which evoked strong excitement among the vociferous classes were the Chaukidari Amendment Bill, the Bengal Municipal Bill, and the Jury Notification. The Land Acquisition Amendment Bill was also criticised unfavourably. Among minor measures, the efforts made by promoters of the Association for the Higher Training of Young Men were not looked upon with favour. The rules regarding the appointment of Sub-Inspectors of Police by competitive examination met with general approbation, as being likely to lead to the appointment of a better class of men in the Police. The transfer of a portion of the Barrackpore and Dum-Dum sub-divisions, lying outside cantonments, to Barasat, evoked some local feeling."

Conduct of zamindars.

27. Of the zamindars of the Division, the Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad, and the Maharani Surnomoyee of Kasimbazar, distinguished themselves as usual by their munificence. Among others Babu Girija Prasanno Mookerjee of Gobardanga in the 24-Parganas, Raja Pramatho Bhusan Roy of Naldanga in Jessore, and Rao Jogendra Narayan Roy of Lalgola in Murshidabad, maintained their reputation for public spirit and benevolence.

Conclusion.

28. The Lieutenant-Governor has to thank Messrs. Beames and Westmacott for their administration of the Division, and the latter for his full and careful Report. The remarks on character of officers will be communicated to the Appointment Department.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

M. FINUCANE,
Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL CORPORATION FOR THE YEAR 1892-93.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MUNICIPAL.

Calcutta, the 20th November 1893.

RESOLUTION No. 3631M.

READ—

The Administration Report of the Calcutta Municipal Corporation for the year 1892-93.

Read again—

The Report for 1891-92 and the Resolution recorded by Government thereupon.

In the Resolution on the Administration of Calcutta by the Municipal Commissioners during 1891-92 the Lieutenant-Governor pointed out that for three years in succession the report had been submitted some time after the due date, and he regrets to find that he must make the same complaint again, since the report, which was due on the 1st August, did not reach Government till the 8th September. It does not contain the introductory chapter, which was an important feature of the last report, and was commended in the Resolution upon it as a useful innovation. But, on the other hand, there is a further improvement in the form of the report, and its structure has been concisely explained in an introductory paragraph which is an important contribution to its value, while a useful preliminary chapter indicates the leading features of the year's administration besides containing a précis of a paper read by the Hon'ble Mr. Cotton, C.S.I., at the International Congress of Hygiene and Demography held in London in August 1891. Altogether, the Lieutenant-Governor congratulates the Commissioners on the improvements visible in the form and the manner of their report.

2. During the year under review two officers filled the post of Chairman, for Mr. Leo was on privilege leave for three months during 1892 and went on furlough on the 25th March 1893: Mr. Ritchie filled his place on each occasion, and has submitted the present report. The Commissioners suffered an irreparable loss during the year in the sudden deaths of Sir Henry Harrison, whose name will always remain inseparably connected with Municipal Administration in Calcutta, and of Pandit Prannath Saraswati, a Commissioner whose services to the Corporation were many and conspicuous. Since the close of the year death has removed from among them Nawab Abdul Latif, C.I.E., and Mr. John Cowie, for many years Secretary to the Commissioners: these are losses which would be felt heavily by any public body.

3. In the matter of the number of meetings Government has never had any cause to complain of the Corporation of Calcutta. The Commissioners are assiduous in their attendance at meetings, and thus furnish an excellent example to all municipal bodies. There are 75 Commissioners, of whom 50 are elected and 25 nominated, and the executive administration of the details of Municipal business is entrusted in the first instance to a General Committee of eighteen, in addition to seven Standing Committees, as well as to such special committees or sub-committees as necessity may call into existence. In the year under review there were 27 general meetings of the Commissioners, 59 meetings of the General Committee, 84 meetings of other Standing Committees, and 61 meetings of special committees and sub-committees, making 231 in all. These figures, though a good deal below those for 1891-92 (260), imply a great amount of consultation over the many important subjects which transpired during the year. Thirty Commissioners as against twenty-two in 1891-92 attended more than 50 meetings, and four, viz., Maulvi Badruddin Haider (122), Babu Nolin Behari Sarcar (111), J. Ghosal, Esq. (111), and Babu Pashupati Nath Bose (110), were present on more than 100 occasions. Among the elected Commissioners, the percentage of attendance was 60·5, and the nominated Commissioners as a whole attended 46·5 times out of every 100 for which they were summoned. The general percentage of attendance was 57·2, marked improvement on 1891-92, when it was 47.

Attendance of Commissioners.

4. At these meetings much of the matter under discussion was necessarily of merely ephemeral importance, but besides the numerous projects examined in detail by the Standing and Special Committees, several subjects of more permanent interest were also considered, such as the memorial to Sir Henry Harrison, the contribution to the Calcutta Public Library, the regulation and supervision of kalisthans, the further adoption of incinerators, the proposal to establish a municipal market in the Northern Division, the request of Government that a larger sum should be expended on primary education, and the possibility of doing more to provide for the medical needs of the population in the south of the city. Most of these questions have already been disposed of, and the Lieutenant-Governor does not desire to say anything in this place, except as regards three of them. The regulation of the kalisthans is a matter which calls for early disposal, and His Honour, while approving the desire of the Commissioners to deal thoroughly with the subject, trusts that the measures adopted will be prompt as well as thorough. On the other hand, the withdrawal of the annual grant of Rs. 8,000 hitherto made to the Calcutta Public Library is, in Sir Antony MacDonnell's opinion, an ill-advised economy. The maintenance of such an institution befits the good name and the intelligence of the Corporation. It may be that there was in the withdrawal no positive breach of contract, but it undoubtedly involved the abandonment of pledges formally given to the Committee of the Library and fulfilled for some years, while, apart from that, the refusal to assist in maintaining a public free library deprives the rate-payers of Calcutta of a privilege which is enjoyed by many townships elsewhere which are not for a moment to be compared in wealth or importance with this great city. The plea in justification of this policy is the same as that advanced for failing to make any adequate provision for the relief of the sick, viz., want of funds. Sir Antony MacDonnell has already stated elsewhere that he admits the present force of this argument, but he would be glad to learn that the Corporation are disposed to reconsider both these matters.

Proceedings at meetings.

5. Large as the income of the Calcutta Municipality is, the Commissioners have for many years been accustomed to borrow largely for purposes of proper and useful expenditure, and the prices which their stocks command in the market and the facility with which a loan is floated indicate the confidence of the public in the solvency of the Corporation. On the 1st April 1892 the loan liability of the Commissioners was as follows:—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Unpaid balance of 6 per cent. debenture loans ...	8,500	0	0
5 per cent. debenture loans	1,44,01,900	0	0
4½ ditto ditto	30,48,300	0	0
	1,74,58,700	0	0
Balance of consolidated loans from Government ...	55,80,467	13	9
Loan without interest from Port Commissioners ...	2,00,000	0	0
	2,32,39,167	13	9

No new loans were raised during the year under review, but the Commissioners were able to pay off Rs. 3,500 from the 6 per cent. debenture loans and Rs. 2,29,557-4-4 out of the consolidated loans from Government, so that on the 31st March 1893 their loan liability had been decreased by Rs. 2,33,057-4-4, and stood as follows:—

Loans.

	Rs.	A.	P.
Balance of 6 per cent. debenture loans	5,000	0	0
5 per cent. debenture loans	1,44,01,900	0	0
	1,74,55,200	0	0
Balance of consolidated loans from Government ...	53,50,910	9	5
Loan from Port Commissioners	2,00,000	0	0
	2,30,06,110	9	5

To meet these liabilities the Commissioners held at the end of the year a sum of Rs. 8,13,601-14-9 in their reserve funds. As the borrowing power of the Commissioners, based upon the annual valuation, was during the year Rs. 3,20,68,090, it is apparent that they are still far from borrowing up to the full extent sanctioned by law.

Income and Expenditure.

6. The ordinary income of the Municipality, excluding the receipts from loans, which are necessarily occasional and should only be raised for special purposes, is derived from four main sources, viz., the general rate, the sewage rate, the water-rate, and the lighting rate. Certain miscellaneous receipts added to these brought the gross income of the Municipality in 1892-93 up to Rs. 43,00,431, against Rs. 42,25,054 in 1891-92. As the expenditure in 1892-93 was Rs. 43,63,638 as against Rs. 42,64,261 the outgoings in the latter year exceeded the receipts by Rs. 63,207 as against a similar excess of Rs. 39,207 in 1891-92. The principal items of receipts and expenditure in each year are compared below:—

Receipts.

	1891-92. Rs.	1892-93. Rs.
General rate at 9½ per cent.	16,07,146	16,14,107
Sewage rate at 2 per cent.	3,38,240	3,39,651
Water-rate at 6 per cent.	9,30,751	10,18,672
Lighting rate at 2 per cent.	3,38,436	3,39,560
Taxes on professions, &c.	5,25,113	5,36,614
Municipal Market receipts	1,22,478	1,27,221
Receipts from sale of water	86,805	98,347
Conservancy receipts	65,740	65,565

Expenditure.

Interest on general loans	4,47,192	4,54,351
Contributions for repayment of loans ...	1,86,629	2,02,807
General establishment	3,88,022	4,03,580
General office expenditure	1,07,697	97,543
Road Department	4,34,383	4,35,580
Gowkhana	2,06,044	2,06,869
Conservancy	1,65,360	1,59,805
Bustee-cleaning	1,07,235	1,07,817
Sewage-rate charges...	2,79,976	2,67,404
Water-rate charges	10,84,278	11,11,942
Lighting-rate charges	3,65,147	3,78,336

As requested in the Resolution on the report for 1891-92, the principal variations from year to year and those between the actuals and the estimate have been explained in detail in the report.

Financial position.

7. The sum of the rates now realized is equivalent to a consolidated rate of 19½ per cent. on the annual value of house property in Calcutta. Efforts were made during the debates on the budget of 1893-94 to raise this consolidated rate to 20 per cent., but the majority of the Commissioners were opposed to the increase, and it was not carried out. But in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion this additional half per cent. of taxation, which is estimated to bring in an extra Rs. 87,000 per annum, cannot much longer be postponed, and he is glad to observe that the Commissioners in their report (paragraph 33) express a similar opinion. The fact seems to be that the Corporation of Calcutta, although it has not yet borrowed up to the limit allowed by law, has of late years borrowed more than is prudent, for the figures given by the Chairman show that the expenditure on interest and sinking funds has increased more rapidly than the income from ordinary sources to meet it. The constant revaluations and reassessments which are being carried on in different parts of Calcutta will speedily produce equilibrium, provided that no further expenditure on interest and sinking fund is necessitated by raising fresh loans; and it is therefore clearly the policy of the Commissioners to abstain from all borrowing operations, except for purposes of unavoidable urgency, until the gradual improvement of their income places them beyond the reach of difficulty.

Expenditure on Suburban Improvement.

8. It was one of the conditions made when the Suburban area was added to the town proper by Act II (B.C.) of 1888, that three lakhs of rupees out of the receipts from three of the great revenue funds should be devoted annually to the improvement of the added area. What objects were to be considered as improvements and what payments were to be debited to the statutory contribution of three lakhs have for some time been doubtful questions. But in the year under report the opinion of counsel was taken, and it is hoped that the Commissioners will soon be in a position to make up their accounts. The amount which they should have expended between the 1st April 1889, and the 31st March 1893 was 12 lakhs, but as a matter of fact the expenditure has been only Rs. 10,51,102, and the rate-payers of the Suburan area have therefore a claim against the Corporation for the immediate expenditure of nearly a lakh and a half of rupees on improving the area in question. Moreover, the Lieutenant-Governor observes that Rs 3,38,296 of the expenditure already incurred has been met, not from revenue as the law provides, but from capital. Now that the question is in a fair way to be decided, the Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt that the Commissioners will adjust their accounts and in future comply year by year with the requirements of the law.

9. The arrangements for the collection of the rates remain the same as in 1891-92. An officer styled the Collector collects in the first instance the amounts due from rate-payers in the town proper, while those falling due in the area added by Act II (B.C.) of 1888 are collected by the Joint-Collector. Chaptor VI of the Act lays down in the clearest terms the manner in which these rates shall be collected. The consolidated rate is payable quarterly in advance on the 1st day of April, July, October, and January, and as soon as it is due the law makes it incumbent upon the Commissioners to present to each person liable to pay it a bill for the sum payable. If this bill is not paid within seven days of presentation, the Commissioners may cause to be served upon such person a notice of demand, and if within seven days from the receipt of this notice the amount is not paid, the Commissioners may recover the same with all costs by distress and sale of the defaulter's moveable property. These short and simple provisions if vigorously used would enable the Corporation to collect their rates with ease within each quarter, but the practice in vogue, with the sanction of the Commissioners, is to abstain from issuing the notices of demand until after the close of the quarter to which they refer. The consequence is that a considerable proportion of the demand is three months in arrears, the Commissioners thus voluntarily submitting for the greater part of the year to forego the use of large sums which are realizable, but which they will not realize. This subject was noticed in the Resolution on last year's report, and Sir Charles Elliott expressed the hope that the Commissioners would take steps to remedy the defect then pointed out. The Lieutenant-Governor is disappointed to find that this advice has not been followed, and that although as before some improvement was visible in the last quarter of the year, no effort has been made to place the collection of rates upon a proper footing. "The prompt realization of public dues," as was remarked in 1892, "is absolutely essential to, and a distinctive feature of, vigorous municipal administration," and until the present injurious system of unnecessary indulgence is abandoned, His Honour cannot consider the administration of the Municipal Commissioners in this respect as efficient.

Collection of dues.

10. The faultiness in the system of collection is reflected in the details of its working, as might be expected. Out of a gross demand of the consolidated rate amounting to Rs. 36,38,959, only Rs. 31,03,096 were realized by the Collector and Joint-Collector, giving a joint percentage of collection of 85·2. The principal figures for each officer separately are given below:—

Officer.	Demand.	Collected.	Remitted and cancelled	Transferred to assessor for further enquiry.	Transferred to warrant officer.	Total.	Balance.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Collector	29,97,942	25,77,173	44,152	37,505	2,72,975	29,31,806	66,176
Joint-Collector ...	6,40,977	5,25,923	21,323	15,374	53,119	6,25,738	15,238

These statistics show that the Collector realized 85·9 per cent. of the collections entrusted to him, and the Joint-Collector 82 per cent. The percentages for the Collector were 83·94 in 1890-91 and 86·40 in 1891-92, and for the Joint-Collector 73·86 in the former and 76·66 in the latter year. The report further points out that the percentage of collections on realizable bills in 1892-93 was 89·17 in the case of the Collector and 87·01 in that of the Joint-Collector. There certainly is some improvement, but it is obvious that if the simple and summary procedure provided by the Act were carried out, the percentage of collections would rise higher still.

11. The animadversions passed upon the Warrant Officer's Department in 1892, both in the Chairman's note and in the Government Resolution, aided no doubt by the efforts of the Sub-Committee who considered the working of the Department, seems to have had a salutary effect, for the Warrant Officer succeeded during 1892-93 in disposing of 63·7 per cent. of the rate bills sent to him as against 52·1 per cent. in 1891-92, while his success with miscellaneous bills was still greater, since he collected 75·6 per cent. of them in place of a percentage of 38·7, and the sum in his hands for collection at the end of the year was Rs. 1,42,992, compared with Rs. 2,52,966 when the year commenced. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Commissioners that, though these results are more satisfactory than before, there is still much room for improvement.

12. Besides the receipts from rates detailed above, the Corporation draws a large income from taxes and license fees, which are collected by what is known as the License and Registration Department. The figures for the main heads during the last two years are given below:—

	1891-92.	1892-93.
	Rs.	Rs.
(i) Tax on trades and professions ...	3,31,716	3,42,319
(ii) Do. on carriages and animals ..	1,42,144	1,42,510
(iii) Registration of carts and hackeries ...	71,837	71,750
(iv) Fees for removal of trade refuse ...	61,849	62,045
(v) Registration of bullock and cow-sheds	10	43
(vi) Ditto of hackney carriages and palkies	21,256	17,837
(vii) Miscellaneous receipts	446	475
Total ...	6,29,258	6,36,479

Owing to changes in the staff of the Department and the introduction of new men, the collections in certain parts of the town fell off a good deal, otherwise the increase under this head would have been greater. Under section 90 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, no person is allowed to exercise any of the specified trades, professions or callings, without a license for the year, under pain of a fine on conviction by a Magistrate. The Chairman reports that the obligation is generally neglected, but that it is not thought advisable to enforce the law to the letter. There may be special reasons for this leniency, one of which doubtless is that the procedure for enforcing payment involves prosecution before a Magistrate, but as it is clear from the report that the fees are recovered with difficulty, the Lieutenant-Governor cannot but think that the Commissioners would do well to enforce the law vigorously after due notice of their intention to do so has been given. There would doubtless be complaints of hardship at first, but the habit of punctual payment once established would probably continue to the great benefit of the licensees as well as the Commissioners. No comparison can be made between the number of registrations and the amount of fees levied under the Hackney Carriage Act during 1892-93 and those of the previous year owing to changes made in the date of registration, but there seems reason to think that the hackney carriage service is improving, and it is reported that the Commissioners have framed a set of bye-laws for the regulation of these vehicles.

License and Registration Department.

13. As noted in paragraph 7 above, reassessment is continually going on in some part or other of the Calcutta Municipality, and so great and general is the advance in the value of house property that revision almost invariably leads to an enhancement of the assessment; in fact almost the whole of such decreased assessments as took place were due to the premises having been absorbed in the Harrison Road. Twenty out of the twenty-five wards of the town have now been revalued, and the result has been an increase in valuation of Rs. 22,93,652, subject, however, to the result of 2,561 objections, which were still pending at the end of 1892-93. Assuming that all these are rejected, the valuation of the town on the 1st April 1893 would amount to Rs. 1,91,58,568: the confirmed valuation, i.e., that arrived at after the disposal of objections, was on the same date Rs. 1,87,35,968, the valuation on the same date in 1879 having been Rs. 1,29,85,156. The large number of objections still for hearing is a serious matter, since a new valuation cannot take effect until all objections that may be taken to it have been decided. Owing to the absence on leave for more than two months of the Vice-Chairman, whose duty it is to hear these objections, only 1,166 were disposed of during the year and 2,961 are still pending. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets that arrangements were not made for carrying on this work in the absence of the Vice-Chairman, and it is hoped that the outturn of work in the current year will be larger.

Revaluation and assessment.

14. The Surveyor's Department, which prepares plans, estimates and draft declarations in connection with all projects in the town, was exceptionally busy during the year under report, and the services of the staff are warmly acknowledged by the Commissioners. The Lieutenant-Governor recognises that the demarcation into suitable lots of the surplus lands near the Harrison Road must have been an arduous and responsible undertaking. In the Lighting and Market Departments also activity was displayed. The expenditure on lighting amounted to Rs. 3,94,725; and as this exceeded the receipts from the lighting rate, the deficiency had to be made good by a grant of Rs. 54,715 to meet the deficit. The Municipal Market, on the other hand, yielded a net profit of more than a lakh of rupees. The large expenditure on printing was unfavourably criticised in the Resolution on last year's report, and the Commissioners appear to have endeavoured to introduce some reforms: the balance sheet propounded by the Commissioners is not intelligible to the Lieutenant-Governor, but it is clear that the result has been unsatisfactory, and that the Corporation has been ill-served by its employés in this department, which should be subjected to further investigation. The expenditure was Rs. 28,992 as against Rs. 22,520 in 1891-92.

Minor Departments.

15. The Corporation appeared as plaintiff during the year in an unprecedented number of civil suits, viz. 89, the highest number previously having been 28 in 1891-92. It is explained that this increase was "mostly owing to the number of defaulters who removed their goods to their zanana apartments in order to evade seizure, and who by this expedient compelled the officers of the Municipality to file suits under section 149 of the Act."

Litigation.

16. As defendant the Commissioners appeared only seven times. The most important case was a reference to the Civil Court by the Land Acquisition Deputy Collector. On this case the Commissioners write as follows:—

Re 54, Clive Street.— This property was acquired, under the Land Acquisition Act, for the purposes of the new Harrison Road. The compensation tendered by the Government Collector under Act X was Rs. 2,27,925. The claimants (Babus Damodar Das Burmon, Aghorenath Chatterjee and Kailas Chandra Dass) demanded Rs. 21,24,640 plus Rs. 50,000 which has been claimed by Baboo Damodar Das Burmon alone, on the ground that his property, No. 55, Clive Street, has been injuriously affected by the acquisition.

The claimants appealed against the decision of the Collector under Act X, to the District Judge of the 24-Parganas, who, with two Assessors, after hearing the case for 40 days, found that the offer of the Land Acquisition Collector was too low, and fixed the amount of compensation at Rs. 6,57,039, exclusive of 15 per cent. statutory allowance for No. 54, Clive Street, and Rs. 15,000 for No. 55, Clive Street. Under section 19 of the Land Acquisition Act, Babu Radhikaprosad Mookerjee was appointed Assessor on behalf of Government and Mr. J. C. MacGregor on behalf of the claimants. The amount of compensation for Nos 54 and 55, Clive Street, was estimated by the former in his award at Rs. 4,75,000, and by the latter at Rs. 12,44,687.

Babu Aghorenath Chatterjee has appealed to the High Court from the Judge's decision, and a cross appeal has been filed by the Corporation.

17. In two previous Resolutions the Lieutenant-Governor has conveyed to the Commissioners his opinion that their yearly provision of Rs. 2,950 for primary education is quite inadequate to the necessities of the case, and in a separate communication he has suggested that Rs. 10,000 would be a suitable annual allotment. But the Commissioners have displayed a disinclination to adopt the suggestion.

Education.

In the year just passed, owing to a delay in passing the school bills for payment, they expended only Rs. 392 out of the total grant, and in the report under review the subject has been very briefly treated. In these circumstances the Lieutenant-Governor must now consider whether he ought not to adopt the alternative course laid before the Commissioners in the Resolution of last year, and withdraw the Government grant for the primary education of boys in Calcutta from the 1st of April 1894.

18. The improvement or removal of the numerous bastis which abound in Calcutta, and are a standing menace to the health of its inhabitants, has long occupied the attention of the Commissioners, and sections 251 and 270 of the Act deal particularly with this subject. From a sanitary point of view the removal of these centres of disease is a distinct advantage, but there is more than one aspect of this question, and the remarks of the Commissioners on the subject are so apposite that they are reproduced in full:—

Basti improvement.

The sections of the Municipal Act, which enable the Commissioners to cause improvements to be made in bastis at the expense of the owners, fall into two categories.

By the first category, the Commissioners may call upon the owners to prepare plans showing certain improvements and to carry out those improvements, and till such requisitions are complied with, the Commissioners may refuse to sanction the building or rebuilding of any huts. These provisions are, as a matter of fact, rarely resorted to.

The second or more drastic category of basti sections provides in cases where the basti is so unhealthy that speedy measures are required—

(a) That the Commissioners in meeting may cause a basti to be inspected and reported on by two medical officers.

(b) That the medical officers shall prepare a standard plan and a schedule of the changes required to be made to bring the basti into conformity with the standard plan, coming under the following heads:—

(1) Removal of huts.
(2) Construction of roads and drains.
(3) Filling up of tanks and low lands.
(4) Other works necessary to remove or abate the insanitary condition of the basti.

(c) That the Commissioners in meeting may, on requisition of the owners, carry out the changes shown in the schedule.

(d) That in default of the owners, the Commissioners may cause the works to be carried out and recover cost from the owners, including the compensation paid to owners of huts.

The above provisions are to be read subject to the following important provisos, viz., that no standard plan shall show more than one-fifth of the area of the improved basti as roads, or more than one-half as open lands not to be built upon; that if in the case of any one plot a greater portion is taken than the proportion allowed above, the owner of that plot shall be entitled to compensation. This compensation is to be paid by the persons who benefit thereby, and if no such persons can be found, then by the Corporation.

The roads shown in the standard plan remain private streets (unless the Commissioners and owners otherwise agree), but are open for the use of the tenants and for scavenging purposes.

In applying these provisions, the Commissioners make no attempt to recover the cost of construction from the owners when they carry out works in default of the owners. If such attempts were made, they would find themselves opposed at every turn in their schemes of basti improvement by the basti owners, and the work of basti improvement would be brought to a standstill. It is exceptional for the owners to bear any part of the cost of construction, and the Commissioners are well content if they can get the land required for roads free of cost from the owners. Basti schemes resolve themselves into this:—That the basti property is improved at the expense of the Commissioners, the owners merely giving up to the use of the public the land required for the roads.

19. During the last ten years nearly 8¾ lakhs of rupees have been expended on basti improvement, the material advantage of which, setting aside the benefit to the public from a sanitary point of view, rests with the owners of the property. The Lieutenant-Governor finds it difficult to completely share the contentment which the Commissioners seem to feel with the existing state of affairs, since it appears to him that the present procedure differs from that embodied in Act II of 1888. It is a procedure which, to a very great extent, favours the owners of bastis at the expense of the general body of rate-payers. The law provides the Commissioners with ample powers to recover the cost of improvements from the owners benefitted, and although in certain cases which present special features, the Commissioners may reasonably abate something of their rights, the Lieutenant-Governor considers that they owe it to the tax-payers not to abandon their legal rights altogether. The law should be enforced, no doubt with consideration and in a reasonable and proper spirit, but the law is not enforced at all if no recoveries are ever made from the owners of bastis which have been improved by the Commissioners. It is conceivable that difficulties may be experienced in giving effect to the law, but it is better that they should be met and overcome rather than that the law should be ignored.

20. The Harrison and Lansdowne Roads were completed during the year: these are fine works, which have greatly improved the city. The net cost of the Harrison Road is expected to be twenty lakhs of rupees, and it has been lighted with electricity at an additional cost of Rs. 93,383. The accounts for the Lansdowne Road are not yet closed, but the cost so far has been Rs. 2,40,205. In the suburbs Rs. 2,73,585 have been spent out of the statutory three lakhs referred to above, of which Rs. 44,005 were paid for the incinerator at Gobragatcha, and Rs. 61,429 on the extension of Lansdowne Row.

Engineer's Department.

21. A very important branch of the municipal administration of Calcutta is the department of the Engineer to the Corporation, comprising the great heads of water-works, drainage, and roads, besides the maintenance of the sewers, of the Municipal Workshops and the Municipal Railway. The Commissioners are committed to the extension and development of their water-supply and drainage system, to which, especially to the former, is to be attributed the very marked improvement which has taken place in the general health of Calcutta during the past twenty years. Of the importance of these schemes the Commissioners are fully conscious, and improvements have been vigorously carried on during the year under report. Two new settling tanks have been constructed at Pulta to hold 48 million gallons, thus bringing up the settling tank capacity to 105 million gallons, or five times the present daily filtered supply of the town, which has been more than 20 million gallons, giving a consumption per head of 37·32 gallons in the town proper and 17·58 gallons in the added area. During the same period 18 miles of distribution pipes have been laid down, making the total 285·73 miles, and the number of premises supplied 22,831. In addition to the town supply, Barrackpore was provided with an average of 128,118 gallons per diem throughout the year. Unfiltered water is also supplied for bathing, for flushing drains and sewers, and for street watering: the amount passed through the 71 miles of pipes during the year was 4,320,879 gallons. The capital expenditure on the water-works of Calcutta up to the end of 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 64,25,832, and the total daily supply was 24,166,996 gallons; whereas in the year 1876, when the old series of works were completed, the capital expenditure amounted to Rs. 71,59,986 for a total daily supply of 7,162,819 gallons only. The capital cost per gallon up to 1876 had therefore been 15·9 annas, while in 1893 it had been reduced to 10·8 annas. The estimated cost of works sanctioned in detail and in progress amounts to Rs. 16,28,519, of which Rs. 12,60,502 have already been expended, but the Commissioners have in the present year's budget made provision for further important and useful works estimated to cost 2¾ lakhs. The Government attaches the greatest importance to the plentiful supply of good water to the town, and in course of time to the added area, and has nothing but commendation to bestow upon prudent farseeing efforts in this direction.

Water-supply.

22. With the laudable object of extending the benefits of pure water to areas outside the limits of the Municipality, the Commissioners during the year agreed to supply the Maniktollah Municipality with filtered water up to a maximum of 10 gallons a head at a cost of 4 annas per 1,000 gallons, and, moreover, at the request of Government, they allowed their Municipal Engineer, Mr. Kimber, to undertake the preparation of a scheme and estimate for supplying with filtered water the riparian municipalities on the left bank of the Hooghly from Barrackpore downwards: the consent of the Corporation was conditional on compliance with two stipulations, which are reasonable enough, viz., that the municipalities concerned should pay all the cost of the surveys, &c., and that no portion of the water required for the Calcutta Municipality should be diverted for the benefit of any outside municipality. The scheme is necessarily a large one, and has not yet been completed.

Drainage.

23. The drainage system of the town proper has been virtually completed for some time, but improvements are constantly carried out as occasion offers or necessity arises. A large flushing reservoir, holding 300,000 gallons, was constructed during the year near the Bhawanipur Pumping Station, and provision has been made in the Loans Budget for 1893-94 for a large extension of the flushing system. Much remains to be done also in the added area, where there are 200 miles of open drains which can be adapted and used for surface drainage. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that this subject is receiving the careful attention of the Commissioners, and that a great advance may be expected in this direction during the current year.

24. The inspection of premises and house connections seems to have been carried on with activity, and Sir Antony MacDonnell hopes that there will be no reduction in the strength of this and other conservancy establishments for the sake of petty savings. The roads in Calcutta now measure upwards of 319 miles in extent, and the cost of their up-keep during 1892-93 was Rs. 4,35,580. The Lieutenant-Governor learns with regret that the Commissioners have effected a reduction of Rs. 75,000 in the provision under this head for 1893-94, since he fears that the result will only be a still larger expenditure in 1894-95.

25. Not less important than the services of the Engineer are those of the Health Officer, and the Commissioners are to be congratulated on possessing in Dr. Simpson an adviser of high attainments in sanitary science. He has submitted for the current year a full and interesting report, of which it is impossible to reproduce more than a very brief abstract.

Vital statistics.

26. In the matter of vital statistics, a distinct advance in the accuracy of registration is visible. As has frequently been observed, the vital statistics of the Municipality cannot fairly be compared with those of other areas, since the large proportion of adults in Calcutta in the prime of life, especially males, necessarily gives a special character to the population. But, comparing one year with another, the reported birth-rate was higher in 1892 than in any previous year since the amalgamation of town and suburbs. The figures are given in the margin, and the sudden inversion in 1890 of the relative positions of Calcutta and the Suburbs is significant of the introduction of better registration. The death-rate of the combined area was lower in 1892 than it has been since 1889, when it is certain that some deaths were omitted in the Suburbs as that area had been but recently added to Calcutta; but, under the arrangements now in existence, it is almost impossible for a death to escape registration, since the difficulties in the way of clandestine disposal of a corpse are almost insurmountable. Dr. Simpson is justified therefore in accepting as correct the figures now given which are quoted in the margin, and in using them to illustrate in forcible terms the effect of introducing a good water-supply. The death-rate varies greatly in different wards, and the figures given in Dr. Simpson's fourth paragraph have a terrible significance; they show that the added area of Burtollah has a mortality of 44·1 per mille, and that of Sukea's street one of 42·3: the same areas maintain the same evil predominance for fever and cholera. Dr. Simpson says: "The whole added area bordering on the Circular Canal is lowlying, crowded with people, has a large number of filthy tanks, and is very unclean. The people also are more residential; they die here, whereas in many other wards they go home to die." The attention of the Commissioners should be focussed on this locality during the current year.

27. The Health Officer urges again the desirability of a low level outfall sewer to discharge the sewage of Calcutta into the Salt Lakes, but the Commissioners have rightly decided that the cost of such an undertaking is at the present moment prohibitive. It is noted further that the extension of the water-supply to the suburbs has had the effect of water-logging the soil, a defect which will not be remedied till the drainage of that area has been placed on a satisfactory basis. When that has been done and proper arrangements have been concluded for the destruction of refuse by burning, the benefits which the Suburbs will have derived from the amalgamation will be great indeed.

28. The general cholera mortality of 1892 was less by nearly one-third than in 1891—a result largely due to the comparative immunity of the Suburbs, and this again is distinctly attributable to a definite cause. It appears that for many years the cholera death-rate in the Suburbs and in Howrah rose and fell together with a very close correspondence. Up till 1891 the sanitary condition of the two areas was very similar, since neither of them enjoyed any system of drainage, and both relied for their water-supply on sources frequently polluted. The average death-rate in Howrah previous to 1892 was 435 to 1,271 in the Suburbs. At the end of 1891 the filtered water-supply was extended to the Suburbs, and the number of cholera deaths fell at once in 1892 to 762, while those in Howrah rose in the same year to 771 : had the previous ratio been preserved, the number in the Suburbs would have been over 2,000. The argument is clearly and forcibly stated; but the Lieutenant-Governor, although he admits its probability, is unable to accept it as conclusive at present, since it is based upon the observations of one year only. Howrah is about to be provided with a supply of filtered water, and if similar phenomena be observed to follow the operation in that area, Dr. Simpson's argument will be fully confirmed.

Cholera mortality.

29. The very important question of Building Regulations is brought prominently forward by the Health Officer in his report, and is discussed in that of the Commissioners. This subject was treated very fully in Dr. Simpson's report for the year 1889, and he insisted strongly on the fact that the law and bye-laws at present in force are quite insufficient to secure the preservation of proper sanitary rules as regards the building of streets, houses or huts. Government, in the Resolution on the report for 1889-90, fully endorsed his view of the vital importance of the question, and commended to the attention of the Commissioners the remedies proposed by him in detail, and the suggestion that a strong Committee formed of engineers, medical men and others should be appointed to thoroughly investigate and report on the whole subject. The Lieutenant-Governor is disappointed to learn that no action has been taken on the suggestion thus commended to the Commissioners, and in his report for the year just past, Dr. Simpson again comments in forcible terms on the continuous and growing evils of the present state of affairs and the urgent necessity of undertaking a reform of such vital importance. He writes:

Building Regulations.

"The deterioration in health conditions of certain localities during the past few years is very marked, and nothing can stop this deterioration while the present law remains in force. When a house can be built anywhere without reference to efficient ventilation, proper drainage or surroundings, when it may be built in any lane or passage irrespective of the width of that lane or passage, and when it may be built in such a manner as to permit it to obstruct the light and ventilation of the neighbouring houses so long as it is four feet away from them, no long time is necessary to create plague spots in different parts of the town. Such a process is going on continuously now, and while that process is allowed to continue, the money spent on the new Harrison Road and on the lanes which are constructed through bustees will have but a poor return, because the destruction of insanitary areas which is effected by new roads and lanes can never even keep pace with the progressive creation of areas much worse in type."

On this question the Commissioners are divided into two parties. The Health Officer is supported by a minority of the more advanced among them, including the Officiating Chairman, but is opposed by a large majority of the Corporation, who believe that the present law and bye-laws sufficiently meet the wants of the case, and that no further legislation is required. The arguments on both sides are well stated as follows:—

A very large majority of the Commissioners consider that, under the present law, there is ample power to regulate erection of proper buildings. A set of bye-laws was passed some years ago after careful consideration, but experience having shown their inapplicability to certain cases, the Commissioners have recently appointed a Committee to revise them, and they believe that, if proper bye-laws are framed, much of the complaint made in the Health Officer's report is likely to disappear.

The cautious way in which the bye-laws have been worked has gone far to reconcile public feeling to them, and any hasty attempt at legislation must be deprecated by the bulk of the Commissioners as much in the interests of sanitary reform as out of deference for public opinion. The Commissioners are as eager for sanitary improvement as their Health Officer, but they are fettered by considerations which the Health Officer need not recognize. They have to take a practical view of the situation. They have to reconcile the interests of sanitation with the state of public opinion, and they feel from their past experience that they must proceed cautiously, and that a Building Act which would be resented by public opinion would not only prove a great hardship to the people, but would be practically inoperative.

The Commissioners in this connection would recall the words of Sir Ashley Eden in the Resolution on the Administration Report for 1876. Referring to the remarks of their former Health Officer, Dr. Payne, he wrote—"Mr. Eden is persuaded that to make sanitation efficient in Calcutta, the people of the city must be led, and not driven, into co-operation with the Sanitary Department. Dr. Payne should bear in mind that one case in which native society is induced by conviction to adopt a sanitary theory is worth hundreds of cases in which they are pressed into submitting to reforms of the benefits of which they are not satisfied. The Sanitary Officer must remember that the principles and theories which to him seem so obvious and so indisputable have not even yet received practical acceptation in many countries in a much more advanced condition of social progress than India. In some of the finest cities in civilized Europe, with every appliance and convenience for sanitary improvement available, there are streets, lanes, and houses whose description, if faithfully given, would throw into the shade the vivid pictures of the filth of Calcutta so graphically drawn by Dr. Payne."

The general question involved is one on which the most opposite opinions have been entertained among the Commissioners. Opinion is divided into two schools on much the same lines as it is divided on the same subject in London and other towns in Europe. The one School—whose views are represented above, and they form the large majority of the Municipal Commissioners—holds that whatever land is required to be taken up for roads should be acquired at public cost, and that to require the owner to give up land and prevent him from making the profit out of it which he otherwise could make amounts to unjustifiable confiscation. They point out that town property has been continually changing hands without any such disabilities attaching to the possession either existent or in prospect, that the ownership of town land is in many cases in the hands of very petty and numerous shareholders, and that it is impossible for them to enter into mutual arrangements that shall be equitable to all to give up lands for roadway. In short, it is contended that any attempt to get broad streets made in new localities otherwise than at the public cost would be spoliation.

The opposite school, on the other hand—which comprises a small minority of the Commissioners, including the Officiating Chairman—contend that the municipal income must for ever be inadequate to the burthen which the other party would impose upon it; that inasmuch as the value of a town property is enormously enhanced by the construction of a street with necessary drainage provision, it is not equitable that the rate-payer should bear the whole cost; that if no restrictions have hitherto been imposed and property has changed hands free from such restrictions, this result has been due to carelessness, and that, in view of the dangers to the public health from the present system which the Health Officer has pointed out, a change in that system is imperatively called for. It is pointed out that the value of land is increasing annually in Calcutta, largely owing to Municipal improvements, and that the longer the question is deferred, the more difficult of solution it will become. It is admitted that no legislation should be passed without the most careful preliminary inquiry so as to prevent injustice to individuals, but it is strongly urged, on the other hand, that on the general principle that property has its duties as well as its rights, and that, in the case of property in an overcrowded city, interference is necessary for the common weal, the State should place such restrictions upon building, even at the cost of diminishing the value of town property to its immediate possessor, as may be essential for the public health.

Sir Antony MacDonnell has great sympathy with Sir Ashley Eden's view as quoted above, but still there are occasions when it is necessary to anticipate rather than to follow public opinion, and among them is surely the occasion when inaction is injurious to the community at large. The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad to see a draft of the new bye-laws referred to above at an early date; and eventually, if in the opinion of a considerable section of the Commissioners these bye-laws are still insufficient, he will be prepared to consider any representations that may be made to him on the subject. His Honour believes that the public mind in Bengal is awakening to the benefits of sanitary improvement: and he notices with special pleasure the passage in this report in which the Commissioners assert that their eagerness for sanitary improvement is as great as that of their Health Officer. His Honour trusts that nothing will prevent them from giving full effect to these good intentions.

30. Sir Antony MacDonnell has perused with much interest the report reviewed in the preceding paragraphs: it records the execution of much useful work, especially in the direction of sanitation and of structural improvements, such as the extension of drainage and water-supply and the improvement of bastis, and for their share in carrying out these measures, the thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to the executive officers of the Corporation, the Engineer and the Health Officer. The Commissioners themselves have, as a whole, displayed a care and attention to their duties which is very meritorious, and has in some cases risen to the level of devotion. The year, though not actually one of straitened resources, was yet clouded by the shadow of impending pecuniary difficulties, and the policy of the Commissioners has doubtless on some occasions been guided by this circumstance which has induced them to shrink from expenditure on objects which have strong claims upon them. In executive matters the Lieutenant-Governor perceives an occasional want of vigour, especially in the collection of rates, the enforcement of the law in regard to license fees, and the recovery of expenses from the owners of bastis. But these defects admit of remedy; and on suitable opportunities they will no doubt be remedied. Leaving them out of consideration, Sir Antony MacDonnell very cordially acknowledges the services the Corporation have rendered to the city, and thanks them for the careful control which they have exercised over the various Departments of the municipal administration. Finally, His Honour desires to recognize the industry and tact displayed by Messrs. Lee and Ritchie in discharging the duties of an appointment which requires the display of these valuable qualities in a marked degree.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. A. BOURDILLON,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

FINANCIAL RESOLUTION.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—FINANCE.

Calcutta, the 21st November 1893.

RESOLUTION No. 5032F.

THE Lieutenant-Governor is now in a position to review the actual financial results of the year 1891-92, the revised estimates for the year 1892-93, and the budget estimates for 1893-94. The Accountant-General's memorandum on the accounts of the first year has been received, and though his final report on the accounts for 1892-93 has not yet been submitted, his appropriation report for the year affords sufficient materials for framing an approximate estimate of the financial position of the Province at the close of the year. The figures of the revenue and expenditure of the first five months of the current year have been received from the Accountant-General, and these are sufficient to form the basis for a review of the budget estimates for 1893-94.

PART I.

ACCOUNTS OF 1891-92.

2. The approximate actuals adopted in the Financial Resolution No. 5191F. of the 27th December 1892 assumed that the year 1891-92 had opened with a credit balance of Rs. 24,72,774, and had closed with a balance of Rs. 23,85,016, that the total amount available for expenditure during the year was Rs. 6,02,72,887, and that of this sum Rs. 5,78,87,871 had been spent. The final result was less favourable than this estimate by Rs. 31,585. The amount actually available for expenditure was Rs. 6,02,74,758, and the amount actually expended, Rs. 5,79,21,327, leaving a closing balance of Rs. 23,53,431. The actuals furnished by the Accountant-General in his memorandum on the accounts of the year are compared in the following table with the approximate actuals adopted in the Financial Resolution quoted above:—

3. There was an increase of Rs. 1,871 in Receipts, principally under Ferry Tolls, against an advance of Rs. 33,456 in Expenditure. The fluctuations in expenditure were chiefly under Stamps (Rs. 1,062), Police (Rs. 8,535), Minor Departments (Rs. 1,264), and State Railways—Working Expenses (Rs. 22,164). The increase under State Railways was due to an adjustment of Rs. 22,164 made under the orders of the Government of India on account of the working expenses of the Tirhut State Railway (old account).

4. The transactions under Provincial loans and advances, which are not included in the cash account of the year 1891-92, were as follows:—

PART II.

REVISED ESTIMATE OF 1892-93.

5. The financial year which expired on the 31st March 1893, was the first of the quinquennial period for which a new contract has been made with the Government of India. A revised estimate, based on the actuals of eight months, was submitted to the Government of India with letter No. 628F., dated the 31st January 1893. An amended statement was submitted on the 9th March 1893. Although the accounts of the year have not yet been finally closed, and are still open to adjustments, there are sufficient materials to frame an approximate estimate of the financial position of the province at the close of the year. The following statement shows the revised estimate as submitted to the Government of India, the estimate as passed by that Government, and the estimate now adopted by the Government of Bengal:—

RECEIPTS.

6. Land Revenue.—The revised estimate of total Land Revenue receipts for 1892-93 was placed at Rs. 3,85,50,000, but the actual collections only reached a total of Rs 3,84,96,000. The 12 per cent. on collections from Government estates amounted to Rs. 4,74,000, and the total Provincial share of Land Revenue for the year was therefore one-fourth of (Rs. 3,84,96,000—Rs. 4,74,000) + 4,74,000, or Rs 99,80,000. This amount has been adopted as the revised estimate of the Provincial share of Land Revenue (proper) for 1892-93. The adjustments between the Imperial and Provincial revenues will probably result in a net deduction of Rs. 13,36,000, as shown below:—

	Estimate passed by the Government of India.	Revised estimate now adopted.
Fixed contribution to Imperial under the new Contract	—14,39,000	—14,39,000
Grant for the Hidgelee Tidal Canal ...	+49,000	+38,000
Ditto honorarium to Mr. Kilby for salt scales	+38,000	+38,000
Grant for the transfer of Imperial buildings to local agencies	+45,000	+45,000
Interest on the capital expenditure on Hidgelee Tidal Canal advanced from Imperial	—19,000	—18,000
Total ...	—13,26,000	—13,36,000

7. The Government of India, in the Public Works Department letter No. 33A.C.W., dated the 25th January 1893, directed that, before the close of each financial year, a statement of the claims against the Imperial Government, including the usual percentage charges for establishment and tools and plant on the grants for Imperial works and repairs made over to local bodies, should be submitted to the Finance and Commerce Department of the Government of India, in order that the necessary adjustment of accounts might be made through the head of Land Revenue. The required statement for 1892-93 was submitted to the Government of India with a request for an assignment of Rs. 47,690, but the Finance and Commerce Department has since decided that the final adjustment between Imperial and Provincial should be made with reference to the actual expenditure incurred by the local bodies during the year, and not on the grants provided in the estimates. The Public Works Department has accordingly been asked to call upon the local bodies concerned to submit, after the close of every year, a progress report showing the actual amount spent during the year on each Imperial work made over to them, and the further amounts that are likely to be required for their completion. As the year 1892-93 has already closed, the Public Works Department has been asked to supply the Financial Department with a statement showing the actual expenditure on Imperial works incurred by the local bodies during the year, so that an application may be made for final adjustment. Pending the receipt of this information, Rs. 45,000, the amount passed by the Government of India in the revised estimate, is adopted in this Resolution.

8. Salt.—The original estimate under this head was Rs. 1,30,000; but looking to the falling off under "Rents of Warehouses," the revised estimate was placed at Rs. 90,000. The actual realizations, however, amounted to Rs. 84,000 only against Rs. 1,10,854 in 1891-92. The decrease was due to the quantity bonded during the year being less, and to a general reduction in the stock kept at the golahs, in consequence of the consumption during the year being greater than the importation. Moreover, owing to the exceedingly low rate of freight, salt laden ships after discharge could not obtain export cargo, and it paid the owners better to sell salt direct from the ships instead of discharging and storing it.

9. Excise—The receipts under this head amounted to Rs. 1,15,95,000, against Rs. 1,14,10,000, the revised estimate passed by the Government of India. One-fourth of this sum or Rs. 28,99,000 have been taken as the share of the Local Government. The receipts of the year show an increase of 4 per cent. over those of the previous year, and are larger than the revenue of any of the preceding four years.

10. Provincial Rates.—The revised estimate under this head was placed at Rs. 45,40,000 against Rs. 45,24,517, the actuals of 1891-92. The percentage of arrear collections of both Road and Public Works Cesses on arrear demand was 80·9, that of current collection on current demand 84·9, and that of total collection on current demand 102·2. The year therefore closed with a smaller arrear balance than that with which it opened. The total collections under the head amounted to Rs. 46,16,000.

11. Assessed Taxes.—The original estimate for 1892-93 was Rs. 43,00,000 against Rs. 43,07,928, the actuals of 1891-92. Looking to the steady growth of revenue under this head, and also to the increased collections in the first eight months of the year as compared with those of the same period in the preceding year, the estimate was raised to Rs. 43,50,000 in the Financial Resolution dated 27th December 1892. The same figure was adopted by the Local Government in the budget report; but the Government of India, in view of the falling off in receipts in the later part of the year, reduced the estimate to Rs. 43,10,000. The actuals amounted to Rs. 42,28,000. The Provincial share of one-half has accordingly been taken at Rs. 21,14,000. The net revenue shows a decrease of 1·8 per cent. against an increase of 1·5 per cent. in the preceding year: the decrease is in the collection of the arrear demand.

12. Registration.—The Provincial share of the receipts under this head amounted to Rs. 7,17,000 as compared with Rs. 7,05,000 the revised estimate passed by the Government of India, and Rs. 6,67,156, the actuals of 1891-92. The increase is attributable partly to the influence of the season and partly to the growing confidence of the public in registration concurrently with the general advancement in education and in a knowledge of the law.

13. Interest.—The actuals amounted to Rs. 1,42,000 against Rs. 1,32,000, the revised estimate, as shown below:—

	Revised estimate passed by India.	Revised estimate now adopted.
	Rs.	Rs.
Class I.—Interest on advances to cultivators	20,000	26,000
„ II.—Interest on advances under special loans ...	5,000	4,000
„ III.—Interest on loans to landholders and other notabilities	18,000	18,000
„ IV.—Interest on loans to municipal and other public corporations	27,000	29,000
Interest on Government securities	13,000	13,000
Miscellaneous	49,000	52,000
Total ...	1,32,000	1,42,000

14. Police.—The receipts of the Police Department are compared below with the revised estimate passed by the Government of India:—

	Revised estimate passed by India.	Approximate actuals.
	Rs.	Rs.
(1) Police paid for by Municipal, Cantonment and Town Funds ...	6,000	6,000
(2) Police paid for by Public Departments, Companies and private persons ...	23,000	25,000
(3) Presidency Police	93,000	1,02,000
(4) Recoveries on account of village police	2,000	3,000
(5) Fees, fines, and forfeitures ...	32,000	34,000
(6) Superannuation receipts	.....	1,000
(7) Miscellaneous	70,000	71,000
Total ...	2,26,000	2,42,000

The fluctuation was chiefly in the receipts derived from the Presidency Police. The increase under (2) was due to larger recoveries in Patna for police supplied to private persons.

15. Marine.—The receipts under this head amounted to Rs. 9,20,000 as compared with Rs. 9,05,000, the revised estimate passed by the Government of India. The increase was chiefly under pilotage receipts, which amounted to Rs. 8,41,000, against Rs. 8,30,000, the revised estimate of the year.

16. Medical.—The revised estimate under this head, passed by the Government of India, was Rs. 1,50,000, but the actual receipts amounted to Rs. 1,70,000 The increase was under "Hospital receipts," and was due partly to the orders of Government enhancing the rate of payment from the Hospital Port Dues Fund on account of seamen sent to hospital, and partly to larger receipts from paying patients.

17. Railways.—Under the terms of the new contract with the Government of India, the Nalhati and the Tirhut State Railways have been made Imperial, while the net receipts of the entire Eastern Bengal Railway system are divided equally between the Imperial and the Provincial Revenues. The actual net receipts in 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 62,13,000 against Rs. 64,25,000, the revised estimate passed by the Government of India. The provincial share will now amount to Rs. 31,06,000, as shown below:—

	Revised estimate passed by the Government of India.	Preliminary actuals.
	Rs.	Rs.
Receipts	... 1,18,00,000	1,18,30,000
Working expenses ...	... 53,75,000	56,17,000
Net receipts	... 64,25,000	62,13,000
Provincial share	... 32,12,000	31,06,000

18. Irrigation—Major Works.—The total receipts in 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 18,88,000 against Rs. 16,50,000, the revised estimate passed by the Government of India. The increase was mainly due to the recovery of old outstandings and of current demands on account of the Sone Canals.

19. Civil Works.—The original estimate of receipts from departments in charge of the Public Works Department was Rs. 2,30,000, and was reduced to Rs. 2,10,000 in the revised estimate. The actual receipts, however, amounted only to Rs. 1,63,000. The high estimate was based on the expectation that the Government share of the profits from the Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway would be realized during the year, but the adjustment could not be made as the case tried by the High Court, on which the payment depended, was not decided until after the expiration of the year.

EXPENDITURE.

20. Stamps.—The cost of "Stamp paper supplied from Central Stores" in 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 2,90,000 against Rs. 2,82,000 passed by the Government of India as the revised estimate of the year. The Provincial share of the total charges of the Stamp Department amounted to Rs. 4,47,000 or Rs. 10,000 more than the figure adopted in the revised estimate.

21. General Administration.—There was larger expenditure under "Commissioners" than had been provided for in the revised estimate, and the total actual charges now amount to Rs. 16,37,000 against Rs. 16,25,000, the revised estimate passed by the Government of India.

22. Jails.—The total charges under this head amounted to Rs. 21,19,000 as compared with Rs. 20,90,000, the revised estimate passed by the Government of India. The increase was chiefly on account of rations, clothing and bedding, and other supplies due to the increase in jail population and the high price of food-grains.

23. Police.—The revised estimate under this head was Rs. 57,84,000, but the total expenditure amounted to Rs. 58,47,000. The excess was under "Superintendence" (Rs. 4,000), "District Executive Force" (Rs. 39,000), "Special Police" (Rs. 17,000), and "Village Police" (Rs. 3,000). The increase under "District Executive Force" was chiefly under Supplies and Services and Contingencies, the expenditure on which accounts was unusually high in the last two months of the year.

24. Marine.—The total charges under this head amounted to Rs. 9,44,000 against Rs. 8,61,000, the revised estimate submitted to the Government of India. This estimate included a provision of only Rs. 25,000 to meet a part of the cost of the new pilot vessel to replace the Coleroon, which is under construction at the Government dockyard at Bombay. The actual payment, however, on this account was Rs. 99,307. The charges for "Purchase of marine stores and coal for the building, repairs and outfit of vessels" also exceeded the revised estimate by Rs. 15,000.

25. Medical.—There was an increase of expenditure under "Hospitals and Dispensaries," and the total charges of the department amounted to Rs. 16,13,000 against Rs. 16,00,000, the revised estimate passed by the Government of India. There was, however, a corresponding increase in receipts.

26. Political.—The original estimate under this head, amounting to Rs. 29,000, was raised to Rs. 37,000 in the revised estimate. The actual charges, however, amounted to Rs. 18,000 only. The decrease was mainly under the head "Durbar presents and allowances to Vakeels, &c."

27. Stationery and Printing.—The original budget estimate under this head, amounting to Rs. 9,90,000, was raised by the Local Government to Rs. 12,48,000, and by the Government of India to Rs. 13,08,000 on information furnished by the Superintendent of Stationery, to meet a large increase of expenditure under "Stationery supplied from Central Stores." The actual charges under the sub-head, however, exceeded the revised estimate by Rs. 47,000. The increase is attributed to the large supplies furnished to the Survey and Settlement Department in connection with the settlement operations now in progress. The total charges under the head amounted to Rs. 13,56,000.

28. Miscellaneous.—There was an increase of expenditure under "Donations for charitable purposes" and under "Miscellaneous and Unforeseen charges" owing in the latter case to the adjustment of the excess charges on account of the telegraph lines from Rampur Hat to Dumka and from Chittagong to Domagri. The total "Miscellaneous" expenditure amounted to Rs. 2,12,000, whereas the revised estimate passed by the Government of India stood at Rs. 1,98,000.

29. Irrigation—Minor Works.—The charges in 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 13,94,000 against Rs. 15,46,000 passed by the Government of India as the revised estimate of the year. The saving is partly due to excess provision having originally been made for establishment and also to the amount provided for in the estimate for original works not being fully worked up to.

30. Civil Works.—The expenditure of the Public Works Department amounted to Rs. 27,24,000 falling but little short of Rs. 27,65,000, the revised estimate for the year. The saving is due to short outlay on the Collector's residence at Darbhanga and the Registration building at Dacca, and to a sum of Rs. 17,000 not having been appropriated during the year.

31. Contributions.—The estimate of Rs. 12,50,000 has been increased by one lakh, that being the sum which Government has decided to contribute towards the heavy expenditure incurred by the Darbhanga District Board on relief works and other famine charges during 1891-92 and 1892-93.

32. Closing balance.—According to the revised estimate now adopted, the closing balance of the past year will have been Rs. 22,47,000 against Rs. 23,02,000 estimated by this Government, and Rs. 22,46,000 anticipated by the Government of India when passing the estimates for the current year.

PART III.

BUDGET ESTIMATE, 1893-94.

33. The Lieutenant-Governor has already in separate Resolutions reviewed the estimates of receipts and charges for the current year under each head of account: later information, however, has led to a modification of these in some respects. The following table shows the estimates as submitted to the Government of India, the figures as passed by that Government, and the estimates which the Lieutenant-Governor has finally resolved to adopt. The figures now adopted do not include under the several service heads any provision for "Exchange Compensation Allowance" the payment of which has recently been sanctioned by the Secretary of State to European and Eurasian servants of Government not domiciled in India. The Government of India has already decided that the allowances will be charged to the same head as pay, and will be Imperial or Provincial to the same extent as pay is Imperial or Provincial, and that no adjustment will be made between Imperial and Provincial funds to cover the Provincial share of the expenditure. The Accountant-General, who was asked to report on the effect of these orders on the Provincial revenues of Bengal, stated that, owing to doubt regarding the number and pay of officers who would be adjudged entitled to the allowance, an estimate could only be framed by the light of the actual charges recorded in the accounts. He has, however, promised to submit, later on in the year, a report on the subject based upon the experience gained from the first few months' operation of the scheme. Pending the receipt of this report, a lump provision of a lakh and a quarter has been made under "Miscellaneous;" but when the estimates shall have been prepared by the Accountant-General, the necessary adjustments will be made under the different service heads:—

RECEIPTS.

34. Land Revenue.—The total collections in 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 3,84,96,000, and the estimate for 1893-94 has been placed by the Government of India at Rs. 3,84,33,000. The average receipts during the past five years have been Rs. 3,84,50,000. The collections in the first five months of the current year amounted to Rs. 71,11,000 against Rs. 74,38,000 obtained in the corresponding period of last year. This decrease is probably due to the floods which have affected the prosperity of the raiyats, and caused payments to be temporarily withheld; but there is no reason to believe that the estimate for the current year will not be reached, and it will accordingly be retained. The provincial share will thus remain Rs. 99,88,000. The adjustments between Imperial and Provincial show the following results:—

	Rs.
1888-89	3,73,73,000
1889-90	3,88,82,000
1890-91	3,88,19,000

Total ...	(—)13,50,000	(—)13,33,000

The last item is still under discussion. The Government of India while passing orders on the budgets for 1893-94 allowed the following adjustment on account of the transfer of Imperial Civil and Military Works to the management of local agency:—

	Rs.	Rs.
Annual grant for maintenance	8,341
Percentage charges for establishment and tools and plant on above	2,044
		10,385
In round numbers ...	.....	10,000

The construction, maintenance and repairs of several other Imperial buildings have since been entrusted to local bodies. The Imperial Public Works estimates will be reduced by the amount of the grants provided for these works, but a credit for an additional sum of Rs. 26,000 will be provisionally taken under this head, that being the aggregate of the amounts made over to the local funds and to the Provincial Public Works budget on account of these works.

35. Salt.—The rent of warehouses shows a falling off of Rs. 6,365 during the first five months, amounting to Rs. 18,194, as compared with Rs. 24,559 during the corresponding period of last year. The total receipts in 1892-93 were Rs. 84,000, and the Lieutenant-Governor thinks that it will not be safe to place the estimate for the current year at a higher figure than Rs. 75,000 instead of Rs. 90,000, the original estimate for the year.

36. Stamps.—The total revenue from stamps has been estimated at Rs. 1,57,00,000, being Rs. 1,55,000 more than the latest revised estimate of last year, which amounted to Rs. 1,55,45,000. The Comptroller-General's latest statement shows that the receipts during the first five months of the current year have exceeded those of the corresponding period of last year by Rs. 3,64,000. In view of these figures the estimate is raised to Rs. 1,60,00,000, of which the Provincial share will be Rs. 1,20,00,000. The question of lowering the fees levied for the issue of processes is now under consideration, but as the matter is not yet ripe for final settlement, no reduction in the estimate has been made on this account.

37. Excise.—The estimate of total revenue under this head as passed by the Government of India amounts to Rs. 1,15,00,000. The Comptroller-General's statements show that the actuals in 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 1,15,95,000, and the receipts of the first five months of the current year exceed those of the same five months of last year by Rs. 2,98,000. The results of the recent settlements of shops for the sale of country spirits just received from the Board of Revenue show a net increase of Rs. 2,41,923 in the demand for the current year, though the number of licenses settled is less than that of the past year by 98. The number of unsettled shops is still large, but the Excise Commissioner has taken steps to hasten the settlement of them. In view of the increased revenue already collected, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks that the estimate can safely be raised to Rs. 1,19,00,000. The Provincial share will thus amount to Rs. 29,75,000.

38. Provincial Rates.—The following statement compares the receipts under this head for three years :—

Heads.	Actuals, 1891-92.	Latest revised estimate, 1892-93.	Sanctioned estimate, 1893-94.	Estimate now proposed.
1	2	3	4	5
	Rs	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
(1) Public Works Cess ...	40,79,753	41,95,000	41,50,000	41,50,000
(2) General management of Wards' Estates.	80,409	77,000	80,000	1,25,000
(3) Proportionate cost of collecting Road Cess.	3,64,355	3,44,000	3,31,000	3,40,000
Total ...	45,24,517	46,16,000	45,61,000	46,15,000

The current demand of the Public Works Cess for 1892-93 was Rs. 40,94,343, and the actual collections were Rs. 41,95,000. It is by no means certain that the receipts during the current year will be as high as in the previous year. The arrear balance is now much smaller than in 1892-93, and the floods, which have affected the prosperity of the raiyats, may affect the collections. On the other hand some increase is anticipated on account of revaluations, which have been completed and been given effect to from 1st April 1893. Taking all the circumstances into consideration, the Lieutenant-Governor would retain the estimate originally adopted. The estimate under (3) appears to be low compared with the actuals of 1891-92 and the latest figure for 1892-93. Since the budget was passed, the Board of Revenue have increased the estimate of total cost of collecting the cess by Rs. 12,555 in consequence of the revaluations now in progress. The estimate will be raised by two-thirds of this amount, representing the proportionate cost of collecting road cess or to Rs. 3,40,000. The rules under the Management of Private Estates Act of 1892, which are under the consideration of Government, propose to raise the estimate of receipts from the Management Rate from Rs. 80,000 to Rs. 1,40,000, but as, the rules have not yet been finally passed, the full increase cannot be provided for during the current year. The estimate will be raised to Rs. 1,25,000. The total estimate under Provincial Rates will therefore stand at Rs. 46,15,000.

39. Customs.—The estimate under this head amounts to Rs. 56,000 against Rs. 50,000, the latest revised estimate for 1892-93. The collections in the first five months of the current year amounted to Rs. 21,974 against Rs. 19,469 obtained in the corresponding period of last year. The estimate will be retained.

40. Assessed Taxes.—The revenue under this head showed a progressive increase from 1888-89 to 1891-92, and the estimate for 1893-94, which was based on the revised estimate for 1892-93, was placed at Rs. 43,30,000. The actuals for 1892-93 aggregated only Rs. 42,28,000 against the revised estimate of Rs. 43,10,000 and showed a considerable falling off, attributable to larger collections of arrears in the year 1891-92. The decrease having occurred in the closing months of 1892-93 was not foreseen and provided for in the revised estimate for that year. The collections during the first five months of the current year again show a decrease of Rs. 30,000 mainly in Calcutta, as compared with those of the corresponding period of last year. It would perhaps be premature to assume that the collections in the current year will be less than those realised in 1892-93; but looking to all the circumstances, it would not be safe to adhere to the estimate passed in March last, which will therefore be reduced by one lakh, viz. to Rs. 42,30,000. The Provincial share will stand at Rs. 21,15,000.

41. Registration.—The estimate under this head amounts to Rs. 14,20,000 against Rs. 14,34,000, the latest revised estimate for 1892-93. The actuals in the first five months of the current year show an increase of about Rs. 33,000 over those of the corresponding period of last year. The estimate will be raised to Rs. 14,70,000. The Provincial share will stand at Rs. 7,35,000.

42. Interest.—The original estimate of the Local Government under this head for 1893-94, based on an anticipation of a net outgoing of Rs. 12,61,000 from the treasury as loans on Provincial account was Rs. 1,82,000, and it was passed by the Government of India. That Government have, however, made a lump deduction of Rs. 7,50,000 from the estimate of net outgoings proposed by this Government. This deduction will necessarily reduce the Provincial receipts from Interest by nearly Rs. 17,000. The estimate will therefore be altered from Rs. 1,82,000 to Rs. 1,65,000.

43. Law and Justice—Courts of Law.—The total receipts under this head in the first five months of the current year show an increase of Rs. 34,000 over those of the corresponding period of last year. The latest revised estimate for 1892-93 amounts to Rs. 8,68,000. The estimate for the current year will be raised from Rs. 8,76,000 to Rs. 9,00,000.

44. Marine.—The receipts during the first five months of the current year amount to Rs. 3,23,756 against Rs. 3,32,114 obtained in the corresponding period of last year, showing a decrease of Rs. 8,358. The decrease is under the Calcutta Pilotage receipts. The aggregate receipts in 1892-93 were Rs. 9,20,000, and the estimate for the current year amounting to Rs. 9,12,000 will be retained.

45. Medical.—The Government of India placed the revised estimates under this head for 1892-93 at Rs. 1,50,000, and the estimate for the current year at Rs. 1,51,000. The latest revised estimate for 1892-93 now stands at Rs. 1,70,000. The receipts in the first five months of the current year show an increase of Rs. 3,170 over those of the corresponding period of last year. The estimate will be raised to Rs. 1,75,000.

46. Scientific and other Minor Departments.—The total of receipts under this head in 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 1,90,000. This includes a special credit of Rs. 25,000, the amount contributed by Sir Dinshaw Manockjee Petit for the construction of a veterinary hospital, and the estimate for the current year was placed at Rs. 1,62,000. The receipts from "Cinchona Plantations" that is from the sale of cinchona and quinine amounted to Rs. 1,18,000 in 1892-93, and in the first five months of the current year show an increase of Rs. 8,000 over those of the corresponding period of last year: some quinine has also been bought from Messrs. Kilburn and Company lately at a cost of Rs. 15,762, and this will be available for sale to the public. The estimate under this sub-head, which is Rs. 1,09,000, may be raised to Rs. 1,25,000. But looking to the falling off of emigration fees from Rs. 21,000 in the first five months of last year to Rs. 11,000 in the corresponding five months of the current year, it will not be safe to disturb the original total estimate, which will be retained.

47. Superannuation.—The revised estimate of Provincial receipts under this head for 1892-93 now stands at Rs. 78,000. The receipts during the first five months of the current year very nearly correspond with those obtained in the same period of last year. The estimate will be raised from Rs. 56,000 to Rs. 75,000.

48. Stationery and Printing.—The total Provincial receipts in the first five months of the current year show an increase of about Rs. 8,000 over those of the corresponding period of last year. The latest revised estimate for 1892-93 now stands at Rs. 1,15,000. The estimate for the current year will be raised from Rs. 1,07,000 to Rs. 1,20,000.

49. Miscellaneous.—The latest revised estimate of receipts under this head for 1892-93 now stands at Rs. 8,29,000. The average receipts in each of the past five years amounted to Rs. 8,15,000. The actuals during the first five months of the current year show an increase of Rs. 20,000 over those of the corresponding period of last year. The estimate for the current year will be raised from Rs. 7,96,000 to Rs. 8,29,000, the latest revised estimate for 1892-93.

	Rs.
1888-89	8,35,000
1889-90	8,03,000
1890-91	7,70,000
1891-92	8,36,000
1892-93	8,29,000

Average per year ...	8,15,000

50. Railways.—The gross earnings of the Eastern Bengal State Railway System from the 1st April to the 23rd September 1893 amounted to Rs. 52,91,000 against Rs. 51,66,000 obtained from the 1st April to the 24th September 1892, showing an increase of Rs. 1,25,000. The estimate of the Government of India will be retained.

51. Irrigation Major Works.—The Government of India placed the revised estimate, 1892-93, under this head at Rs. 16,50,000, and the estimate for the current year at Rs. 14,50,000. The returns of the Examiner of Public Works Accounts show that the receipts in the first four months of the current year were Rs. 1,39,000 less than those of the corresponding period of past year. The latest revised estimate for 1892-93 now stands at Rs. 18,88,000, and the average actuals of the past five years amounted to Rs. 15,51,000. In view of the fluctuating character of these receipts depending to some extent on the rainfall, which has this year been generally plentiful, it will not be safe to anticipate that the average of the last five years will be attained; but looking to the large collections of the last two years, the Lieutenant-Governor would place the estimate at Rs. 15,00,000.

	Rs.
1888-89	13,94,000
1889-90	15,21,000
1890-91	13,47,000
1891-92	16,03,000
1892-93	18,88,000
Total of five years ...	77,53,000
Average per year ...	15,51,000

52. Irrigation Minor Works.—The latest revised estimate for 1892-93 amounts to Rs. 7,54,000, and the estimate for the current year is Rs. 8,15,000. The receipts in the first four months of the current year show an improvement of Rs. 18,000 over those of the corresponding period of last year. The average actual receipts of the past five years were Rs. 8,15,000. The estimate will be retained.

53. Civil Works in charge of the Public Works Department.—The revised estimate for 1892-93, as passed by the Government of India, was Rs. 2,10,000, and the estimate for 1893-94 is Rs. 1,70,000. The revised estimate for last year included a sum of Rs. 80,000, being the Government share of the profits payable by the Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway Company for two years, while the estimate for the current year includes Rs. 40,000 on this account, being the amount for one year. As already stated in paragraph 19 above, no payment was made by the Railway Company in 1892-93, but in 1893-94 a sum of Rs. 95,250 has been paid up to date on account of—

	Rs.
The year ending 30th June 1890 ...	33,142
Ditto 1891 ...	26,771
Ditto 1892 ...	35,337
Total ...	95,250

If payment for the year ending 30th June 1893 is also made during the year, the total receipts from the Company may amount to, more or less, Rs. 1,25,000 against Rs. 40,000 provided in the estimate. The estimate may be raised to Rs. 2,55,000.

EXPENDITURE.

54. Land Revenue.—Since the budget was passed placing the estimate under this head at Rs. 34,19,000, an additional establishment has been sanctioned at an estimated cost of Rs. 4,000 for the office of the Deputy Commissioner of the Sonthal Parganas, and the estimate must therefore be raised to Rs. 34,23,000.

55. Provincial Rates.—The estimate under this head amounts to Rs. 3,86,000 against Rs. 4,34,000, the actuals of 1892-93. As stated in paragraph 37 above, an additional grant of Rs. 12,555 has been sanctioned at the instance of the Board of Revenue on account of revaluations in progress, but as the total receipts from the cess will, it is anticipated, be less than in 1892-93, a provision of Rs. 4,15,000 for the cost of collecting the cess, &c., may be sufficient for the current year.

56. Customs.—An extra establishment for the steam-launch Ivy of the Customs Preventive Department has been sanctioned at an additional cost of Rs. 3,400, and some provision must be made for additional preventive establishment costing Rs. 550 per month, which will be required if the Kidderpur Docks are largely used. It will be sufficient if the estimate be raised from Rs. 5,52,000 to Rs. 5,58,000.

57. Assessed Taxes.—The total expenditure for the collection of Income-Tax was originally estimated at Rs. 1,93,000, including Rs. 2,400 for house allowance to the Collector of Income-tax, Calcutta. The Government of India have sanctioned the grant of an allowance at the rate of Rs. 100 per mensem, which order will effect a saving of Rs. 1,200 on this account. On the recommendation of the Board of Revenue, a further reduction of Rs. 4,270 has been made in the income-tax establishment. The total saving may therefore be Rs. 5,470, and the total grant may be placed at Rs. 1,88,000. The Provincial share will stand at Rs. 94,000.

58. Forests.—The total grant of the Forest Department as passed by the Government of India amounts to Rs. 4,82,000, but a reduction of Rs. 2,500 has been made by the Revenue and Agricultural Department of the Government of India in the Imperial share of the grant for the reorganisation of the Forest Subordinate staff, to provide for the purchase of tramway plant required by the Forest Department in the Andamans, and for the construction of a gymnasium at the Forest School. A similar reduction will be made in the Provincial share. The total grant will then stand at Rs. 4,77,000 and the Provincial share at Rs. 2,39,000.

59. Post Office.—The estimate under this head for the current year will be raised from Rs. 3,000 to Rs. 5,000, since the actuals in the first five months of the current year amounted to Rs. 3,447 against Rs. 2,558 in the corresponding period of last year.

60. General Administration.—The estimate under this head will be raised by Rs. 4,000 for the purchase of an elephant for the Commissioner of Orissa, and for expenditure on the additional establishment and contingencies of the Legislative Department recently sanctioned in consequence of the expansion of the Legislative Council under the New Councils Act. In view of the actuals of 1892-93, amounting to Rs. 16,37,000, and those of the first five months of the current year, showing an increase of Rs. 6,000 over those of the corresponding period of last year, the estimate for 1893-94 will be placed at Rs. 16,40,000.

61. Jails.—The estimate under this head will be reduced by Rs. 6,860, which has been made over to the Public Works Department for strengthening and executing repairs to the barracks in the Rajshahi Central Jail, and for the conversion of No. 4 Yard of the Alipore Jail into a workshop. The grant will stand at Rs. 21,72,000.

62. Police.—The Government of India have raised the estimate of this Government by Rs. 75,000 for Lushai charges. This will again be raised by Rs. 4,000 to meet the cost of the additional police force sanctioned for the Patuakhali Municipality, of arrears of rent due to the East Indian Railway Company for accommodation of the State Railway Police, and of the charges for police guards employed at the Secretariat Building in Calcutta: the last charge has hitherto been borne by the Public Works Department, but will now be adjusted in the Civil Department. Additional grants have also been made for five additional Police Inspectors to be employed in the Patna Division at a total cost of Rs. 4,000, and for the employment of 250 constables with a proportion of superior officers for eight months: adding a sum of Rs. 600 for accoutrements, the total extra cost under this head will hardly be less than Rs. 16,000. A sum of Rs. 2,000, being the moiety of cost of a police van for Calcutta, has also been sanctioned. The estimate must therefore be raised by Rs. 22,000 or to Rs. 56,81,000 in all.

63. Marine.—The estimate passed by the Government of India, amounting to Rs. 10,37,000, includes a provision of Rs. 1,50,000 for the balance of the cost of constructing a pilot vessel to replace the Coleroon. The charges in 1892-93 on this account amounted to Rs. 99,307 against Rs. 25,000, provided in the revised estimate of the year: a reduction of Rs. 74,000 will therefore be made on this account this year. On the other side an increased provision of Rs. 10,000 will be made for payment of compensation to Captain Petley. The estimate will thus stand at Rs. 9,73,000.

64. Education.—The estimate under this head, amounting to Rs. 25,73,000, has been reduced by Rs. 14,000 on account of the following charges which have been eliminated:—

(a) A grant of Rs. 7,000 to the District Board of Malda for the construction of the new zilla school building, of which Rs. 5,000 have been met from the Public Works Department budget, and only Rs. 2,000 remain to be provided from the Education budget.

(b) A donation of Rs. 1,500 towards the construction of a building for St. Mary's House of Charity.

(c) A grant of Rs. 2,500 to the Public Works Department for furniture of the new Art School.

(d) A grant of Rs. 3,019 for the construction of two additional rooms in the Taki Government School building.

(e) A grant of Rs. 5,123 for the construction of two additional rooms in the zillah school building at Rangpur.

Against these reductions an additional grant of Rs. 6,270 has been made for the employment of a clerk on Rs. 15 per mensem, for each Deputy Inspector of Schools in thirty-eight Board districts with effect from the 1st April 1893. A further provision of Rs. 820 has been sanctioned under the head "Grant for the encouragement of useful publications" to provide for the salary of two clerks employed under Babu Sarat Chundor Dass for the completion of the Tibetian Dictionary. The total grant now stands at Rs. 25,66,000.

65. Medical.—The estimate of the Government of India has been raised by Rs. 10,000 to provide for additional remuneration which it is proposed to pay to Civil Surgeons' clerks for doing vaccination duty, for the payment of municipal taxes on the Campbell Medical School which have been raised from Rs. 1,287 to Rs. 4,191, for increased supernumerary pay of Civil Hospital Assistants for nine months, and for other petty increases in the Vaccination Department recently sanctioned by Government. The charges under Hospitals and Dispensaries durng the first five months of the current year show an increase of Rs. 26,000 over those of the corresponding period of last year. Taking all these circumstances into consideration, the total grant for the year will be placed at Rs. 16,20,000 against Rs. 16,13,000, the latest revised estimate for 1892-93.

66. Scientific and other Minor Departments.—The estimate under this head has been raised by Rs. 30,000 to provide for the following charges recently sanctioned:—

(a) Publication of a revised edition of Mr. Risley's Ethnographic Glossary, including Mr. Risley's deputation allowance.

(b) Grant to the Indian Museum for Mr. Mukerji's archæological enquiries in Orissa.

(c) Purchase of quinine from Messrs. Kilburn and Company.

A provision of Rs. 50,000 must also be made under this head for the payment of the first instalment to Messrs. Kilburn and Company of the purchase money of the Nimbong Cinchona Plantation. A further grant of Rs. 5,000 is also necessary for effecting certain urgent improvements in the Royal Botanic Gardens, Calcutta. The total estimate will be raised to Rs. 4,49,000.

67. Superannuation.—The estimate under this head amounts to Rs. 17,50,000. The actual charges in past years amounted to—

		Rs.	Increase.
1888-89	... ...	13,70,000	.....
1889-90	... ...	14,36,000	66,000

1891-92	... ...	16,00,000	87,000
1892-93	... ...	17,03,000	1,03,000
				3,33,000

The increase in the last four years amounted to Rs. 3,33,000, or an average of Rs. 83,000 a year. The actuals in the first five months of the current year show an increase of Rs. 25,000 over those of the corresponding period of last year. In view of these figures, it will not be safe to place the estimate for the current year at a lower figure then Rs. 17,65,000.

68. Stationery and Printing.—The expenditure under this head is estimated at Rs 13,05,000 against Rs. 13,56,000, the amount expended in 1892-93. The actuals of the first five months of the current year show an increase of Rs. 15,000 over those of the corresponding period of last year. The estimate will be raised to Rs. 13,80,000.

69. Miscellaneous.—The estimate of Rs. 2,29,000 under this head has been raised to Rs. 2,32,000 to provide for a donation of Rs. 1,500 towards the construction of a building for St. Mary's House of Charity, and for the maintenance of the telegraph line between Rampur Hât and Dumka. Applications for grants-in-aid from some of the charitable societies are under consideration, and it has been proposed to make a lump provision of Rs. 1,25,000 for Exchange Compensation Allowance under this head. The total estimate will be placed at Rs. 3,62,000.

70. Subsidized Railways.—An additional grant of Rs. 1,563-3 has been sanctioned for land charges in connection with the Duars Railway. The total grant now stands at Rs. 2,843-3 or Rs. 3,000 in round numbers.

71. Miscellaneous Railway Expenditure.—A grant of Rs. 1,206-10 has been sanctioned to the Public Works Department to adjust the charges already incurred by the Manager of the Eastern Bengal State Railway for establishment employed on marking out the land for the Sultanpore-Bogra Railway. This amount will be entered in the budget.

72. Irrigation Major works.—The estimate of Interest on debt as last revised by the Public Works Department amounts to Rs. 24,44,000 against Rs. 24,48,000 passed by the Government of India. The revised figure has been adopted.

73. Irrigation Minor Works.—The estimate under this head as passed by the Government of India amounts to Rs. 15,58,000. A sum of Rs. 1,023 has been made over to the District Board of Burdwan for the construction of culverts on the Grand Trunk Road, and a further sum of Rs. 66-4 to the Road Account, Sonthal Parganas, for reporting gauge readings. The total grant now stands at Rs. 15,57,000, in round numbers.

74. Civil Works by Public Works Department.—The grant under this head was originally fixed at Rs. 27,43,000. It now stands at Rs. 25,53,840 in consequence of the following additions and deductions:—

The total grant will now stand at Rs. 26,49,000.

75. Civil Works in charge of Civil Officers.—The difference, Rs. 32,000, between the estimates of the Local Government and the Government of India represents the special provision for the construction of mule bridges over the Tuichang, Phyrang, and Sailang rivers in the South Lushai Hills. The estimate will be retained.

The Lieutenant-Governor has acceded to an application from the District Board of Bhagalpur to be reimbursed Rs. 21,881, being the expenditure incurred by that body on relief works during the scarcity in 1891-92 in excess of the budget provision, and has agreed to make available Rs. 10,000 for expenditure by the Commissioner of Dacca on Famine Relief in that Division during the current year. The total grant will now therefore be placed at Rs. 12,09,000.

77. Closing balance.—According to the estimates passed by the Government of India, it was expected that the year would close with a credit balance of Rs. 20,72,000. According to the estimate now adopted, the closing balance will be Rs. 21,75,000 against an opening balance of the year amounting to Rs. 22,47,000. The balance will thus be reduced by Rs. 72,000, and this represents the excess of expenditure over receipts of the year. The total estimate of expenditure now adopted exceeds, however, the total estimate of the Government of India by a net sum of about 4¾ lakhs, which includes 1¼ lakhs for Exchange Compensation Allowance, ½ lakh for grants-in-aid of Famine Relief and other expenditure of District Boards, 1 lakh for urgent public works, ½ lakh as part of the purchase money of the Nimbong Cinchona Plantation, ¾ lakh for increase under Stationery and Printing, and ¼ lakh for revaluation of cesses in progress.

Explanation.—.. indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 21st November 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 18TH OF NOVEMBER 1893.

DURING the previous week conditions had been disturbed in Bengal, due primarily to a small storm which had occurred off the South Madras coast. After the storm had broken up a wave of humid winds had advanced northwards along the west coast of the Bay, and had spread over Bengal, giving heavily-clouded skies and light rain. This advance of humid winds was, however, only temporary, and at the close of the week a dry northerly and north-westerly wind current was driving back the moist winds, and weather was again rapidly becoming of ordinary north-east monsoon condition. On the 12th, or the first day of the week under review, light northerly winds were blowing over the whole province, pressure was increasing slowly, and had become in excess of the normal by amounts usually ranging from about 0·06 inch to 0·08 inch. Temperature and humidity, on the other hand, were falling in almost all districts, the decrease in humidity being large at the western stations. The sky was lightly clouded in all districts except Orissa, where it was still heavily clouded, and rainfall had entirely ceased over the province except in Orissa and in the Darjeeling Hills, where a few local falls were reported, the heaviest being 0·25 inch at Gnatong. On the 13th again pressure was rising slowly, while temperature and humidity were falling. Winds on the whole were rather less steady than on the previous day, and the sky had become cloudless except over parts of South Bengal and Orissa. One or two local showers were also reported in Orissa and in the hills. On the 14th the increase of pressure had ceased, and a slow to moderate fall was reported. Winds had become variable in direction in Bihar, but elsewhere they were northerly, while a decided increase had occurred in humidity and cloud proportion, and a smaller increase in the temperature. Rainfall, however, had to a great extent ceased. On the 15th pressure was increasing, and had become above the normal by about 0·04 inch to 0·07 inch, while the mean temperature was usually in slight excess. Winds generally varied from north-westerly to north-easterly, and rainfall was absent except for some local showers in the hills. On the 16th these conditions continued practically unaltered, except that the mean temperature was becoming slightly below the normal over the west of the province. On the 17th a fall of pressure equalling about 0·05 inch had occurred, but the mean temperature had again become in slight excess over the greater part of the province. On the 18th pressure continued to fall by about 0·08 inch to 0·05 inch, and the distribution of pressure had become almost normal, the variations from normal pressure being generally less than 0·02 inch, though they were still in slight excess. The mean temperature also continued in slight excess over the greater part of the province, though at the extreme western stations very small defects were registered. For the second half of the week, except for two or three local showers in the hills, the whole province continued rainless, and light northerly winds with practically cloudless skies prevailed generally over the province.

Pressure.—For the greater part of the week pressure, as previously shown, was above the normal. Hence the mean for the week has been in decided excess, the amount of excess usually varying from 0·05 inch to 0·07 inch.

Temperature.—The mean temperature for the week in Bihar and Chota Nagpur has been almost normal, but in the remaining divisions an excess of about half a degree has been registered. For the whole province the mean for the week has been 0·3° in excess.

The actual temperatures registered during the week and their variations from the usual temperature for the present season are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. It will be seen that in eight out of the nine stations the day temperatures have been rather lower than usual, while in seven out of nine the night or minimum temperatures have been in excess:—

Rainfall.—Except for a few unimportant showers at some stations in Orissa and in the Darjeeling Hills, the whole province has been rainless throughout the week.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast ; g, gloomy ; ☁, dew.

The 29*th November* 1893.—It is hereby notified, for general information, that the Lieutenant-Governor intends, if no valid objections be raised within one month from this date, to issue the following revised rules for the collection of drift timber in the Gandak river and its tributaries, in the Champaran and Saran districts, in supersession of the rules now in force dated the 3rd July 1888 :—

DRAFT NOTIFICATION.

The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to direct, under section 45 of the Indian Forest Act (VII of 1878 as amended by Act V of 1890), that the river Gandak and its tributaries in the Champaran and Saran districts, or along their borders down to the point where they are crossed by the Motihari-Chapra road, including an area within a direct distance of two miles from either bank of the main stream of the Gandak river, taking that stream at its cold season level (provided always that these areas are within his jurisdiction), are areas within which all unmarked timber shall be considered to be the property of Government, unless or until any person establishes his right and title thereto under the provisions of the said Act and the rules made under it.

Within the areas above specified all timber and wood of the kind referred to in section 45, Act VII of 1878, shall be exempt from the provisions of that section, excepting sal, sissu, deodar, tun, asaina, halda, chir, and sandan, in pieces exceeding 2 feet in girth and 4 feet in length.

The Lieutenant-Governor approves the following rules with regard to the collection of drift timber in the Gandak river and its tributaries in the Champaran and Saran districts :—

DRAFT RULES.

Drift Timber Rules for the River Gandak and its tributaries, so far as they flow in or along the boundaries of the Champaran and Saran districts, within the jurisdiction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, made under section 51 of the Indian Forest Act.

1. Drift Timber may be salved by any person.—All timber found adrift, beached, stranded or sunk; all wood or timber bearing marks which have not been registered under section 41, Act VII of 1878, or on which the marks have been obliterated, altered or defaced by fire or otherwise, and all unmarked timber, may be salved by any person within the area above notified.

2. Report to be made when wood or timber is salved.—The salver shall intimate the fact that he has salved wood or timber to the Divisional Forest Officer in charge of the drift operations, or to the nearest police-station, or to such police or other officer or subordinate as the Divisional Forest Officer may from time to time direct to receive such reports; every such police or other officer or subordinate shall be bound to give a receipt to the person so intimating, and report the same, without unnecessary delay, to the Divisional Forest Officer in charge of the forest division to which the control of the river pertains.

3. Salvage fees.—Any such person who shall have salved wood or timber under these rules shall be entitled to receive as salvage fees—

(a) in the case of wood or timber, the ownership of which is proved and admitted under section 47 of the Indian Forest Act—from the owner, through the Forest Officer, a sum not exceeding 25 per cent. of the value thereof, as adjudged by the Divisional Forest Officer in charge of the drift operations;

(b) in the case of wood or timber that becomes vested in Government under section 48 of the Indian Forest Act—from Government a sum not exceeding 25 per cent. of the net balance of the sale price of the said wood or timber, after deducting therefrom all expenses of transport and other charges (if any): such salvage fees to be paid after the sale has been effected.

4. Payment is required when drift timber is shown to be the property of a claimant.—No such wood or timber shall be delivered to any claimant who under section 47 of the Indian Forest Act has been recognised to be the owner until, under section 50 of the said Act, he shall have paid to the Divisional Forest Officer 25 per cent. of its value as adjudged by that officer, together with such other expenses as may have been incurred in salving the said wood or timber. Should the recognised owner fail to make these payments within 10 days of his receiving intimation from the Divisional Forest Officer of the amount due, the property salved shall be dealt with (under section 48 of the Act) as unclaimed timber.

5. Salved timber which may become vested in Government to be sold to the best advantage.—All drift and stranded wood and timber salved under these rules, which may become vested in Government under section 48 of the Indian Forest Act, shall be sold to the best advantage after two months from the expiry of the period fixed for the disposal of claims under section 46 of the said Act.

6. Drift and stranded timber when sold to be marked with the departmental sale mark.—Drift and stranded wood and timber when sold by the Forest Department will be marked with the departmental sale mark, and, when relinquished under rule 4, with a suitable distinguishing mark.

7. Grant of passes.—For all timber removed from the area above notified a printed and numbered pass must be obtained from such officials as may be appointed by Divisional Forest Officers, on which shall be clearly entered the number of pieces and the kinds of wood and timber and the amount realized from the purchaser or claimant over the signature of the official appointed to this duty.

8. Penalty clause.—Any person who shall infringe any of the provisions of these rules shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

The Lieutenant-Governor is further pleased, under section 2 of the Indian Forest Act (VII of 1878), to vest the Collectors of the Champaran and Saran districts, the Subdivisional Officers of Bettiah and Gopalganj, and the officer in charge of the Gorakhpur Forest Division, Oudh Circle, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, with the powers of Forest Officers for the purpose of carying out the rules made under section 51 of the said Act for the salving, collection and disposal of drift and stranded wood and timber on the river Gandak and its tributaries, so far as they flow within their jurisdiction, in or along the borders of the Champaran and Saran districts.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT,—BENGAL.

DISTRICT ROAD FUND.

NOTIFICATION—No. 313.

Dated Calcutta, the 24th November 1893.

THE accompanying annual accounts, and abstract of the report, of the District Road Committee of the district of Darjeeling, for the year 1892-93, together with the remarks thereon of the Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division, are published for general information.

F. J. JOHNSTONE,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Abstract of the Report of the Chairman, District Road Committee of Darjeeling, for the year 1892-93.

THE opening balance of the year was Rs. 26,615-8-3. To this the income, viz., Rs. 21,365-12, of the year from the different sources being added, the total amount available for expenditure was Rs. 47,981-4-3. The amount actually expended was Rs. 13,571-1-4, leaving a balance of Rs. 34,410-2-11. The actual cash balance, however, was Rs. 8,407-9-10; and the difference, Rs. 26,002-9-1, represented the amount that remained unadjusted out of the advances made during the year and previous years. The advances include an item of Rs. 18,565 placed at the credit of the Executive Engineer, Darjeeling Division, for the construction of a suspension bridge over the Balasan river at Panighatta.

2. Assessment and Collection of the Road Cess.—The maximum rate of Road Cess was levied during the year. The demand of the year was Rs. 17,052 against Rs. 17,065 of the year preceding. The decrease is due partly to the result of revaluation of an estate under section 13 of the Cess Act, and partly to the abatement of the demand on a freehold, "The Retreat," sanctioned in Board's No. 253A., dated 9th May 1892. The whole of this demand was collected during the year and by advance collections in previous years, except Rs. 28. The collections include Rs. 1,279, being advance payments for future years.

3. Working of the Committee.—The number of meetings held during the year was 4, the average attendance of official members in each was 2, and of non-official members 4·22. The number of members of the District Road Committee was reduced from 24 to 18. The meetings held by Terai Branch Committee during the year were seven, the average attendance of official members in each was 1·85 and of non-official 6·85. The members both of the District and of the Terai Branch Road Committee showed considerable interest in the business brought before them. The Terai Branch Road Committee is especially effective and deligent.

4. List of roads.—In the hills the road from Tukvar to Great Rungeet, No. 2, was widened and otherwise improved. Road No. 28, Bogdogra to Tirihana, in the Terai list, was transferred to the Public Works Department, as it is an important road and requires more money to be spent upon it than the cess funds can afford.

5. Original works.—The Committee undertook no original work, except the construction of the suspension bridge over the Balasan at Panighatta; but as the amount of the estimate for this bridge has been advanced to the Public Works Department, and as no part of the expenditure has yet been adjusted, nothing has been shown in the accounts as expended on this work during the year.

6. Repairs.—The usual annual repairs to the roads were carried out by the gentlemen in charge, and to them the thanks of the Committee are due. The total expenditure under this head on hill roads and bridges was Rs. 5,324-2-9 against Rs. 4,348-15-11 last year, and that on Terai roads and bridges was Rs. 5,074-8-5 against Rs. 6,109-12-6 of the year preceding. Out of Rs. 5,074-8-5, Rs. 753-9-9 were expended on surface tracks. The apparent increase of expenditure both in the hills and Terai is due to an increased amount of advances being adjusted during the year. The accounts show no debit against some of the roads. This is owing to the fact that although advances were made for most of them to the gentlemen in charge, accounts of expenditure were not received during the year, and therefore the amounts expended could not be debited to the roads.

7. Establishments.—There is no District Engineer here. The only staff for works employed is one sub-overseer under the Terai Branch Committee.

8. Inspection of Accounts.—The Examiner of Local Accounts audited the accounts in May 1892. The audit note contained nothing requiring notice.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 28th November 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 25TH OF NOVEMBER 1893.

At the close of the previous week conditions were of ordinary monsoon character over Bengal. In the Arabian Sea, however, a small cyclonic storm had formed, which was advancing northwards. On the other hand, in the Bay conditions were normal, and only light monsoon weather prevailed in the south of the Bay and fine weather over the remainder. On the 19th, or the first day of the present week, conditions remained practically unchanged in Bengal, pressure having risen slowly at nearly all stations; while, on the other hand, temperature was usually falling, and both pressure and temperature were usually in slight excess. The small but rather severe storm in the Arabian Sea continued to advance northwards towards the Runn of Cutch. In the Bay of Bengal, also, winds at the eastern stations began to strengthen, and disturbed and unsettled weather, or perhaps even a small storm, was formed in the south-east of the Bay on this day. On the 20th the barometric changes over Bengal were exceedingly small, the fall of temperature had practically ceased, while humidity was increasing at many stations, and the sky was also clouding over to a certain extent. The storm from the Arabian Sea had struck the Kathiwar coast near Verawal, and was giving very unsettled weather with rain over a large part of North-Western India. In the Bay of Bengal, also, the small storm or disturbed weather commenced to move in a westerly direction from the south-east of the Bay, and hence conditions over a large area were very disturbed. On the 21st the conditions in Bengal began to show the effect of the disturbances, the barometric changes were decidedly irregular, temperature was increasing rather rapidly, while humidity was also decidedly high at the majority of stations. The disturbed conditions and rainfall due to the storm from the Arabian Sea had spread over Central India and the North-Western Provinces, and the rainfall had even reached the Bihar stations, where rather numerous showers were reported, while a few light showers also fell in East Bengal. The disturbance in the Bay apparently continued its westerly movement across the south of the Bay. On the 22nd the increase of pressure continued over a large part of Bengal, while temperature was still rising at the southern and eastern stations, though a fall had set in at the western and northern stations. Wind directions had become decidedly irregular, humidity was very high in all districts, while the sky was considerably clouded over a large part of the province. Showers also were again reported in Bihar and Chota Nagpur. In the south of the Bay the small storm was approaching the South Madras coast. On the 23rd a slight to moderate fall of pressure had occurred, while temperature and humidity were beginning to decrease at the majority of stations. Winds were also again becoming more northerly, and conditions were much more settled, so that practically no rain was reported on this day. In the south of the Bay the storm had approached quite close to the coast, but it was of small size and not very intense, though it gave north-easterly gales and very heavy rain along the South Madras coast. On the 24th, again, the barometric changes over Bengal were small, and the pressure distribution was nearly normal, winds were usually north-westerly and northerly, while temperature and humidity had again increased at many stations, and the sky was also moderately clouded over a large part of the province. The small storm from the Bay had passed westward across the south of the peninsula, and had entered the Arabian Sea, so that conditions in the Bay began to improve. On the 25th a decidedly rapid increase of pressure had occurred over Bengal, and pressure had become in considerable excess. Temperature was also above the normal at almost all stations by amounts increasing towards the west of the province, where the excess in the mean temperature was about 6° to 7°. Winds also were rather more variable than they had been, and a few rain showers were reported in North Bengal. In the south of the Bay the disturbed weather, due to the small storm, had to a great extent disappeared.

It will be thus seen that weather conditions generally during the week have been very decidedly disturbed by the existence of the two storms, one from the Arabian Sea and one in the Bay of Bengal. Hence, as is usual during disturbed weather, temperature and humidity have been decidedly high in Bengal, the sky has been also much more clouded than usual during the north-east monsoon months, and light showers have fallen in many districts. At the close of the week, however, the disturbed conditions due to the two storms were very rapidly passing away.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been in excess of the normal in all districts, the usual excess equalling about 0·03″ to 0·05″. The excess has usually been smallest at the extreme western stations.

Temperature.—Has been very decidedly above the normal throughout the week. The average excess for the whole province has equalled no less than 2·7°, and it has been largest in the western districts, where in Chota Nagpur it has been as much as 4°.

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the usual temperature for the present season, are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period.

The main excess, it will be seen, has occurred in the night or minimum temperatures, which at such stations as Patna, Gaya, and Purnea have been about 7° higher than usual:—

Rainfall.—The division receiving the largest fall has been South Bihar, which has averaged 0·11 inch. Smaller falls averaging only a few hundredths of an inch have also occurred in North Bihar and in East and North Bengal. The falls, however, have been of little practical importance.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 25th of November 1893:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 8C, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.
